Tablighis made 'scapegoats'

It is high time authorities concerned repented this action against the foreigners..., observes the Bombay High Court

AGENCIES

Aurangabad, August 22: Quashing FIRs against three dozen Tablighi Jamaat followers, the Bombay High Court has said that there is a possibility that those who were present in the organisation's Delhi headquarters were chosen to be made scapegoats. The court slammed the media propaganda to blame them for the Covid-19 spread.

"It can be said that due to the action taken, a fear was created in the minds of those Muslims. There is a smell of malice to take action against these foreigners and other Muslims for their alleged activities," the court said in a ruling Friday.

Bombay High Court (Aurangabad Bench), Justice TV Nalawade and Justice MG Sewlikar quashed the First Information Reports registered against six Indians and 29 foreigners who were present at the Jamaat congregation in Delhi in March.

"There was virtually a persecution of these foreigners. A political government tries to find the scapegoats... and circumstances show that there is a probability that these foreigners were chosen to be made the scapegoats," the court ruled.

Making strong observations, the court said that there was a "big propaganda in the print and electronic media against these foreigners and attempts were made to paint a picture that these foreigners were responsible for the spread of coronavirus in India."

"The propaganda against the so-called religious activity was unwarranted as records and submissions proved that it had been going on for over 50 years," said Justice Nalawade and Justice Sewlikar.

However, these circumstances and

- IT WAS INDICATED THAT EVEN FOR KEEPING CONTACT WITH THE MUSLIMS OF OTHER COUNTRIES, ACTION WILL BE TAKEN AGAINST THEM (INDIAN MUSLIMS)

It said that records show that the Centre took action against mainly Muslims who attended the Nizamuddin Markaz of the Tablighi Jamaat, but not against persons or foreigners belonging to other religions.

"This action indirectly gave a warning to the Indian Muslims that action in any form and for anything can be taken against them. It was indicated that even for keeping contact with the Muslims of other countries, action will be taken against them," the court added.

Rejecting the plea by government counsel MM Nerlikar to stay the judgment to enable a legal challenge to the same, the court said that the foreigners cannot immediately leave India and there is a "long procedure to grant permission to them and send them to their countries."

the latest figures of the spread of the infection in India show that "such action against the present petitioners should not have been taken."

CITY MAY SEE 5K CASES BY SEPT 15

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, August 22: Observing an exponential increase in Covid cases here, Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC), Saturday, stated that the city has now entered "critical" phase. It projected that the state capital will have 5,000 active cases by mid-September.

Addressing a press conference here, BMC Commissioner, Prem Chandra Chaudhary said that they are working out two scenarios; the first: active cases are expected to increase to 3,429 by August end. According to the second scenario there could be 5,000 cases by September 15.

"Positivity rate under the BMC jurisdiction has risen to 10 pc with more than 300 cases being observed daily. COVID in Bhubaneswar has attained its peak and coming one month will be critical. The rise in cases is mainly due to increased testing and commercial activities resuming," Chaudhary highlighted.

Detailing about the preparedness against the upcoming surge, the Commissioner stated that the BMC has done a backhand calculation of the available COVID facilities. He further informed that the city is "in a comfortable position" as far as availability of beds is concerned.

Comparing Bhubaneswar with other cities on basis of sero-surveillance results, Chaudhary mentioned that the city still remains the "best protected capital cities."

"While antibody development in the survey in other cities has been found close to 29 pc, it remains only 1.24 pc here," he said.

However, describing the coming period as challenging, the Commissioner requested denizens to strictly follow the COVID guidelines of social distancing and wearing masks. "Ahead of Ganesh Chaturthi, mass violations were observed. Thus, I advise people to personally adhere to COVID norms for their own safety," he concluded.

BMC targets to keep 40 to 50 pc cases in home isolation by Aug-end

- Under the civic body jurisdiction, 4,151 beds at different COVID hosps, CCHs and DCHs ready
- 38 pc beds occupied by BMC patients, 21 pc beds by non-BMC patients
- 41 pc of the beds unoccupied

While antibody development across other cities has been found close to 29 pc on average, it remains only 1.24 pc here

Covid pandemic may 'vanish' faster than Spanish-flu

AGENCIES

Geneva, August 22: Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, the Director-General of the World Health Organization (WHO), said that the ongoing global coronavirus pandemic could be over within two years. Addressing a virtual press briefing from Geneva Friday, the WHO chief said that the Spanish flu of 1918 had also taken two years to overcome, but current advances in technology could enable the world to halt the Covid-19 pandemic "in a shorter time," the BBC reported.

"Of course with more 'connectivity', the virus has a better chance of spreading," he said.

"But at the same time, we have also the technology to stop it, and the knowledge to stop it," he said, stressing the importance of "national unity, global solidarity."

During the briefing, Tedros also responded to a question about corruption linked to personal protective equipment (PPE), which he described as "criminal."

"Any type of corruption is unacceptable," he said.

"However, corruption related to PPE... for me it's actually murder. Because if health workers work without PPE, we're risking their lives. And that also risks the lives of the people they serve," the BBC quoted the Director-General as saying.

Tedros also said that the pandemic has given new impetus to the need to accelerate efforts to respond to climate change, Xinhua news agency quoted him.

"Throughout history, outbreaks and pandemics have changed economies and societies, this one will be no different."

Noting that the global health crisis "has given us a glimpse of our world as it could be: cleaner skies and rivers... Building back better means building back greener."

In May, WHO published its Manifesto for a Healthy Recovery from Covid-19, with six policy prescriptions for a healthy and green recovery - protecting nature, investing in water and sanitation, promoting healthy food systems, transitioning to renewable energy, building liveable cities, and stopping subsidies on fossil fuels.

Since then, over 40 million health professionals from 90 countries have sent a letter to G20 leaders, calling for a healthy recovery from the pandemic.

The WHO chief reiterated that "Covid-19 is a once-in-a-century health crisis. But it also gives us a once-in-a-century opportunity to shape the world our children will inherit - the world we want."

As of Saturday, the overall number of global coronavirus cases stood at 22,864,873, while the fatalities rose to 797,787.

Babus, netas eyeing Dharmasala land: Patra

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, August 22: The Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) national spokesperson, Sambit Patra, Saturday attacked the state government over its alleged move to sell Bagala Dharmasala land in Puri to private hoteliers. He alleged that many government officials and MPs/MLAs had eyed the segregated plots of the land to get commercial benefits. He also lambasted the government for selling the donated land in contravention of established laws.

"I have been told by the people of Puri that different government officials and MPs, MLAs are trying to grab the plots from the heritage building which was meant to serve the poor. This is a huge conspiracy," Patra told reporters.

He said the Dharmasala was built in 1905 and was donated. "There are established laws which prevent sale of Dharmasala received from donations. It has a historic significance and was used by the people in Puri at very low

BAGALA LAND HAS NOT BEEN SOLD TO ANYONE: ADMIN

PURI: Amid a raging controversy over the alleged sale of Bagala Dharmasala land in the Holy City here, the district administration Saturday claimed that it had not sold the shelter house land to anyone.

In a press statement, the administration claimed that it has only rehabilitated a few evicted Srimandir servitors and other individuals at the dharmasala land for the smooth implementation of the heritage corridor project around the 12th century shrine. The state government has approved a rehabilitation policy for the evicted locals. "Bagala Dharmasala has 2 acre and 738 decimal land in Puri. A few evicted servitors and others have been rehabilitated on 12 per cent of the land of the shelter house," said the press statement.

The administration said many Srimandir servitors and locals have donated their ancestral land to facilitate the heritage corridor project. It claimed that the landed properties of Bagala Dharmasala were earlier under the ownership of Lodging House Fund Committee but the properties were brought under the control of the revenue department recently.

"Bagala Dharmasala had the capacity to provide shelter facility to only 200 devotees. The state government is constructing a pilgrim centre at the dharmasala to provide shelter to at least 2,000 devotees from poor financial background," said the administration.

The administration further claimed that the state government will make arrangements for accommodation of additional 8,000 devotees in Puri. "The state government has planned to provide shelter facility to around 10,000 poor devotees in the Holy City," it added.

CHINA ALONE

As long as the costs of expansionism remain manageable, Xi will stay the course, seeking to exploit electoral politics and polarisation in major democracies. The Indo-Pacific's major democratic powers must not let that happen, which means ensuring that the costs for China do not remain manageable for long

In his most recent New Year's speech, Chinese President Xi Jinping declared that 2020 would be 'a milestone.' Xi was right, but not in the way he expected. Far from having "friends in every corner of the world," as he boasted in his speech, China has severely damaged its international reputation, alienated its partners, and left itself with only one real lever of power: brute force. Whether the prospect of isolation thwarts Xi's imperialist ambitions, however, remains to be seen.

