THE NEW NORM WILL BE EFFECTIVE FROM JANUARY 21 TO FEBRUARY 21

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Jan 10: The Shree Jagannath Temple Administration (SJTA) Sunday announced that devotees need not produce their Covid-19 negative report for getting entry into the 12th century shrine in Puri from January 21.

The decision in this regard was taken at a meeting attended by SJTA chief Krishan Kumar, Puri District Magistrate-cum Collector Samarth Verma and Superintendent of Police KB Singh.

"The devotees can enter the temple without having Covid-19 negative report from January 21. The decision will remain in force till February 21," the SJTA chief told the media.

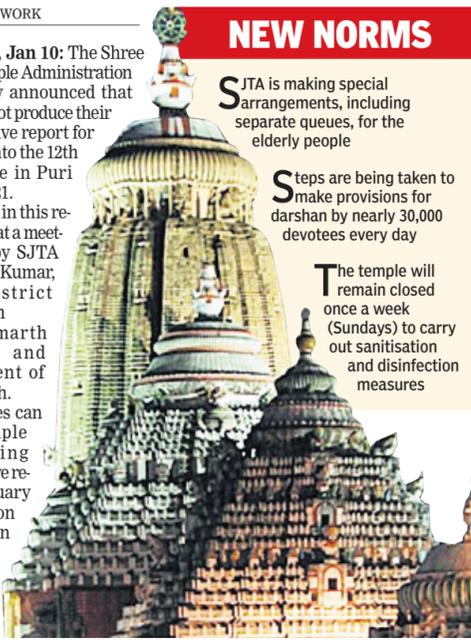

Kumar said

NEW NORMS

SJTA is making special arrangements, including separate queues, for the elderly people

Steps are being taken to make provisions for darshan by nearly 30,000 devotees every day

The temple will remain closed once a week (Sundays) to carry out sanitisation and disinfection measures

The SJTA has decided to relax the restriction which was imposed on temple entry for the general public. The temple opened for public from January 3 after remaining closed for nine months in the wake of the pandemic.

Kumar said that the decisions to relax the restrictions were taken to facilitate more devotees to get a darshan of the Holy Trinity. Though restrictions were imposed for elderly people, now it has been decided that special arrangements will be made for them keeping their need in mind, he said. There will be separate queues for the elderly

"The temple will remain closed once a week (Sundays) to carry out sanitisation and disinfection measures. Steps have been taken to make provision of darshan by nearly 30,000 devotees every day. However, all other Covid-19 restrictions will continue to remain in force," said Kumar.

According to him, the decision has been taken to facilitate devotees from other parts of the state as well as outside Odisha. Kumar added that a contingency plan will be made soon to handle if the devotee turnout exceeds 30,000.

Puri Collector Samarth Varma said that special arrangements, queue system will be shortly introduced for elderly/senior citizens coming to Srimandir for darshan of the sibling deities.

The temple was opened in a phased manner from December 23, 2020. While the servitors and their family members were allowed to enter the temple from December 23 to December 25 evening, the local residents of Puri got opportunity to have darshan of the deities between December 26 and 31.

The temple was finally opened to the public for darshan of the sibling deities - Lord Balabhadra, Devi Subhadra and Lord Jagannath - from January 3, 2021 adhering to the Covid-19 guidelines.

At present, general public is being allowed after they are being screened at special counters by volunteers for any symptoms. Besides, Covid-19 negative report is also mandatory for devotees coming to the shrine for darshan of the deities.

District administration officials informed that the general Darshan will begin from 7 am from January 21. A special one-hour darshan window has been made for the residents of Puri from 6 am.

Divers recover Indonesian plane wreckage

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jakarta, Jan 10: Authorities said they determined the location of the crash site and black boxes of a Boeing 737-500 Sunday, a day after the aircraft crashed into the Java Sea with 62 people on board shortly after taking off from Indonesia's capital.

The head of Indonesia's National Search and Rescue Agency, Bagus Puruhito, said officials believe they identified the location of the flight data recorder and cockpit voice recorder - the so-called black boxes - because emergency signals transmitted by the devices were detected by a navy ship's sonar system.

"We have determined the position of the plane's black boxes from two signals emitted by the devices," military chief Hadi Tjahjanto said. "Hopefully we can lift the black boxes in short time to determine the cause of the crash." Earlier Sunday, search and rescue operations resulted in parts of the plane being found in the sea at a depth of 23 meters, leading rescuers to continue searching the area.

"We received reports from the diver team that the visibility in the water is good and clear, allowing the discovery of some parts of the plane," Tjahjanto said in a statement. "We are sure that it is the point where the plane crashed." He said the objects found included broken pieces of fuselage with aircraft registration parts. Earlier, rescuers pulled out body parts, pieces of children's clothing and scraps of metal from the surface.

PM-KISAN SCHEME

Govt paid ₹1,364cr to 20L ineligible beneficiaries: RTI data

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: The government has paid ₹1,364 crore to 20.48 lakh undeserving beneficiaries under its ambitious PM-KISAN scheme, a reply to a Right to Information (RTI) query by the Union Agriculture Ministry reveals.

Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-KISAN) was launched by the Centre in 2019 and under the scheme, an income support of ₹6,000 per year in three equal installments is paid to small and marginal farmer families having combined land holding or ownership of up to 2 hectares.

The Union Agriculture Ministry, in response to the RTI application, identified two categories of unde-serving beneficiaries who received PM-KISAN payouts as "ineligible farmers" and "income tax payee farmers".

RTI applicant Venkatesh Nayak of Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative (CHRI) who received the data from the government said,

"More than half (55.58%) of these undeserving persons belong to the 'income tax payee category'."

"The remaining 44.41% belong to the 'ineligible farmers' category," he added. Nayak said according to media reports, proceedings have been initiated to recover these funds transferred to undeserving persons.

He said data obtained under RTI Act, 2005, indicated that since the commencement of the PM-KISAN Yojana in 2019, ₹1,364.13 crore ($186.59 million) has been paid to "ineligible persons" and "income tax payee farmers" till July 31, 2020.

"Government's own data indicates money went into the wrong hands," he added.

A major chunk of these ineligible beneficiaries belongs to five states - Punjab, Assam, Maharashtra, Gujarat and Uttar Pradesh, as per the data.

"Punjab tops the list accounting for 23.16 per cent (4.74 lakh) of the total number of undeserving persons across the country who received payouts, followed by Assam with 16.87% (3.45 lakh beneficiaries) and Maharashtra with 13.99% (2.86 lakh beneficiaries). These three states account for more than half (54.03 per cent) of the number of undeserving persons who received payouts," Nayak said.

Gujarat is at the fourth position with 8.05 per cent (1.64 lakh beneficiaries), followed by Uttar Pradesh at fifth position with 8.01 per cent (1.64 lakh beneficiaries), he said.

"Many drugs and vaccines have some associated risks. However, we need to understand that the benefits of the vaccine can outweigh the risks. Approval of vaccines is done by the regulatory authorities after robust safety standard norms and checkgates. Its efficacy and risks have been analysed and tested," she added. She explained that vaccines mimic the real invasion of the pathogen into the body and trigger a natural defence of the body to fight against the disease causing organism.

"Multiple exposures through these vaccines can bolster the human body to fight against these pathogens effectively. Even when the antibodies decline, the body has memory cells which learn how to fight against particular bacteria or virus and defeat them after the body is exposed to it multiple times," she concluded.

Anurag Srivastava, a researcher from the University of Turin (Italy), told Orissa POST that Covid-19 is tough to fight without a vaccine as it was a RNA-based virus and most of the hard to tackle viruses in the world belong to the category.

He also said that India is going to use the two vaccines which were produced through traditional way, owing to which the public would have more faith on them.

"Both the vaccines in India—Covishield and Covaxin— have been formulated with the traditional way of manufacturing the prophylactic unlike some foreign vaccines where the new mode of roping in the messenger RNA is being utilised," he said. He explained that

HOW COVISHIELD & COVAXIN WORK

COVISHIELD (by Serum Institute of India)	COVAXIN (by Bharat Biotech)
A vector named Chimpanzee Adeno virus is taken.	A sample of Coronavirus taken from the National Institute of Virus, Pune was taken; it was later inactivated with a chemical named beta-propiolactone.
The virus causes common cold in Chimpanzee and has been used earlier in many vaccines like in Zika, MERS.	The inactivation ensures the virus doesn't replicate further.
The vector virus which is considered safe is then clubbed with the genetic material of Covid-19 which makes the spike protein.	The inactivated virus is then mixed with an Aluminium-based compound.
The clubbed material containing the harmless genetic materials from both the viruses is then given in the vaccine.	The combination is later introduced as vaccine in human body.

while Covishield of Serum Institute is using the chimpanzee adeno virus as a vector, the Covaxin of Bharat Biotech is using the inactivated Coronavirus to trigger natural response in the human body.

However, experts who have studied efficacy of other vaccines are not satisfied with the pace of bringing the vaccine and also with the alleged shielding of vaccine efficacy data. Jagannath Chatterjee, an anti-vaccine advocate from the city said, "Both the manufacturers have attempted to not inform the people about the potential side effects the vaccines can have. Several normal procedures of getting approval have been evaded. Several noted scientists and experts worldwide have expressed their reservations against the vaccines." He also alleged that United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) listed 21 serious adverse effects of Covid vaccines while apprehensions have also been made in the British Medical Journal (BMJ) on the issue.

"There are numerous recorded research data on adverse effects of several vaccines including that of Covid vaccines. Several vaccines in the past triggered cancer, disability and other abnormalities post vaccination as side effect. In India, Covid vaccine approvals, different phases of trials and manufacturing also went parallel, raising doubts over the overall process," he concluded.

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Jan 10: Demand for eggs and chicken in the state capital has observed a marginal drop as customers here are apprehensive against spread of bird flu after hundreds of birds were found dead in Khurda district.