Historians will most likely view 2020 as a watershed year. Thanks to COVID-19, many countries learned hard lessons about China-dependent supply chains, and international attitudes toward China's communist regime shifted. The tide began to turn when it was revealed that the Communist Party of China hid crucial information from the world about COVID-19, which was first detected in Wuhan - a finding confirmed by a recent US intelligence report. Making matters worse, Xi attempted to capitalise on the pandemic, first by hoarding medical products - a market China dominates - and then by stepping up aggressive expansionism, particularly in the Indo-Pacific region. This is driving rapid change in the region's geostrategic landscape, with other powers preparing to counter China.

For starters, Japan now seems set to begin cooperating with the Five Eyes - the world's oldest intelligence-gathering and sharing alliance, comprising Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United States. A new 'Six Eyes' alliance would serve as a crucial pillar of Indo-Pacific security. Moreover, the so-called Quad - comprising Australia, India, Japan, and the US - seems poised to deepen its strategic collaboration. This represents a notable shift for India, in particular, which has spent years attempting to appease China.

As US National Security Adviser Robert O'Brien recently noted, "the Chinese have been very aggressive with India" lately. Since late April, the People's Liberation Army has occupied several areas in the northern Indian region of Ladakh, turning up the heat on a long-simmering border conflict. This has left Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi with little choice but to change course. Modi is considering inviting Australia to participate in the annual Malabar naval exercise with Japanese, American, and Indian forces later this year. Australia withdrew from the exercise in 2008 when it involved only the US and India. Although Japan's participation was regularised in 2015, India had hesitated to bring Australia back into the fold, for fear of provoking China. Not anymore. With Australia again involved in Malabar, the Quad grouping will have a formal, practical platform for naval drills.

Already, cooperation among Quad members is gaining some strategic heft. In June, Australia and India signed the Mutual Logistics Support Arrangement to increase military interoperability through bilateral defense activities. India has a similar pact with the US and is set to sign one with Japan shortly. Japan, for its part, recently added Australia, India, and the UK as defense intelligence sharing partners by tweaking its 2014 state secrets law, which previously included exchanges only with the US. This will strengthen Japanese security cooperation under 2016 legislation that redefined Japan's US-imposed pacifist post-war constitution in such a way that Japan may now come to the aid of allies under attack. Thus, the Indo-Pacific's democracies are forging closer strategic bonds in response to China's increasing aggression. The next logical step would be for these countries to play a more concerted, coordinated role in advancing broader regional security. The problem is that American, Australian, Indian, and Japanese security interests are not entirely congruent. For India and Japan, the security threat China poses is much more acute and immediate, as shown by China's aggression against India and its increasingly frequent incursions into Japanese waters. Moreover, India is the only Quad member that maintains a land-based defense posture, and it faces the very real prospect of a serious conflict with China on its Himalayan border.

The US, by contrast, has never considered a land war against China. Its primary objective is to counter China's geopolitical, ideological, and economic challenges to America's global preeminence. America's pursuit of this objective will be President Donald Trump's most-consequential foreign-policy legacy.

Australia, meanwhile, must engage in a delicate balancing act. While it wants to safeguard its values and regional stability, it remains economically dependent on China, which accounts for one-third of its exports. So, even as Australia has pursued closer ties with the Quad, it has spurned US calls to join naval patrols in the South China Sea. As its foreign minister, Marise Payne, recently declared, Australia has 'no intention of injuring its relationship with China.'

If China continues pursuing an expansionist strategy, however, such hedging will no longer be justifiable. Japanese Defense Minister Taro Kono recently declared that the 'consensus in the international community' is that China must be 'made to pay a high price' for its muscular revisionism in the South and East China seas, the Himalayas, and Hong Kong. He is right - the emphasis is on 'high.'

As long as the costs of expansionism remain manageable, Xi will stay the course, seeking to exploit electoral politics and polarisation in major democracies. The Indo-Pacific's major democratic powers must not let that happen, which means ensuring that the costs for China do not remain manageable for long.

Machiavelli famously wrote that, "It is better to be feared than loved." Xi is not feared so much as hated. But that will mean little unless the Indo-Pacific's major democracies get their act together; devise ways to stem Chinese expansionism, reconcile their security strategies, and contribute to building a rules-based regional order. Their vision must be clarified and translated into a well-defined policy approach, backed with real strategic weight. Otherwise, Xi will continue to use brute force to destabilise the Indo-Pacific further, possibly even starting a war.

Not a popular govt's record

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has deputed five teams to investigate the death of an actor who killed himself. I do not know why the CBI is investigating it nor do I understand why there is such great public interest in this issue. I have been told that this is because of some political reason linked to the election in Bihar. If there is, I am not able to understand what it is. Bihar is the oldest political entity in India going back to the time of Chandragupta Maurya and Chanakya.

Are Biharis so naive as to vote based on this sort of material? Perhaps they are and I will be disappointed to know that this is the case. Bihar is one of the poorest parts of the world. They have been governed by two parties that have been in charge for a decade. Will the voter determine whether or not to vote for them based on a Bollywood event? If so, it is amazing. Two other reasons have been put forward as possible reasons for the pushing of this story. First that it is targeted at the son of the Maharashtra Chief Minister. Second that it is aimed in some fashion at the Muslim actors of Bollywood. That seems to me to be more reasonable given our times. This government is hostile to Muslims and will use any lie to attack them including this one.

But to return to the question of voter interest, it was written this week by my friend Shekhar Gupta that the Prime Minister would return to power in 2024 unless he inflicted damage on himself. Gupta's argument so far as I have understood it is that the damage inflicted on the voter is not relevant because the voter doesn't care about such things as the collapse in the economy, the record unemployment, the occupation of our land by China and the inability of this government to contain the Covid epidemic.

Gupta did not explain in detail how he had come to this conclusion but he said that a survey that had a previously good track record showed that Modi was at the peak of his popularity. Again, I do not know if this is the case but it would be quite interesting if this were to be so. Our GDP has been declining since January 2018 for nine successive quarters, based on Modi's own data. Unemployment has been the highest that it has ever been recorded in India, again according to the government's own data. It is unclear who believes Modi when he says that there has been no Chinese intrusion, I hope it is not the Prime Minister himself because that would be a sign of delusion.

We are currently engaged with the Chinese in trying to get them to withdraw from our land and our generals have had half a dozen meetings with them already. Presumably these meetings are being held because what Modi says (or believes) is untrue. There is no reason to negotiate with them if they are not on our property.

On Covid the data is clear: We are number three in the world in terms of the number of cases, we are number one in terms of the number of daily cases and we will likely end up with the most infected people in the world.

This is not the record of a government and a Prime Minister who is popular. In another nation this would signal disaster politically. Is it the case that for all or most Indian voters, their political affiliation is unrelated to their actual life? Could it be that we vote as we do a Facebook like or Twitter forward? Is our political action through voting and support of a party based not on its performance but on its image? Surely this is not true and even if it is true for many, it cannot be true for all. Certainly it is not true for me.

But how many people think normally in this way? If there were many, then we would not have the circus that we do on an actor's death at a time which is the worst that I can remember, and I am not a young man. I cannot remember a time in my life when we had such economic strife, such levels of unemployment, a national epidemic and the enemy inside our house and such little interest in these and a focus on Bollywood and temples and such things.

Is this who we really are as citizens, individuals and voters? I should hope not. I do not think that our young generation of this time certainly or the next will be so unconcerned about their politics. The question is whether the current generations of our time do not care about the nation's security, their health, their employment and their future and whether they are more interested in Bollywood. I do not have the answer to this but it is an answer that we will know for certain fairly soon.

Care not for time and success. Act out thy part, whether it be to fail or to prosper.

Afghan peace process affecting India

S.B. Asthana

INDIA HAS TO BE WATCHFUL OF THE IRAN-PAKISTAN-CHINA AXIS DEVELOPING IN THE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF AFGHANISTAN, WITH TENTACLES IN THE FORM OF TERROR GROUPS INSIDE IT

The Loya Jirga assembled in Kabul two weeks ago gave the go-ahead for the release of the last of the 400 Taliban prisoners. After the recent release of 80 prisoners, a temporary halt on the release of the remaining 320 is in effect, as a few more countries (France and Australia) shared the apprehensions of the Afghan government and public, that the prisoners in question had conducted violent attacks on Afghans and foreigners.

The release was part of a peace agreement signed between the Taliban and the US February 29 to clear the last hurdle for the beginning of intra-Afghan talks. A quick announcement of US withdrawal of another 4,000 troops, post Loya Jirga's decision, indicated US fulfilment of its obligations as per the deal. The US may commend its Special Envoy for Afghanistan, Zalmay Khalilzad, the architect of the deal, but the fact is that the Taliban controls more territory in Afghanistan now than at the time when the US entered the war; and terror groups like al Qaeda, IS, Haqqani Network co-exist with Taliban. The peace deal does not guarantee success of intra-Afghan dialogue; hence all stakeholders have to wait and see its progress with hope, as well as apprehension.

India, having made significant investments in Afghanistan, will always hope for an Afghan elected, Afghan-led, Afghan-owned peace and reconciliation process and a popular democratic government in Afghanistan. However, the Taliban continues to be a force to reckon with. The US-led invasion ousted the Taliban post September 11, 2001 attacks. After losing 2,400 US soldiers, thousands of Afghan troops, Taliban fighters and Afghan civilians and spending more than $1 trillion, a war fatigue of 19 years for peace of another country, is enough reason to pull out. Besides, there was Trump's election promise to end the war. The Taliban's assurance of not allowing the use of Afghan soil for terrorism seems too good to be true; hence the US defense chief indicated that it will not hesitate to nullify the deal if the Taliban failed to hold its promises.

The Afghan government had no choice but to go along with the deal due to lack of any leverage, as the Taliban refused to talk to them and the election results were not convincing enough to put them in the driver's seat. The Taliban and Pakistan's promise to renounce support to al-Qaeda and fighting ISIS is unrealistic, because ISKP, AQIS and Haqqani network are already active, with no visible disturbance from the Taliban and continued support from Pakistan. The Taliban will continue to use violence as leverage for a better bargaining position even in intra-Afghan talks. The recent attack by ISKP on the Afghan prison housing Taliban prisoners, the earlier attack on a Gurdwara, and the new Pakistani leader from Haqqani network joining ISKP, indicates close linkages of all terror groups, including Pakistan-based ones. The Taliban will not sit quiet unless it gains power. Even if its leaders put up a facade of giving reasonable governance if brought into the power structure, its cadres are unlikely to settle down without Sharia.

The Chinese are keen to extend the BRI to Afghanistan to get an alternate axis to warm water in Gulf should the CPEC face problems, besides exploiting mineral wealth of Afghanistan. Iran is economically weak and needs Chinese support. The China-Iran strategic partnership fructifying the $400 billion deal may be an impediment for Indian entry routes into Afghanistan through Chabahar and further connectivity to International North South Transportation Corridor; although Iran has not given any signals of disruption of these projects.

India has to be watchful of the Iran-Pakistan-China axis developing in the neighbourhood of Afghanistan, with tentacles in the form of terror groups inside it. Since 2001, India has undertaken projects worth $3 billion in Afghanistan. Besides engaging with all stakeholders, including Taliban, a watch on anti-India nexus of terror groups is in India's interest.

India needs to exercise some smart diplomacy to convince the US that Indian engagement with Iran is as much essential to prevent loss of strategic space of Afghanistan to China, as much as token presence of US troops there. It remains to be seen whether this deal will work, or the US pull back will leave behind a stronger Taliban, growing IS, suffering population of Afghanistan and new challenges for India.

WORDSWORTH

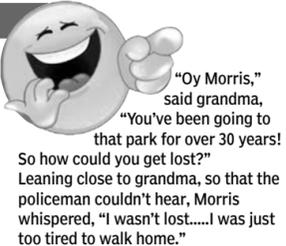

Thaumaturgy

Of all the words in English that refer to the making of magic, this is perhaps the most resonant. It doesn't have the negative associations of words such as sorcery or necromancy because it referred originally to the production of wonders for positive ends rather than any intent to cause someone harm. The origin is the Greek word thaumatourgos, miracle working (from thauma, marvel, plus ergos, work). Though it's not that common a word, it seems to have generated a surprisingly large set of derivatives since it first appeared in English in 1727. There are several words for a practitioner of thaumaturgy, including thaumaturge and thaumaturgist; another is thaumaturgus, which has been given to a number of Christian saints and others who are said to have performed wonders. The verb is thaumaturgise. The thaumatrope was a Victorian toy, a card with two different pictures on its back and front that magically combined into one when the card was rapidly spun. And aficionados of Terry Pratchett's Discworld novels will know that the wizards of Unseen University invented a device with which to measure the intensity of a magic field - what would you call that but a thaumometer?

Lost far from a home

A police car pulls up in front of grandma Bessie's house, and grandpa Morris gets out. The polite policeman explained that this elderly gentleman said that he was lost in the park...and couldn't find his way home.

"Oy Morris," said grandma, "You've been going to that park for over 30 years! So how could you get lost?" Leaning close to grandma, so that the policeman couldn't hear, Morris whispered, "I wasn't lost...I was just too tired to walk home."

Battle lines drawn

Sir, The much-awaited battle lines are drawn with the announcement of Joe Biden as the Presidential nominee of the Democrats for the November elections. Biden poses a great challenge to Trump as the former's candidature is well supported by Barrack Obama and Bill Clinton who are held in high esteem by Americans for their contribution to the country's causes in times of need. Adding to Trump's woes is Kamala Harris who has been fielded as Biden's deputy. Harris, an Afro-American, too represents South Asian interests as her mother hails from a South Indian state. However, these factors are crucial as far as the US elections are concerned. One, the American voters have a history of re-electing the incumbent President for the second time. Two, going by the recent Sino-Indian flare-up at the border and the Trump administration's overt support to India, the Indian-origin electorate in the US may prefer to go with the Republicans. This apart, India has been at one with Trump in matters of the spread of coronavirus from the Chinese soil. The point that goes in favour of Biden is that he was instrumental in the safe passage of the historic Indo-US nuclear deal during Obama's tenure. Joe may play this card for the Indians and those supporting India in South Asia. That said, only the results will decide the fate of Trump who has seen troubled times in his tenure, be it his fight against the pandemic or his tackling of the 'Black Lives Matter' movement. Focus on farming

Sir, Covid-19 is a great set back to the whole world. In India, lakhs of migrant labourers have returned to their home states with a bitter experience in their working place. Now is the appropriate time for the states to encourage organic farming. It's a fact that every year production of Ravi crops, like potato, onion, vegetables, and oil seeds is decreasing. This may be due to lack of storage facilities and irrigation. This low production leads to soaring of prices of the essential commodities to a level which is beyond the reach of the common man. Our governments (both state and central) should launch massive publicity by going village to village and motivate farmers by giving support to their agricultural needs. On the other hand, the governments should minimise free food schemes supply as it has serious negative impacts. Indirectly, such schemes persuade the huge man-power to sit idle. Now, the time has come for action. Adequate stress on agriculture may boost the rural economy and reduce the flow of population from rural to urban areas. Ramdas Ray, BHUBANESWAR

GUPKAR DECLARATION-II

Nothing about us without us, say J&K parties

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Srinagar, August 22: Making clear there can be 'nothing about us without us' in Jammu and Kashmir, six mainstream political parties termed abrogation of special status of the erstwhile state as a 'spitefully short-sighted' and 'grossly unconstitutional' move and pledged a combined effort for restoration of the pre-August 5 position of last year.

A resolution termed Gupkar Declaration-II was circulated in media. It was signed by National Conference president Farooq Abdullah, PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti, J-K Congress chief GA Mir, Peoples' Conference leader Sajjad Lone, state CPM leader MY Tarigami and Jammu and Kashmir Awami National Conference senior vice-president Muzaffar Shah.

This is the first combined statement issued by the political parties after more than a year.

Acknowledging the difficulties in bringing out a resolution of all parties, it said the signatories to the Gupkar Declaration-I, signed August 4, 2019, "have barely managed to establish basic level of communication with each other" in the face of a series of prohibitive and punitive curbs imposed by the government, aimed at impeding all social and political interactions. The limited confabulations held within the constraints imposed have resulted in this unanimous resolution, it

COMBINED EFFORT

- The leaders of J&K's 6 mainstream parties had met on the eve of August 5, 2019 at the Gupkar residence of Farooq Abdullah and a statement, also known as 'Gupkar Declaration', had asked people to maintain calm and peace and urged the Centre not to alter the constitutional status of the erstwhile state
- However, the very next day the government moved a resolution in Parliament and announced abrogation of Article 370, a provision giving edge in residency and jobs to local people, and also bifurcated it into two union territories -- Ladakh, and Jammu and Kashmir
- The parties termed the abrogation of special status of the erstwhile state as a 'spitefully shortsighted' and 'grossly unconstitutional' move and pledged a combined effort for restoration of the pre-August 5 position of last year said. "We all reiterate that we are bound, wholly by the contents of the Gupkar Declaration and will unwaveringly adhere to it. We are committed to strive for the restoration of Articles 370 and 35A, the Constitution of J-K and the restoration of the state and any division of the state is unacceptable to us. We unanimously reiterate that there can be 'nothing about us without us'," Gupkar Resolution-II said.