The Avian influenza, or largely known as bird flu, has been reported from different parts of countries such as Kerala, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh and Haryana in recent weeks. Although the state government maintained that there is no prevalence of the flu here, deaths of more than 100 chickens in a poultry farm in Khurda district between January 6 and 9 has fuelled fear among people.

"Although there has been no drastic drop in demand of the poultry products, there has been a slight decrease. While earlier, the wholesale price of eggs was Rs 62.5 a dozen, it was Rs 55, Saturday. Similarly, prices of broilers have come down from Rs 87 to about 80," said Sameer Mohanty, a poultry wholesaler here.

While the Avian flu is largely said to be reason for the fall, the drop in prices is also attributed to restaurants and hotels procuring lesser poultry products past last week. Sources said that meat and other related dishes have been lesser in de-

"Earlier a week ago we were receiving about 30-40 orders on dishes such as Chicken Biryani, Egg Rolls, Chicken Masala, Egg Curry among others. The demand was even higher between Christmas and New Year's Eve. However, for the past three to four days, we have only received 20-25 orders on daily basis including online food platforms. Although, sales of fish products have remained the same," said Basudev Raut, manager at a restaurant here.

However, the state government earlier has requested people not to panic and consume chicken meat, eggs and other poultry products after cooking them properly. "Rapid Response Teams with veterinary assistant surgeons, livestock inspectors and social workers have been formed in each block to check the spread of bird flu," Suresh Chandra Mohapatra, Chief Secretary of Odisha had earlier stated.

mans and other animals. Most forms of the virus are restricted to birds.

H5N1 is the most common form of bird flu. It's deadly to birds and can easily affect humans and other animals that come in contact with a carrier. According to the World Health Organization Trusted source, H5N1 was first discovered in humans in 1997 and has killed nearly 60 per cent of those infected.

Consuming properly cooked poultry or eggs from infected birds doesn't transmit the bird flu, but eggs should never be served runny. Meat is considered safe if it has been cooked to an internal temperature of 165°F (73.9°C).

THE NEW SPECIES HAS BEEN SCIENTIFICALLY NAMED AS CIRRHIMURAENA INDICA

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Jan 10: A group of researchers, mostly from Odisha, have found a new species of eel from the Bay of Bengal.

The new eel species, found from the sea coasts of Odisha and West Bengal, has been scientifically named as Cirrhimuraena Indica, sources said.

Anil Mahapatra of Zoological Survey of India (ZSI) at Gopalpur in Ganjam, Swarup Ranjan Mohanty of Zoology department at Ravenshaw University in Cuttack, Shuvendu Sekhar Mishra of ZSI-Kolkata, Jay Kishore Seth of Zoology department at Berhampur University and Dipanjan Dey of Bajkul Milani Mahavidyalaya in West Bengal found the new eel species from Bay of Bengal, sources said.

The researchers collected six specimens of the new eel species from the fishing harbours of Paradip in Odisha and Petuaghat in West Bengal and conducted their research at a newly-built laboratory at ZSI, Gopalpur.

The new species of eel has some distinct features in its genetic character. The body colour of the new eel species remains intact when the marine fish is preserved with the help of alcohol and formalin. But, the fins of a preserved eel turn white in colour, sources said.

"We had conducted several rounds of research on the new eel species during the coronavirus-induced lockdowns in the country. We are happy that the new eel species has been named after India," said scientist Anil Mahapatra of ZSI, Gopalpur.

It is worth mentioning here that Mahapatra has created a special identity for himself in the world for his research on marine eel species. Cirrhimuraena Indica is the 14th new marine eel species found by Mahapatra, sources said.

4 of a family in Paradip set example for others

POST NEWS NETWORK

Paradip, Jan 10: At a time when poaching cases are on the rise, four members of a family here in Jagatsinghpur district have set an example for others by becoming animal and bird lovers.

Madhusmit Pati, aged 54, his brother Biraja Prasad, who is four years younger to him, his two sons Saswat (23) and Sourabh (14), are known as dedicated animal and bird lovers.

According to Rajnagar DFO, Bikash Ranjan Das, it is rare to find, at least in Odisha, that not one or two but as many as four members of a family becoming animal lovers and getting involved in animal and bird census.

When asked how this started, Madhusmit said he was working at Paradeep Phosphates Limited when he started working for the cause of animals and birds.

"In 1996, I founded an NGO called 'Nature Club' and started working for conservation of wild animals in Bhitarkanika sanctuary. In 2011, I was selected into the bird and Olive Ridley census teams. And since then I have been in these teams," he said.

Following his elder brother's footsteps, Biraja gave up his B.Tech mid way and joined his brother. He got himself so involved in wildlife conservation that he hardly got time to think about himself. He has not married as yet. He has rescued many injured animals and reptiles, got them treated and then released them in jungles.

Seeing their father and uncle from their childhood days, Saswat and Sourabh also fell in love with wild animals and jungles.

Saswat said that he got attracted to wildlife when he was just 13 years old. "During holidays, I would go to jungles, spend hours there clicking photos. I used to have an inclination towards birds," he observed.