The national and regional political parties termed the changes made in the state in August last year as "unfortunate" which have unconsciously changed the relationship between Jammu and Kashmir and New Delhi.

"In a spitefully shortsighted and unconstitutional move, Articles 370 and 35A were abrogated and the state was bifurcated and relegated to the status of two Union Territories and its Constitution tried to be made unenforceable," it said. It said the measures undertaken last year were "grossly unconstitutional" and in reality measures of disempowerment and a challenge to the basic identity of the people of J-K. "The measures attempt to redefine who we are. These changes were accompanied by repressive measures meant to silence people and coerce them into submission, and continue unabated," it said. "We all reiterate our commitment to collectively fight to restore the special status of J-K as guaranteed under the Constitution and the commitments made from time to time," the resolution said, adding these were the testing times and times of pain for the peace loving people of Jammu and Kashmir.

HC moved to know 'real reason' for lion deaths

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Gandhinagar, August 22: A PIL has been filed in Gujarat High Court, seeking direction to the state government not to suppress the 'real cause' of death of lions in Sasan Gir, the only abode of Asiatic lions in the world.

The petitioner also has raised questions about the procurement of the Canine Distemper Virus (CDV) vaccine to treat the big cats against the virus.

In his PIL, Varjang Galabhai Karamta, a resident of Maliya Hatina in Junagadh, raised the issue of deaths of lions in recent times and asked why is the state Forest Department not disclosing the real cause, and 'instead giving false information that the lions died due to fighting'.

The PIL has asked the high court to direct the state government to declare data of each and every lion on the official portal or website of the Forest Department, and reveal the exact cause of death of every lion in the recent times as well as in the past.

The petitioner has also sought a proper investigation of lions' deaths in the past.

Questioning the procurement of CDV vaccine from the US, the PIL said that the Chief Conservator of Forests, DT Vasavda had stated that there was no disease or virus infection in lions, and if "this was true, then why did the state government procure more than 1,100 vaccine doses".

The PIL has also raised questions about the administration of the vaccine. "Sasan Gir does not have adequate number of veterinary doctors and in their absence, forest guards and trackers are administering these vaccines to the big cats which could be very risky," it said.

Disturbed Areas Act extended to more localities in Vadodara

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Ahmedabad, August 22: The Gujarat government Saturday brought more areas in Vadodara city under the purview of the Disturbed Areas Act.

The Act bans sale of property by a member of one religious community to that of another community without the district collector's approval.

Zoji La, a tunnel of strategic significance

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, August 22: In a bid to ramp up infrastructure in the Himalayan region, the government has finalised bids to construct the Zoji La tunnel in the Jammu Kashmir and Ladakh region.

National Highways and Industrial Development Corporation (NHIDCL) opened the bids Friday as the government finally called for the tenders to complete the long-pending road tunnel, which will have to be constructed under critical conditions.

The bid for the project which will be constructed in two sections of about 33 kilometre has been won by the Megha Engineering and Infrastructure Limited (MEIL). The first section will involve the construction of a 18.50-kilometre road. The second section a horseshoe of 14.15 km Zoji La tunnel as a two-lane road of 9.5 meter width and 7.57 meter height.

The road from Srinagar to Leh in Ladakh is not suitable for vehicular traffic throughout the year. The Srinagar-Ladakh highway is completely closed for six months, especially during the winter season. So much so, that even the military vehicles are unable to move under these conditions.

The Border Roads Organisation (BRO) has decided to improve the road travel facilities to all commuters between Kashmir and Ladakh. As part of this plan, a highway tunnel will also be constructed from Srinagar to Baltal, which will improve the Amaranth Yatra of the pilgrims. Baltal base camp near Kargil is used for Amarnath yatra. Besides, two snow galleries will come up -- 300 meters and 150 meters each. India is making every effort to ramp up its Himalayan road infra. The total length of these works is 18.475 kilometres.

In Part-2, the construction will include a 0.16 km long cut and cover tunnel along with the above details regarding the tunnel. Even, ventilation cavern, three shafts will also be constructed. ## IS module busted in Kashmir

New Delhi, August 22: Five members of the Islamic State of Jammu & Kashmir (ISJK), who had planned to attack an Army camp in Kashmir valley, were arrested by the police from Bandipora district Saturday.

Official sources said that acting on a specific input, the Bandipora district police arrested five terror associates of the ISJK or Wilayah-al-Hind, the regional branch of the pan-Islamist terror group, ISIS.

Four of them are from different places in Bandipora and one is from Srinagar, sources said. Incriminating material including matrix sheets, ISJK flags and ammunition was recovered from their possession.

On preliminary inquiry, police sources said, it was found that these five members of the ISJK carried out a reeve of an army camp as they planned to attack it. The module was also providing support to the terror group in the valley and motivating and radicalising youth to join their terror ranks.

Sources said the group was manufacturing flags of the ISJK in Chittibandy Aragam and further supplying them to their associates in Srinagar.

The police has filed a case under Unlawful Activities Prevention Act at police Station Aragam and are further investigating the case.

Nagaland BCC warns against Chinese cult 'Church of Almighty'

NBCC general secretary Zehou Keyho in a letter to all executive secretaries and directors of Baptist associations under it, said: "I am writing this with a grave concern concerning a cult, called the Church of Almighty God from China, reportedly making inroads into our land. The Church of Almighty God or Eastern Lightning cult is a well organised group, aggressively moving forward with publications and creating many Facebook pages and colourful artwork that appears biblical and enticing."

The two-page August 19 letter, with the subject "Warning against cult" said that the cult teaches that Lord Jesus has come back to earth as a woman, named Yang Xiangbin, also called Lightning Deng, and the New Testament has been replaced by their new bible, called "The Word Appears in the Flesh".

"They teach that God is speaking through this woman, and they refer to God's speaking through this woman, as utterances, and these utterances are written in their books, as revelations from God, and they are being published and promoted through books, videos, computer generated movies and artwork and many other forms of media."

Keyho in his letter, available with IANS, wrote: "Jesus said in His Word that He would return to earth, not as the almighty who speaks through a woman from China, but as He was, is and ever shall be. Let us beware of this dangerous cult."

Don't restrict inter-state movement: Centre to states

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, August 22: In view of the reports of restrictions on inter-state and intra-state movement of people and goods, the Centre Saturday directed all states to follow the Unlock 3.0 guidelines and allow such movement without any separate permission or permit.

A letter by Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla to all Chief Secretaries draws their attention to "para 5 of Unlock 3.0 guidelines", which states that there will be no restrictions on inter-state and intra-state movement of persons and goods.

Citing the para, the letter mentions that no separate permission, approval and e-permit will be required for such movement of persons and goods for cross-border land trade under treaties with neighbouring countries.

The Home Secretary's letter notes that there are reports that local-level restrictions on movement were being imposed by various districts and states.

The letter says such restrictions were creating problems in inter-state movement of goods and services and impacting supply chains resulting in disruption of economic activity and employment.

"Such restrictions amount to violation of guidelines issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) under provisions of Disaster Management Act, 2005. No restrictions be imposed and it should be ensured that MHA guidelines are followed," says the letter.

She named people with a political background, student leaders, people from films, media and other walks of life as the accused. Those accused also include a few women.

In addition to 139 people named in the complaint, she alleged that four others whom she does not remember also raped her.

of the accused on 41 pages.

The police have sent the woman for medical examination and counselling. A police officer said they would verify the complaint and then decide on the future course of action. # Ganesh fest begins on low-key note as COVID-19 dampens spirit

DUE TO THE SUBDUED CELEBRATIONS, SMALL BUSINESSES THAT THRIVE DURING THE FESTIVAL TOOK A HIT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, August 22: Amid the coronavirus pandemic and restrictions on public movement, the 10-day Ganesh festival started in Mumbai and other parts of Maharashtra Saturday, although the usual pomp and glory was missing this year.

The Maharashtra government has issued guidelines regarding Ganeshotsav celebrations, saying that processions should not be taken out before installing and immersing the idols of the deity.

It also said that the heights of Lord Ganesh idols installed by sarvajanik (community) mandals and at household-level should be limited to four feet and two feet, respectively, this year.

As a result, the number of people coming out in the market to buy Ganpati idols for installation in their houses, housing societies and sarvajanik pandals, was limited. The usual spirit and fervour of the festival was relatively low this year.

Due to the subdued celebrations, small businesses of that thrive during the festival, like flower vendors, sweet shops, outlets selling decoration items, imitation jewellery and transporters took a hit. The pandemic also affected several others, including artists and transporters.

However, in some popular market places like Dadar in central Mumbai, people still came out in large numbers to purchase material required for decoration, puja rituals in the last couple of days. Lalbaugcha Raja, Mumbai's best-known sarvajanik Ganeshotsav mandal, cancelled the festival this year in view of the pandemic, while Wadala's GSB Sewa Samiti, considered one of the richest mandals in the metropolis, postponed the celebration to 'Magh Shudh Chaturthi' in February next year.

The usual pandal decorations in the city are missing this year and cultural events have been replaced by public awareness programmes and health camps by the mandals.

Mumbai and the neighbouring areas have been witnessing heavy rains since the last few days. The downpour continued on Saturday morning, but people stepped out to bring home the idols of the deity amid chants 'Ganpati bappa moraya'. In some areas firecrackers were also burst to welcome the Lord.

Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray also welcomed Lord Ganesh at his official residence

'Varsha'. Some celebrities and political leaders also installed the idols at their places.

The installation of the deity was done as per the rituals in the morning. Meanwhile, security has been beefed up in the city for the festival.

Apart from the local police, a company of Rapid Action Force (RAF), three companies of State Reserve Police Force (SRPF), local arms and riot control police have been deployed. Quick response teams, bomb disposal squads and anti-terrorism cells have also been put on alert to prevent untoward incidents and police will monitor the happenings in the city with the help of 5,000 CCTV cameras and also use drones for aerial surveillance, a police official said.

A joint venture between China-based CRRC Yongji Electric Company Ltd and Gurugram-based Pioneer Fil-Med Pvt Ltd was a frontrunner for the project

ARESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, August 22: India has cancelled a tender for making 44 semi-high speed "Vande Bharat" trains, the Railway Ministry said Friday night. It said a fresh tender will be floated within a week and give preference to the Centre's Make In India programme.

The move to cancel the tender is a big setback for China as a Chinese joint venture, CRRC Pioneer Electric (India) Pvt Ltd, was the only foreign bidder among the six contenders to supply 44 sets of semi-high speed train.

"Tender for manufacturing of 44 semi high speed train sets (Vande Bharat) has been cancelled. Fresh tender will be floated within a week as per Revised Public Procurement (Preference to Make in India) order," the Railway Ministry tweeted.

a week as per Revised Public Procurement (Preference to Make in India) order.

The joint venture was formed between China-based CRRC Yongji Electric Company Ltd and Gurugram-based Pioneer Fil-Med Pvt Ltd in 2015.

The railways is keen to ensure that a domestic firm takes the tender and once it was felt that the Chinese joint venture was a frontrunner for the project, it was scrapped, this news agency reported quoting unnamed sources.

The Indian Railways' Integral Coach Factory in Chennai had floated the tender July 10.

The other five bidders were Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd, Bharat Industries, Sangrur, Electrowaves Electronics Pvt Ltd, Medha Servo Drives Pvt Ltd, and Powernetics Equipment India Pvt Ltd, according to the Railway Ministry.

India has tightened trade ties with China after border tensions escalated to a violent face-off in eastern Ladakh in June. India lost 20 soldiers, while Chinese casualties were over 40, according to reports.

India has responded in a multi-dimensional way, from using diplomatic pressure with friendly nations to banning imports of Chinese products such as solar power equipment. The economic backlash extended to blocking 59 Chinese apps including TikTok, which had a massive user base in India.

The railways has already scrapped a tender for thermal cameras meant for COVID-19 surveillance after Indian firms alleged that the tender specifications favoured a Chinese company. The Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Ltd too cancelled a Rs470-crore contract with a Chinese firm days after the border clash in mid-June.

BSF kills 5 intruders along India-Pak IB

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chandigarh/New Delhi, August 22: The BSF shot dead five Pakistan intruders along the India-Pakistan International Border in Punjab's Tarn Taran district early Saturday, the force said.

This is the highest number of intruders killed in a single incident along the over 3,300 km-long border with Pakistan in more than a decade time period, officials said.

Punjab shares a 553-km-long frontier with Pakistan, apart from Jammu, Rajasthan and Gujarat, who together constitute the remaining part of the International Border.

A BSF spokesperson said troops recovered nine packets containing over 9 kg of heroin, along with an AK-47 rifle, two magazines and 27 rounds, four 9 mm Berretta pistols with seven magazines and 109 live rounds, two mobile phones and ₹610 in Pakistani currency.

The spokesperson said after suspicious activity was noticed near the border fence, the force personnel "cordoned the area and challenged the intruders to stop and surrender".

"The Pakistani armed intruders did not pay any heed to the challenge and opened fire on the BSF troops," the official said.

"Hence, to stop their further misadventure and in self-defence, the BSF troops retaliated with fire due to which the five Pakistani armed intruders succumbed to bullet injuries," he said.

A senior BSF official said the exchange of fire began around 4.45 am near the Dal border post which is close to Bhikhiwind town of the district and is guarded by the 103rd battalion of the Border Security Force under the Ferozepur sector.

BSF troops, officials said, first noticed suspicious activity at the border around midnight and launched a "focused" surveillance and set up multiple ambushes after which the "contact was established" early morning, just behind the IB fence.

The intruders were seen carrying rifles and were taking the aid of 'sarkanda' or tall grass to sneak into India, they said. A photo collage released by the BSF showed two bodies piled on each other.

China backs Pakistan on choosing 'independent' path

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Islamabad, August 22: China has come out in full support of Pakistan's position and stance on the Jammu and Kashmir issue along with its extended sustenance on Islamabad "independently" choosing a development path based on its "national conditions" in the context of external security parameters.

A joint statement issued after the talks between Pakistan Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi and China's State Councilor and Foreign Minister Wang Yi during Qureshi's two-day visit to Beijing said: "The Chinese side reiterated that Pakistan and China are iron brothers and Pakistan remains China's staunchest partner in the region and that China firmly supports Pakistan in safeguarding its territorial integrity, sovereignty and independence, and independently choosing a development path based on its national conditions, striving for a better external security environment and playing a more constructive role in international and regional affairs."

The Kashmir issue was also brought into consideration and discussion during the meeting. Qureshi briefed the Chinese side on the situation in what it calls 'Indian Illegally Occupied Jammu and Kashmir (IIOJK)'. China has seconded Pakistan's stance on Kashmir, declaring the dispute left over from the history between India and Pakistan, urging that the dispute should be resolved peacefully and properly through the UN charter, relevant Security Council resolutions and bilateral agreements. "China opposed any unilateral actions that complicate the situation," maintained the Chinese side.

It should be noted that it was China, which had requested a closed door discussion on the Jammu and Kashmir issue, seconding Islamabad's request on the same at the UN Security Council.

Other than the Kashmir issue, China's support to Pakistan for taking independent decision, in line with its national interests, is signalling alarm to the Arab world, which has been pushing Islamabad to distance itself from China and see its progress in its ties with the US and its allies.

The joint statement has reiterated that there would be no compromise on the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), highlighting that it would continue to pursue the completion of the China Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), brushing aside any pressure Islamabad faces from some external global powers.

Navalny stable after landing in Germany

When German specialists arrived aboard a plane equipped with advanced medical equipment Friday morning at his family's behest, Navalny's physicians in Omsk initially said he was too unstable to move

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Berlin, August 22: Russian dissident Alexei Navalny, who is in a coma after a suspected poisoning, arrived in Berlin on a special flight Saturday for treatment by specialists at the German capital's main hospital.

A representative of the NGO that arranged the flight confirmed that the plane had landed and that Navalny was in stable condition. "Navalny is in Berlin," Jaka Bizilj, of the German organization Cinema For Peace, said. "He survived the flight and he's stable." He said all other information on the 44-year-old's health would have to come from his family and the German doctors now looking after him. After touching down shortly before 9 a.m. at a special area of the capital's Tegel airport used for government and military flights, Navalny was taken by ambulance to the downtown campus of Berlin's Charite hospital.

Navalny, a politician and corruption investigator who is one of Russian President Vladimir Putin's fiercest critics, was admitted to an intensive care unit in the Siberian city of Omsk Thursday. His supporters believe that tea he drank was laced with poison — and that the Kremlin is behind both his illness and the delay in transferring him to a top German hospital.

When German specialists arrived aboard a plane equipped with advanced medical equipment Friday morning at his family's behest, Navalny's physicians in Omsk initially said he was too unstable to move. Navalny's supporters denounced that as a ploy by authorities to stall until any poison in his system would no longer be traceable. The Omsk medical team relented only after a charity that had organized the medevac plane revealed that the German doctors examined the politician and said he was fit to be transported.

Deputy chief doctor of the Omsk hospital Anatoly Kalinichenko then told reporters that Navalny's condition had stabilized and that physicians "didn't mind" transferring the politician, given that his relatives were willing "to take on the risks."

The Kremlin denied that resistance to the transfer was political, with spokesman Dmitry Peskov saying that it was purely a medical decision. However, the reversal came as international pressure on Russia's leadership mounted.