His photographs of birds and tigers in Sundarban made him familiar to the forest department. He was included into the bird census team in 2013. Now he is studying wildlife conservation at AR University, Cambridge (UK). He has made many short films on birds and tigers.

The bug of wildlife photography has bitten Sourabh as well. He is best known for his special talent of identifying any bird accurately. He has also been included in bird census teams for four years now. According to Madhusmit, in order to maintain a balance on earth, there is no denying that protection of animals and nature is a must.

"If we don't start working for their conservation from now, we cannot evade destruction. I am afraid it is just a matter of time," he said.

While holding up Madhusmit and his family members as examples, regional chief conservator, Forest and Environment Department, Manoj Kumar Mohapatra said that if students show interest in conservation of wildlife and forest, they can have a bright career in this field and, at the same time, they will also get a chance to work for nature's preservation.

Major fishery project in dry riverbeds 'shelved'

POST NEWS NETWORK

Jagatsinghpur, Jan 10: Four years ago, the Central Inland Fisheries Research Institute (CIFRI) had planned a major fishery project in the dry stretches of three rivers -- Alka, Balia and Kathajodi in Jagatsinghpur district. The ambitious project that assumes much importance to the fisheries sector has reportedly been shelved.

Reports said CIFRI had conducted a survey on the potential of fishery in the dry riverbeds. The plan was to push pisciculture in 150 hectares in dry riverbeds.

Alka in this district is almost dead. The land mafia has grabbed major parts of this river. Parts of two other rivers -- Balia and Kathajodi have also been dead in the district. Hectares of land belonging to these rivers are under encroachments in different parts.

The CIFRI had estimated that 600 tonnes of fish worth Rs 7 crore can be produced annually. It is a pity that the ambitious project, aimed at boosting pisciculture and creating income generation opportunities for the people, has been pushed into cold storage.

According to reports, the district fisheries department had prepared a detailed project report (DPR) in 2016-17. A number of officials comprising the then divisional executive engineer of fisheries and the district fisheries officer had made field visits of the three riparian areas. They had identified stretches of the rivers where fish can be grown. The DPR was submitted to the state government.

In the DPR, it was learnt that a 5-km dry stretch of 300-metre wide in Kathajodi from Saideipur to Redhua under Raghunathpur block was suitable for fishery. People of Tihuda and Gopalpur were to benefit from the pisciculture. In the first phase, 75 hectares of this river were to be developed for the purpose.

Besides, 50 hectares of dry riverbed of Balia stretching for 5 km under Kujang block were found to be fit for fishery.

This project could have immensely benefitted hundreds of people living in Badanga, Balia, Parianga and Patapur.

The dead part of the Alka passing through Biridi, Jagatsinghpur and Naugaon blocks had been surveyed for fishery. Three hectares of riverbed near Purna Basundhara under Biridi block were proposed for fishery. People of Balia, Kasapa, Dandilo and Sadehi were to be benefitted.

A stretch of 25 hectares riverbed from Ichhapur to Majhikora under Balikuda block was identified for fishery which would have created good earning opportunities for thousands of people living in Iswarpur, Nardia, Majhokora, Banaradi, Kaliagan, Nuagan, Arakhapari and Madhupur.

As per the plan, each pond (inside the rivers) was to be developed in 80 decimal to 1 acre of land. The size of the pond may be bigger where river course is wider.

It was proposed that fishery ponds would be leased out to SHGs, primary fisheries cooperative societies (PFCS), major fish farmers or entrepreneurs.

After the DPR, the state government had sought the help of the CIFRI for techno economic survey of the project.

Such ground work had generated a lot of hope for thousands of people to get self-employment in the fisheries sector. But their hopes have vanished over the years as no action has been taken to carry forward the project.

District fisheries officer Subrat Das admitted that the project has failed to make any headway while the state government will take a call in this regard.

Museum of Buddhist relics cries for safety

POST NEWS NETWORK

Chandikhole, Jan 10: The security arrangements at Odisha's first bulletproof museum located at Lalitgiri in Jajpur district where Lord Buddha's bone fragments have been kept are not up to the mark, a report said.

Lalitgiri, Ratnagiri and Udayagiri in Jajpur district are known all over the world as 'Diamond Triangle'. There is a bulletproof museum in Lalitgiri, built by the Archeological Survey of India (ASI) at a cost of Rs 10,00,00,00. There are three caskets placed there with the smallest one having the bone fragments of Lord Buddha.

The museum was inaugurated through video-conferencing by Prime Minister Narendra Modi December 24, 2018. For several months after the inauguration, the museum was under tight security. Later, the same security arrangements at the museum were found missing.

The local residents have raised concerns about this state of affairs. According to the protocol, there should be six gunmen and six tourist guides at the museum providing three-layer security round the clock. But as of now, only one gunman and five guides are managing the show here. On the other hand, in place of 10 employees appointed for Bouddha Vihar, only seven are there.