SECURITY THREAT UK PM FORCED TO CUT SHORT HOLIDAY

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, August 22: UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson has been forced to cut short his holiday with fiancée Carrie Symonds and their baby son Wilfred and dog Dilyn after the location of their cottage in the Scottish Highlands was leaked, triggering security concerns, according to a media report.

Johnson, 56, had taken time off for a so-called "staycation" within the UK during the peak summer holiday month of August when ministers often take a few weeks off from work.

The UK prime minister had chosen a remote cottage in Scotland but after photographs of the location emerged, he was forced to cut short the break and fly back to Downing Street on Thursday evening, "The Daily Telegraph" reports. A source close to the family told the newspaper their discovery had caused safety concerns and made it impossible for them to stay until the weekend as planned.

Unlike former British Prime Ministers, including David Cameron and Theresa May, who had allowed the press to take images of their summer holidays, Johnson had tried to keep his trip strictly private.

But pictures emerged recently, showing him out and about and also a bell tent pitched in a field next to the holiday home. According to reports, the tent was packed away after the landowner accused Johnson of camping without permission.

Pak puts more curbs on Azhar, Dawood

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Islamabad, August 22: Seeking to wriggle out of the FATF's grey list, Pakistan has imposed tough financial sanctions on 88 banned terror groups and their leaders, including Hafiz Saeed, Masood Azhar and Dawood Ibrahim, by ordering the seizure of all of their properties and freezing of bank accounts, a media report said Saturday.

The Paris-based Financial Action Task Force (FATF) put Pakistan on the grey list in June 2018 and asked Islamabad to implement a plan of action by the end of 2019, but the deadline was extended later due to COVID-19 pandemic.

The government issued two notifications August 18 announcing sanctions on key figures of terror outfits such as 26/11 Mumbai attack mastermind and Jamaat-ud-Dawa (JuD) chief Saeed, Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) chief Azhar, and underworld don Ibrahim.

Ibrahim, who heads a vast and multifaceted illegal business, has emerged as India's most wanted terrorist after the 1993 Mumbai bombings. The Pakistan government has proscribed 88 leaders and members of terrorist groups, in compliance with the new list issued by the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) recently, Pakistani daily The News reported.

The notifications announced sanctions on key figures of terror outfits such as the Jamaat-ud-Dawa (JuD), JeM, Taliban, Daesh, Haqqani Group, al-Qaeda, and others. The government ordered the seizure of all movable and immovable properties of these outfits and individuals, and freezing of their bank accounts, the report said.

These terrorists have been barred from transferring money through financial institutions, purchasing of arms and travelling abroad, it said. The notifications ratified a complete ban on all leaders and members of defunct Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP) hiding in the Pakistan-Afghanistan border areas.

The paper reported that Saeed, Azhar, Mullah Fazlullah (alias Mullah Radio), Zakiur Rehman Lakhvi, Muhammad Yahya Mujahid, Abdul Hakeem Murad, wanted by Interpol, Noor Wali Mehsud, Fazal Raheem Shah of Uzbekistan Liberation Movement, Taliban leaders Jalaluddin Haqqani, Khalil Ahmad Haqqani, Yahya Haqqani, and Ibrahim and his associates were on the list.

The notifications said that leadership of the defunct TTP, and other organisations have been banned. Though various sanctions were in place against almost all of those listed by the UNSC, the government through the new notifications consolidated and documented the previously announced measures, the report said.

BELARUS BLOCKS NEWS WEBSITES

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minsk, August 22: Authorities in Belarus have blocked an array of news media websites reporting on the country shaken by two weeks of protests against authoritarian President Alexander Lukashenko.

The Belarusian Association of Journalists said Saturday that more than 20 sites had been blocked, including those of US-funded Radio Liberty and Belsat, a Polish-funded satellite TV channel focusing on Belarus.

Friday, the state publishing house stopped printing top independent newspapers the Narodnaya Volya and Komsomolskaya Pravda, citing equipment malfunction. Protests unprecedented in Belarus for their size and duration broke out after the August 9 presidential election in which official results handed Lukashenko a sixth term in office.

Protesters allege the results were manipulated and are calling for Lukashenko to resign. Police responded harshly in the first days of the protests, arresting some 7,000 people, beating many of them. But the protests have widened their scope, with strikes called at some of the country's main factories.

In an enormous show of defiance, an estimated 200,000 protesters rallied last Sunday in the capital, Minsk.

Lukashenko's main election challenger, Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya, called for another march this Sunday. "We are closer than ever to our dream," she said in a video message from Lithuania, where she took refuge after the election.

and baby. "Giant pandas are an international symbol of endangered wildlife and hope, and with the birth of this precious cub we are thrilled to offer the world a much-needed moment of pure joy," said Steve Monfort, John and Adrienne Mars Director of the Smithsonian's National Zoo and Conservation Biology Institute. Monfort said Mei Xiang's age —

22 — made her chances of giving birth to a cub slim. "However, we wanted to give her one more opportunity to contribute to her species' survival," he said. She is the oldest giant panda to successfully give birth in the United States. The oldest in the world gave birth in China at age 23.

Mei Xiang has three surviving offspring, Tai Shan, Bao Bao and Bei Bei, that were transported to China at age 4 under an agreement with the Chinese government. The zoo has reopened to visitors on a limited basis, but the Panda House is closed. Mei Xiang gave birth in a small den, where she created a nest out of branches.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, August 22: A Silicon Valley-based Indian-American couple has released a musical campaign video targeting Indian-Americans in the battleground states and urging them to vote for Democratic presidential nominee Joe Biden and his Indian-origin running mate Senator Kamala Harris.

On the last day of the four-day Democratic National Convention Thursday, Biden, 77, formally accepted the presidential nomination of the Democratic Party. Harris, 55, scripted history in US politics as she became the first Indian-American and Black woman to get a major party's vice-presidential nomination on the third day of the virtual Democratic National Convention on Wednesday.

"Living in Silicon Valley, we are at heart innovators; we have applied that creativity to rapidly grow the outreach to key South Asian voter groups in support of Vice President Biden. It is extremely important that we all come together as a community to fight for what is right," Vinita Bhutoria said after the release of the video on Friday.

Vinita, along with her tech entrepreneur husband Ajay Jian Bhutoria, starts the video saying, "America Ka Neta Kaisa Ho: Jo Biden Jaisa Ho." The political couple, who had earlier hosted Jill in support of the Biden-Harris campaign. The first of the series was released Friday.

"Indo-Americans are the crucial margin of victory in Michigan, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Wisconsin, and Nevada," said Ajay.

Running into 143 seconds, in the backdrop of music, Indian-Americans in various languages, including Hindi, Gujarati, Punjabi, and Bengali, are appealing to their community members in the battleground States to vote and support Biden and his running mate Harris in the November presidential elections.

"As an absolutely essential swing vote, it is essential that Indo-American political representation increases. We have made immense leaps forward, but we will continue working hard to further push the envelope of what is possible," Ajay said.

The video highlights the culture of Indo-Americans in the USA connecting to mainstream politics and highlights the engagement of all ages of Indo-American community, said Raj, a young Indian-American student from Claremont McKenna College in California. "It shows hope for the future for the Indo American community. The video shows the ocean of political activism and new waves by Indian Americans. The video connects people from different parts of India living in the USA and speaking in multiple languages, all united in the fight to elect Joe Biden and Kamala Harris," Raj said.

'Steel demand to contract in FY21'

Mumbai: India's steel demand is expected to contract in FY21, Fitch Ratings has said. However, the ratings agency said that volumes should continue to improve over the next few quarters, led by rural consumption and government spending on infrastructure, and lead to better margins due to operating leverage. "Higher prices supported by the price rebound in China should also drive margins in 2QFY21 and beyond. Indian prices have started to tick up since late-July, with a lag," said a statement by Fitch Ratings.

Worldwide spend on public cloud hit $233 bn in 2019

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, August 22: The global public cloud services market grew 26% (y-o-y) in 2019 with revenues totaling $233.4 billion, according to a new International Data Corporation (IDC) report.

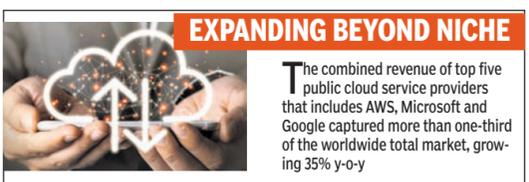

The Public Cloud services include Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS), Platform as a Service (PaaS) and Software as a Service (SaaS).

The combined revenue of top five public cloud service providers (Amazon Web Services, Microsoft, Salesforce, Google and Oracle) captured more than one third of the worldwide total market, growing 35% y-o-y.

"Cloud is expanding far beyond niche e-commerce and online ad-sponsored searches. It underpins all the digital activities that individuals and enterprises depend upon as we navigate and move beyond the pandemic," said Rick Villars, group vice president, Worldwide Research at IDC.

"Enterprises talked about cloud journeys of up to 10 years. Now they are looking to complete the shift in less than half that time."

The public cloud services market has more than doubled since 2016. During this same period, the combined spending on IaaS and

PaaS has nearly tripled. This highlights the increasing reliance on cloud infrastructure

"The COVID-19 disruption has accelerated cloud adoption with both traditional enterprise IT organisations and digital service providers increasing use of IaaS for their technology platforms," he said.

SaaS applications remain the largest segment of public cloud

"Although growth has slowed somewhat in recent years, the current crisis serves as an accelerator for SaaS adoption across primary and functional markets to address the exponential growth of remote workers," said Frank Della Rosa, research director, SaaS and Cloud Software.

The IDC expects spending on IaaS and PaaS to continue growing at a higher rate than the overall cloud market over the next several years as resilience, flexibility, and agility guide IT platform decisions.

Centre to develop ₹7,750 cr gas pipeline project in state

JHBDPL, Srikakulam-Angul Pipeline and Dhamra-Haldia Pipeline projects are under construction that will boost gas-based economy

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, August 22: With an aim to expand the gas pipeline network across the country, the central government is developing around 1,550 km pipeline network for Odisha, under the Pradhan Mantri Urja Ganga project, to boost gas-based economy.

Three projects viz., Jagdishpur-Haldia and Bokaro-Dhamra Pipeline (JHBDPL), Srikakulam-Angul Pipeline and Dhamra-Haldia Pipeline are being developed. These projects are being implemented by state-owned company Gas Authority of India Limited (GAIL). The whole project is worth (estimated) ₹7,750 crore.

According to Odisha GAIL CGM Dinabandhu Soren, under 2,500 km JHBDPL project, the pipeline network will cover around 800 km for Odisha which is an investment of around ₹4,000 crore. This 800 km pipeline project is being implemented through two projects: Bokaro-Angul Pipeline and Dhamra-Angul Pipeline.

"The Bokaro-Angul section will have a total length of 667 km, of which 367 km will be in Odisha and 300 km in Jharkhand. It will cover five districts in Odisha namely Angul, Sundargarh, Jharsuguda, Sambalpur and Debagarh, and six districts in Jharkhand Bokaro, Ramgarh, Ranchi, Khunti, Gumla and Simdega," Soren said.

Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulatory Board (PNGRB) awarded the geographical areas for development of City Gas Distribution networks in these 11 districts to different entities and the Bokaro-Angul section will be catering the supply of natural gas to these areas.

According to GAIL authorities, the JHBDPL project will be completed in Odisha by February 2021. The Srikakulam-Angul Pipeline project will have a length of around 500 km and it will supply gas to western parts of Odisha. The authorities said that about ₹2,500 crore is being invested to execute the pipeline network expansion. The authorities also stated that gas will be supplied to small and medium industries and other companies. They also said that the project will be completed soon.

On the other hand, Dhamra-Haldia Pipeline project will be of 250 km and it will supply gas to the coastal region of Odisha. It is expected that around ₹1,250 crore is being invested for the completion of this project.

Amazon consumer biz CEO to step down next year

AGENCIES

San Francisco, August 22: Jeff Wilke, the CEO of Amazon's worldwide consumer division, is set to retire early next year after serving the company for over two decades.

Dave Clark, Amazon's Senior Vice President of Retail Operations, will succeed Wilke, Amazon said in a statement on Friday.

In a memo to employees, Amazon Founder and CEO Jeff Bezos called Wilke his "tutor".

Wilke, who joined the company in 1999, is often credited with shaping the logistics system that the e-commerce giant has today.

"When you see us taking care of customers, you can thank Jeff for it," Bezos said in the memo, announcing Wilke's departure from the company.

"Jeff's legacy and impact will live on long after he departs. He is simply one of those people without whom Amazon would be completely unrecognisable," the Amazon CEO said.

In a message to Amazon teams around the world, Wilke said that "it's just time" for him "to take time to explore personal interests that have taken a back seat for over two decades."

OIL IMPORTS

India's Middle East share hits 2-yr high

REUTERS

New Delhi, August 22: Middle Eastern oil accounted for 71.5% of India's oil imports in July, its highest share in 26 months, while imports from Africa fell to 5%, the lowest in at least 14 years, shows the data from trade sources.

Analysts said lower fuel demand and paltry refining margins had driven a preference for Middle Eastern sour grades over sweet African barrels.

India, the world's third-biggest oil consumer, imports more than 80% of its oil needs.

"Since April Indian refiners are trying to save every single penny on crude purchases as refining margins are paltry and fuel demand has crashed. They are forced to cut refiners runs," said Ehsan Ul Haq, an analyst with Refinitiv.

Indian refiners mostly tap spot markets for low sulphur or sweet grades and buy sour grades under term deals with Middle Eastern producers.

"Imports from Middle East help in saving freight cost. Refiners opted to lift committed volumes under contracts with Middle Eastern producers rather than tapping costly Brent-linked African oil that takes more than 20 days to reach India," Haq added.

India's oil imports plunged to their lowest in over 9 years in July, falling to around 3 million barrels per day as low fuel demand encouraged refiners to shut units for maintenance.

Imports from Opec countries dropped to their lowest in at least 14 years at 67.15% in July, data showed.

Rising imports from the United States also dented Africa's share in Indian imports. The sources declined to be identified as they are not authorised to speak to the media.

India imported no oil from Venezuela for the second month in a row in July, the data showed.

During the month Iraq retained its top oil supplier status to India followed by Saudi Arabia and United Arab Emirates.

The United States emerged as the fourth biggest supplier followed by Kuwait, Colombia and Qatar. Nigeria, which was the fifth largest supplier to India in June, dropped to eighth position.

Global cues to make rupee volatile: Experts

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Mumbai, August 22: Optimism over the development of COVID-19 vaccine along with broad-based growth trends is expected to induce volatility in the rupee's value during the short term.

The US Fed's FOMC minutes, US-China trade talks, and expectations on Q1 GDP rate will be the other key factors steering the rupee.

Inter fall on own sword as Lukaku own goal helps Spanish League side scrape past Italian club 3-2 for a record sixth Europa League title

The Sevilla League!

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cologne (Germany), August 22: The longest Europa League season came down to a defender's spectacular shot and a striker trying to keep it out.

Instead of blocking Diego Carlos' overhead kick — which was going wide — Romelu Lukaku deflected it into his own net. That handed Sevilla a 3-2 win in the final Friday and a record sixth Europa League title.

And it gave Lukaku the distinction of scoring for both teams. The Belgian striker had given Inter a perfect start with an early goal after winning his first duel with Carlos, who could easily have been sent off in the process.

The Brazilian defender was the last defender when he fouled Lukaku on a counterattack in the third minute but was only given a yellow card.

LUUK DE JONG
It was a very emotional game but in the second half we controlled the game a bit better we dug in. He (Diego Carlos) gave away the penalty then he scored that wonderful overhead kick

JULEN LOPETEGUI

Lukaku scored the spot-kick, but Sevilla fought their way back into the game with two headers from Luuk de Jong, setting the stage for Carlos to hit his game-winning kick in the 74th.

The loss extended Inter's wait for a first European trophy since Jose Mourinho led the Italian club to the Champions League title in 2010. Sevilla have won the Europa League in four of the last seven seasons.

The game started at breakneck pace despite being the 54th game of 2019-20 for both teams in a season extended because of the coronavirus pandemic.

After just three minutes Lukaku surged away with the ball when a Sevilla attacking throw-in was cleared, and Carlos pushed him down as he prepared to shoot. Goalkeeper Yassine Bounou had played a key part in Sevilla's run to the final but could do nothing to stop Lukaku's powerful penalty kick into the bottom-left corner.

The lead lasted just seven minutes before De Jong levelled the score with a diving header off a cross from right-back Jesus Navas.

De Jong was rewarded with a start after scoring the winning goal as a substitute against Manchester United in the semifinals. The Dutch striker gave Sevilla a 2-1 lead in the 33rd with a header at the far post at a free-kick, but three minutes later Inter scored in nearly identical fashion, Diego Godin heading in from almost the same position off Marcelo Brozovic's free-kick.

Lukaku could have put Inter back in front in the 65th when he burst in behind Sevilla's defense but Bounou charged out to block his low shot.

After Sevilla reclaimed the lead, Jules Kounde stopped Inter leveling once again when he cleared substitute Alexis Sanchez's shot off the line in the 82nd.