According to local residents, the staff shortage at Bouddha Vihar has a detrimental effect on the monastery. They urged immediate intervention of the administration.

Notably, the relics were found preserved in a puzzle box like container comprising three boxes with one inside the other - a golden container within a silver container and the silver container inside a wooden container. They were recovered during an excavation drive at Lalitgiri in 1985-86 by ASI. The casket was discovered from among the ruins of a pagoda.

Assuming it unsafe to keep the relics there at Lalitgiri, the ASI had decided to preserve it at the State Museum in Bhubaneswar. After several requests and sit-ins, the central government finally constructed a bulletproof museum and brought the casket back here.

Lalitgiri, stretched over 90 acres, has a lot of artefacts including images of Lord Buddha in different meditative postures and a large number of tourists from different parts of the country and abroad frequently visit the site.

When asked, ASI, deputy superintendent, Manas Chandra Sahu said the number of tourists has drastically come down during this pandemic and that has led to downsizing of security and other staff. He went on to assure that more security guards will be appointed when the tourists return in larger numbers.

Durgapadu waterfall wallows in neglect

POST NEWS NETWORK

Rayagada, Jan 10: Tribal-dominated Rayagada district is indeed a treasure trove of nature. Durgapadu waterfall is one of the picture postcard sites in the district, but the tourism department allegedly has failed to explore its tourism potential, a report said.

The waterfall, which is tucked away amid a scenic sylvan setting, is on the borders of Andhra-Odisha, 37 km from the district headquarters.

Water cascading down from a cliff offers a breathtaking view to people. Even though the place lacks basic infrastructure, many people from various parts of Andhra Pradesh and other neighbouring states come to this place for sight-seeing and picnicking.

Locals and traders observed that the place has much potential to boost tourism in the region while people will get earning opportunities.

"The tourism department should tag the place as a tourist spot and make efforts to develop the place with basic facilities so as to attract tourists. In the absence of proper foot track, people have to negotiate with craggy and hilly paths to reach the waterfall," locals said.

Despite the commuting difficulties, people still come to the place. As commuting in the treacherous terrains is difficult, the place needs to be connected with a ropeway, locals said.

The place is not far from the district headquarters. One can travel from Rayagada via Jhula Bridge and Pipiliguda. The other route to this waterfall is from Kolnara via Panichhatta.

There is another alternative route to this place - from Ramangada or Kumudpur.

For tourists, there is need for rest sheds, drinking water and a motorable road.

Encroachments push Gobari to brink of extinction

POST NEWS NETWORK

Kendrapara, Jan 10: The mythology famed Gobari river flowing through this district is fast turning into a dead river with its water turning toxic and becoming unfit for consumption, a report said.

The river mentioned as 'Madhusagar' in mythology is slowly losing its water retaining capacity due to large scale encroachment on its banks. The encroachment of the river is more in the town than in rural areas.

The river is no longer able to provide sufficient water for irrigation of farmlands. However, the water resources department has not stopped collecting water cess from the farmers.

Concerned over the development, the residents have lodged complaints with the district administration but without any success. The residents alleged that a test report of the water samples conducted by the water resources department in 2013 confirmed presence of toxic substances in the river but no action has been taken yet in this direction.

The report claims high presence of toxic substances like cadmium, chromium and potassium in the river. People using the river water now get affected by skin diseases and water-borne disease.

Recently, the Kendrapara Municipality has started discharging the waste water of the town through two siphons. Moreover, open defecation by people on the river banks and discharge of sewage into the river has also polluted its water.

This apart, lack of regular cleaning has led to growth of hyacinths and weeds in the river.

According to an estimate by the water resources department, the water of the 138 km-long Gobari river helps in irrigating 7,616 hectares of farmlands on both sides of the river. Its water also irrigates an additional 4000 hectares of farmland after a creek bankment project came up at Malibasa, Tantiapala, Benakanda and Bijaynagar areas under Mahakalapara block of the district.

The water drawn from the river helps in irrigating rabi crops on 3,200 hectares of farmland and oilseeds like groundnuts on 600 hectares of farmland.

The water is used by over 80,000 residents daily in the district. A survey report by the water resources department claims that the river water is used directly or indirectly to irrigate around 30,000 hectares of farmland in the district.

Sk Amjan of Kendrapara town, Tuna Sahu of Phorad village, Nilamadhab Mohapatra and Niranjana Parida of Kansar village said that seven rivers including the Gobari flowing through the district have deeply influenced the lives and livelihoods of the people.

The water route of Gobari was the main mode of goods transport when there was no road transport facilities five decades back, they said. In post-Independence era, the river route was developed and the river water was provided to the farmers for irrigation.

When contacted, Prabodh Kumar Rout, executive engineer of the water resources department, said that a plan has been made for the last three years for renovation of the river. The programme will be launched soon, he added.

Beware the dangers

The permanent ban of US President Donald Trump on Twitter and the indefinite one on Facebook by the social media giants are measures too little, too late. The two platforms have been allowing top notch politicians and ruling parties across the world to use their tools maliciously to advance their political agendas with impunity. It took a mob-fueled insurrection at America's citadel of democracy, the Capitol, for the social media platforms to act against Trump. Of course, such action by Corporates, tech or otherwise, against a sitting US President is not an easy task. To top it, Trump is known to be a vengeful man. Yet, Twitter has, for the past few months, been flagging most of Trump's tweets as being unverified.

The events of 6 January 2021 need to be viewed in very many different ways. Those who have heard Trump's speech to his followers that day in which he asked them to march down Pennsylvania Avenue and lay siege to the Capitol would have realized the dangers that lay in it. Trump's instigation should be considered unpardonable. The rioters came prepared to physically stop the proceedings taking place to certify Joe Biden's win in the Electoral College votes. This may remind some of the failed 1923 Beerhall Pusch instigated by Hitler and his Nazi party followers. They had attacked the Bavarian Defence Ministry building with the aim of taking control of the government. The guards present there had opened fire in which more than a dozen Nazi party members were shot dead. Hitler had fled from the site. The government decided not to take any severe steps against the Nazis. History tells us that the soft pedaling resulted in millions of deaths across the world. Similarly, if the US establishment does not handle Trumpism as a serious problem immediately, the US could face severe stress at the end of the four year term of Biden. A revival of Trump's madness would result in serious consequences not only for the US but also for the rest of the world.

BUDGETARY ALLOCATIONS FOR TECHNOLOGY AND COMMUNICATIONS MUST BE INCREASED MANIFOLD

The Finance Minister should increase the budget allocations for science and communications and for providing direct cash transfers to all citizens. The former will lay the foundations of our economic prowess, while the latter will engage our manpower in productive employment, put purchasing power in the hands of people, generate demand in the market and set in motion a fortuitous cycle of employment generation, production, creation of demand and yet more employment generation.

The year 2020-21 was abnormal hence I will give my suggestions for the coming budget on the basis of the figures for 2019-20. I have given all figures in approximate to keep the presentation simple. On the revenue side, my first suggestion is that the rates of Corporate Tax must be increased. The share of the Central Government in the collections from Corporate Tax was ₹3.2 lakh crore in 2019-20. This may be increased to ₹4 lakh crore. Indeed, there will be a tendency of Indian Corporates to shift their head offices to foreign countries in order to avoid paying high taxes. This should be dealt by amending the Double Tax Avoidance Agreements that we have entered into in the last two decades. Two, Income Tax rates must be increased. The share of the Central Government in collection from Income Tax was ₹2.8 lakh crore in 2019-20. This must be increased to ₹4 lakh crore in 2021-22. Indeed, this will lead to reduction in demand from the better-off sections but much greater demand will be created from the common man by the dropping of helicopter money as I propose below. Three, GST rates must be reduced. The share of the Central Government in GST collections was ₹6.1 lakh crore in 2019-20. This must be reduced to ₹4 lakh crore in 2021-22. This will lead to lower prices of goods and rev up demand. Four, customs duties must be increased three times. The share of the Central Government in customs duties collection was ₹0.6 lakh crore in 2019-20. This must be increased to ₹2 lakh crore in 2021-

When domestic demand can be generated by increase in taxes and dropping of helicopter money; why try to do the same by borrowing and pushing us into a debt trap?

22. This will provide a big boost to domestic production by providing them protection from cheap imports. Five, Central Excise Duties must be increased by about 67 per cent. These are collected mainly on petroleum products. The Central Government collected ₹2.5 lakh crore in 2019-20 from these duties. This must be increased to ₹4 lakh crore in 2021-22. This increase will lead to higher price of petroleum products, reduced demand and lesser dependence on imports. That, in turn will lead to less pressure on us to export. Once again, the loss to the common man from higher price of petroleum products will be many times compensated by the helicopter money. Six, fiscal deficit may be reduced from the 7 per cent-plus expected in 2020-21 and restricted to 3.8 per cent of GDP as it was in 2019-20. That will provide ₹7.6 lakh crore from borrowings. The total budget of the Central Government was ₹27 lakh crore in 2019-20. This will increase to ₹30 lakh crore due to increased receipts from taxes suggested above after compensating for reduced receipts from GST.

On the expenditure side, the first suggestion is that the allocations for defense must be increased. The Central Government spent ₹4.4 lakh crore on defense in 2019-20. This must be increased to ₹7 lakh crore in 2021-22 in view of the China threat. Two, allocations for technology and communications must be increased manifold. The Central Government spent ₹0.3 lakh crore each on these heads in 2019-20. This must be increased five times for both the heads in 2021-22. These sectors will lay the foundations of our future technological progress and this must be done pronto. Three, allocation for Home Ministry at ₹1.4 lakh crore must be maintained since law and order is a fundamental requirement of a stable economy. Four, allocation for Health Ministry at ₹0.6 lakh crore must be maintained. However, there is a need to change the composition of expenditures within the Ministry. The expenditures on Central Government Health Services and similar schemes that provide health care to individuals must be scrapped entirely and the beneficiaries must be asked to pay in full for the services. The money saved may be diverted for research in control of Covid-19 pandemic. Five, expenditures on infrastructure must be temporarily reduced and expenditures on welfare schemes like Public Distribution System, MNREGA and education that provide welfare services to the people directly must be entirely scrapped. The Central Government spent ₹20 lakh crore on these Ministries in 2019-20. This must be reduced to ₹10 lakh crore in 2021-22. The above mentioned expenditures will require ₹22 lakh crore leaving a balance of ₹8 lakh crore out of the total revenue of ₹30 lakh crore. This money should be transferred as 'helicopter money' into the bank accounts of the 140 crore of our citizens providing ₹500 per person per month to all the people. This transfer will more than nullify the loss from the dismantling of the welfare schemes and increased burden from increase in petroleum prices. This transfer will immediately generate a huge demand for goods in the market. Coupled with the increase in import duties this will lead to higher domestic production. The expenditures on infrastructure such as highways can be restored after one or two years once the economy is back in motion.

We are in a crisis period. The Finance Minister should not increase expenditures on capital-intensive infrastructure schemes by borrowing ever larger amounts. That will impose a higher interest burden and throttle the economy. When domestic demand can be generated by increase in taxes and dropping of helicopter money; why try to do the same by borrowing and pushing us into a debt trap?

WORDSWORTH

Willy-nilly

One modern meaning of this common but odd-looking expression is “without direction or planning; haphazardly”: We've got to make it a physical game and we are not going to go there and chuck the ball about willy-nilly. We've got to go there with a purpose and that purpose is to win the game -- Doncaster Free Press, 15 Nov. 2011. Its original sense appeared at the beginning of the seventeenth century, when people used it to suggest that something must be done no matter whether one is willing or unwilling, whether one wants to or not. It's a modified form of an older phrase that is variously expressed as will I, nill I or will ye, nill ye, or sometimes as nilling willing. Will here is used in its sense of wanting to do something, to wish or desire that something should happen (when you make your will, you are using the same sense: you are expressing your wishes for the distribution of your goods after you die). Nill is very old, known before the Norman Conquest, but has long since vanished from the language. It was the opposite of will, so to nill is to want not to do something, to refuse or reject some course of action. So will I, nill I can be expanded into “be I willing, be I unwilling”, combining the two sentiments with the implication that it doesn't much matter what you feel, you're stuck with doing something. More recently, this conflict gave rise to an implication that a person was not sure whether to do something, and so suggested he was undecided or indecisive. Even more recently, the associated sense has grown up of embarking on some project without direction or planning or in a disorganised way. There is an equivalent Latin phrase volens volens, which is formed from two Latin participles that mean “unwilling, willing”. It is sometimes said that willy-nilly is actually a translation of the Latin phrase. It may have been an influence, but it's hard to tell.

Wiseacre

Although some experts do profess themselves baffled by the acre part of this word, we know where it comes from -- the Middle Dutch wijszegger, a soothsayer, a wise sayer. The first part is from the same source as our wit. The Oxford English Dictionary says that the original Dutch pronunciation of the word was (roughly) Wais-zegger. It first appeared in English in a scurrilous ballad of 1595 that had the catchy title A Quest of Enquire, by women to know, Whether the Tripe-Wife were trimmed by Doll. A tripe-wife was a tripe dresser, in this case a well-to-do London widow who sold her wares from a stall; the trimming referred to the cheating of her by one Doll Phillips, who pretended to be a fortune teller who could tell her which of her suitors she was to marry. The story was based on real events, though embroidered. We know that the Dutch pronunciation had already changed, since in the ballad it's given as wise-aker. The shift from Dutch to English is a good example of a common form of folk etymology, in which an odd or foreign word is changed until it looks familiar, even if its parts make no real sense. The word seems never to have been used in English in the literal sense of a wise person that it had in Dutch, perhaps because of the traditional enmity between the two nations that led to a series of disparaging terms such as Dutch courage. It has always meant a person projecting an unjustified appearance of wisdom or specialist knowledge -- a wiseacre pontificates on a subject despite being ignorant about it.

Wittol

Way back in medieval times there was the English cokewold, which eventually became our modern cuckold. The first bit is also the source of our cuckoo, with -old attached as a suffix giving a pejorative sense. Some clever wordsmith of the fifteenth century took the old word and changed the first part into wete, the quality of awareness or knowledge, so making wetewold. Wete is our modern wit in slight disguise. So the idea behind wittol -- as it was later written and said -- was of somebody who knew he was a cuckold, but especially somebody who was untroubled by the situation. This was not a state of affairs that most spectators thought reasonable or likely, so the word later took on a sense of a half-witted person, a fool. It was not accidental that William Congreve entitled a character in his play The Old Bachelor Sir Joseph Wittol. Shakespeare borrowed the adjective in The Merry Wives of Windsor: “I know him not; yet I wrong him to call him poor; they say the jealous wittoly knowe hath masses of money; for the which his wife seems to me well-favoured”.

SPECTRUM BREXIT & INDIA

Contours of business to change

Shivaji Sarkar

THE EU AND THE UK TOGETHER GIVE ABOUT $30 BILLION IT BUSINESS TO INDIA

The exit of Britain from the European Union -- Brexit -- is likely to impact India, businesses based in the UK, IT exports and possible market and currency volatility leading to inflationary pressure on the Indian economy.

Former Reserve Bank of India Governor Raghuram Rajan had said that “We are in the midst of an age of competitive devaluation and beggar-thy-neighbour policy. When elephants fight, the grass suffers.” India therefore has a real concern. Britain is considered a gateway to the EU for it, but with Brexit, the advantage by India is lost. Therefore, there is a need to get border-free access.

According to experts, while Brexit paves way for a free trade agreement (FTA) between New Delhi and London, it might take the sheen away from India's planned FTA with the EU. India had a lot of contentious issues while negotiating FTA with the EU. The FTAs have their problems too and there are experts who are not in favour of more FTAs. In the new situation a fresh FTA process, and that is cumbersome, may have to be started with the UK. However, now the UK could have a different view. Brexit may have an impact on the decisions of Indian companies to invest in the future. India's IT sector exports 17 per cent of its services, about $30 billion, to the UK. The EU and the UK together give about $30 billion IT business to India.

Over 800 companies from the country employing 1.1 lakh persons have set up bases there for easy access to the EU market. Their overheads and tax payment burdens now may increase. A NASSCOM report says, “Indian IT industry is going to experience a negative influence in the short term due to Brexit.”

The deal announced on New Year eve means that about half of the $900 yearly EU-UK commerce will remain free of tariffs and quotas. However, goods moving between the EU and UK will be subject to customs and other controls and additional paperwork. It would add to cost and is expected to have other major disruptions.

The idea that India could have a better relationship with the US to make up for the losses is far-fetched because Trump may be on the exit, but Trumpism -- protectionist approach -- is likely to continue with the new US President Joe Biden.

There is another aspect too. India is the third largest source of FDI to the UK in terms of number of projects. So far, India has been investing more in the UK than in the rest of Europe. The key sectors attracting Indian investment include healthcare, agri-tech, food, and drinks.

So the question is whether the UK would be able to ignore India. Or would India for a wider EU area be focusing on moving out of Britain to have greater access to larger economies in the EU. The pattern of the way India is doing business in the region can change. There is a perception that the UK would have to strive harder in the post-COVID-19 market to maintain its strength. In other words, it can become a smaller economy and not as beneficial to India or rest of the world as it may be perceived now. India is cautiously watching.

Tata Motors' losses have been mounting as Jaguar lost about $4.6 billion and the company sacked 4500 workers, it was reported on January 30, 2020, that is pre-pandemic. In August, 2020 it reported JLR lost 413 million pounds till June due to COVID-19 as sales were down 70 per cent. Tatas also lost Pound 371 million in the UK's largest steelworks at Port Talbot. Lakshmi Mittal lost Pound 35 billion and became bankrupt with Pound 130 million debts in October 2020.

Therefore, India-related businesses are in a tizzy in the UK pre and post COVID. In 2019, 56 per cent of the UK companies were upbeat about doing business in India, the UK-India Business Council stated. Post COVID despite the enthusiasm, most of these companies are not in a position to continue with their efforts for now. Interestingly, the UK is among the top countries with which India enjoys a trade surplus.

If businesses shift from the UK to Europe, it could be a major loss to Britain. Brexit is changing the scenario in many ways, more so as there is weak global growth and the Eurozone heads for recession. India gradually would be changing its trade contours in the West and may reduce ties with the UK and increase with Germany, France and other EU countries. Right strategy is critical.

Another flying coffin

Sir, Yet another Boeing aeroplane has ended as a flying coffin after a Sriwijaya aircraft carrying 50 passengers and 12 crew members plunged into the sea north of Jakarta, Indonesia. The Boeing 737-500 disappeared from the radar four minutes after taking off from Pontianak, the West Kalimantan province's capital. While our hearts go out to the passengers, crew, and their families, the authorities would do well to determine what caused the tragedy.

Governor vs government

Sir, Perhaps there is something in the seat of power that compels the Governors to behave in a specific way against the 'interests' of the state governments. Former Chief Justice of India P Sathasivam, who served as Kerala's Governor for five years was in the eye of the storm on more than one occasion. Sathasivam's successor, Arif Mohammad Khan has demonstrated that he is no less than his predecessor when it comes to taking on the state government. Khan objected to convening of the special session of Kerala Assembly to discuss the contentious farmers' issue. Although he later agreed upon a revised request of the state government, his demeanour is definitely a sign of things to come. Governors have always been a subject of ferocious debate among the media, public and politicians so much so there were suggestions in some quarters to abolish the Governor's post all-together though that sounded too radical a proposition. The Justice Sarkaria Commission had stressed on the Centre taking the State Chief Minister into confidence before assigning somebody the Governor's post and underscored the importance of “personal rapport” between the