Sevilla coach Julen Lopetegui said he was delighted to win a trophy with Sevilla in his first job since spending barely three months in charge of Real Madrid in 2018. He had lost his job as Spain coach on the eve of the World Cup over his decision to take over Real.

PSG set sight on making history as they face mighty Bayern Munich hurdle in quest of their 'holy grail' — the Champions League title

AGENCIES

Lisbon, August 22: A fresh slice of history beckons here for one of these giants as they face off in club football's most prestigious match, but their past history at this stage of the competition could barely be more different.

Bayern have been here and done it all before — only Real Madrid can top their tally of 11 European Cup and Champions League finals, while only Madrid, AC Milan and Liverpool have got their hands on the trophy more often.

It has not been all triumph and glory for the Bavarian juggernauts, though, and they have lost as many finals as they have won in this competition, Juventus being the only team to have been beaten more often at this stage.

PSG know all about despair in Europe's premier club competition; their recent history has been littered by high-profile failures and it remains impossible to consider their Champions League past without thoughts immediately going back to their Neymar-inspired 6-1 defeat to Barcelona in 2016-17.

Now with Neymar in their ranks and beginning to show the decisive influence PSG have been hoping for since his world-record move, the Ligue 1 giants have the chance to finally banish those memories and the hurt of seven successive seasons in which they failed to make it past the quarterfinals.

The owners have made no secret of the fact that the Champions League is the holy grail for them and, after years of underachievement in the competition, it could be written in the stars for them to pull off their crowning glory in the club's 50th anniversary year.

Success at home is almost a given now for Le Parisiens, who have won 24 of the last 28 domestic trophies available to them, but victory Sunday would see them finally join the top table of Europe's elite.

While that is the biggest and tastiest carrot for the owners, in time PSG's possible achievement of completing a clean sweep of trophies this season may be viewed as even more historic, having already wrapped up the Ligue 1, Coupe de France, Coupe de la Ligue and Trophée des Champions titles this season.

Bayern already boasting the best goals-per-game ratio in CL history and needing three more goals to equal Barcelona's all-time record of 45 in a CL campaign — recorded over 16 games in 1999-00.

With such a record, it is easy to forget that Bayern had been in some trouble earlier in the campaign, leading to Niko Kovac being sacked and replaced by Hansi Flick, who has since steered them back on to the right path.

It is not only Bayern's European record which is formidable; German champions for an eighth year in a row, they come into this match having won 27 of their last 28 outings across all competitions including each of the last 19.

Yet there is not quite an aura of invincibility about the team despite the results suggesting otherwise, and PSG will have taken belief from Lyon's performance in the semifinals despite their fellow Ligue 1 side being on the end of a 3-0 defeat.

Sunday represents a tantalising opportunity to make themselves the team to beat, though, and if they are finally able to lift their most coveted prize aloft then there could be no doubting that they are worthy champions.

Contrasting media reactions in Spain, Italy

Spanish newspapers have lauded Sevilla after Julen Lopetegui's side landed their sixth Europa League triumph while Italian papers have cast doubt on Antonio Conte's future at Inter Milan. Spanish newspapers have hailed the efforts of Sevilla and Lopetegui, who lifted his first piece of major silverware as a coach following the triumph in Germany

AS splashed the headline: 'Sevilla League' across their front page Saturday morning, a nod to the club's dominance in the European competition that they have now won six times. Marca opted for the headline: '6!' while listing the club's victories in Eindhoven in 2006, Glasgow in 2007, Turin in 2014, Varsovia in 2015, Basilea in 2016 and Cologne Friday night.

'Conte, are you leaving? Inter lose, Antonio splits' was the headline on the front of Gazzetta dello Sport, with an image of the former Chelsea and Juventus boss looking dejected. Corriere dello Sport went for a similar line with regards to Conte's Inter future, with the headline: 'Conte splits', while Tuttosport wrote: 'No, not like this!' on their front page.

India to host England 'in Feb. 2021': Ganguly

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, August 22: BCCI president Sourav Ganguly has confirmed to its affiliated units that India will be hosting England for a full series in February next year after playing an away rubber in Australia.

The Board supremo also informed the state units that the 2021 IPL will be played in April, within five months of the upcoming edition, which concludes November 10.

This is Ganguly's second communication to the states in last two months as he seeks to keep the members posted about India's commitments in the Future Tours Programme (FTP).

He said that India is ready to host the T20 World Cup next year and the ODI World Cup in 2023.

"The BCCI and the Indian cricket team will continue to fulfil its FTP commitments. The senior Indian men's team will travel to Australia for its series starting in December this year, and will come back to the country for a series against England starting February next year. This will be followed by IPL 2021 in April," Ganguly said in an email to all the affiliated units.

"The BCCI continues to be the host for the ICC T20 World Cup 2021 and the 50-over ICC Cricket World Cup in 2023."

The former India captain also said that the tours of the Indian women's team are 'under discussion' but did not elaborate on that.

He has assured all state associations that domestic cricket will start as and when the situation is safe amid the COVID-19 pandemic, but did not specify a date for the season's kick-off.

Normally domestic season starts in August but the pandemic has wreaked havoc with the calendar and Ganguly's letter to state associations made it clear that the Board is yet to lock in a date.

The domestic season is now expected to begin with the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 tournament, tentatively from the third week of November.

Buttler-Crawley stand frustrates hapless Pakistan

AGENCIES

Southampton, August 22: Zak Crawley (267, 393b, 34x4, 1x6) and Jos Buttler (140 batting, 290b, 12x4, 2x6) frustrated Pakistan with a 359-run partnership for the fifth wicket as England reached 490/5 at tea on day two of the third and final Test here, Saturday.

The visitors banked on part-timer Asad Shafiq after all their regular bowlers failed to make any impact on the duo, and fortunately the move worked. Crawley, who was trying the get some quick runs, was stumped while going for an expensive shot.

Restuming the at 332/4, both Crawley and Buttler hardly gave any chance which Pakistan could grab for good. Brief showers took the teams off twice during the morning session, resulting in lunch being taken an hour later than scheduled.

Brief scores (at tea): England 490/5 (Zak Crawley 267, Jos Buttler 140 batting) vs Pakistan. Match to continue.

CLAMOUR FOR BHARAT RATNA TO DHYAN CHAND GROWS

'1st target semis, then medals at Games'

Actor Babushaan talks to former India player Ashok Kumar during a digital campaign demanding Bharat Ratna for Ashok Kumar

Bhubaneswar, August 22: India's first target should be to reach the semifinals of the Tokyo Olympics. Then India can aspire to win a medal," said former India players Ashok Kumar and Gurbux Singh.

They were speaking in a panel discussion organised by 'Signature 24 Productions' in association with Orissa POST. The discussion was taking place on the first anniversary of the first-ever digital campaign launched demanding 'Bharat Ratna' for the iconic Dhyan Chand.

The event hosted by popular actor Babushaan also saw Harbinder Singh and Yuvraj Walmiki taking part. Incidentally Harbinder and Gurbux were members of the Indian team that won gold at the Tokyo Olympics. Ashok on the other hand was a part of the team that won the World Cup under Ajitpal Singh.

Walmiki had not much to offer on

"I learnt by watching his (Dhyan Chand) skills, never got any formal coaching from him. Till the time, I won the World Cup gold medal, he never saw any of my other medals including the Olympic bronze

India were in good form. They were beating top teams regularly. Had the Olympics not been postponed due to the pandemic, we were certainly medal contenders. Now the momentum has gone. I am doubtful about how India will fare next year

Dhyan Chand. However, he said that during his tenure of eight years in the German Hockey League, people always referred to him as the 'man from Dhyan Chand's country'. It just shows how much the Dhyan Chand Sir was revered," said Walmiki.

Gurbux called Dhyan Chand 'the best-ever player India has ever produced' while Harbinder said 'he was an icon in true sense'. Ashok on the other hand pointed out his dad never wanted him to play hockey "Maybe that is because of the financial hardships he faced during his playing days," said Ashok.

"I learnt by watching his skills, never got any formal coaching from him. Till the time, I won the World Cup gold medal, he never saw any of my other medals including the Olympic bronze," he added.

Discussions also turned towards the Tokyo Olympics. Ashok was quick to point out that Indian coaches should stop speaking about podium finishes. "In the last 40 years we have not reached semifinals once. So let's first make that target," Ashok asserted. A point to which Gurbux agreed.

It should be stated here that India won their last hockey Olympic gold at Moscow in 1980. However many nations had boycotted the event due to their differences with Russia.

Harbinder on the other hand said that India's medal at the Tokyo Olympics has suddenly suffered due to the postponement of the Games to 2021.

"India were in good form. They were beating top teams regularly. Had the Olympics not been postponed due to the pandemic, we were certainly medal contenders. Now the momentum has gone. I am doubtful about how India will fare next year," Harbinder said.
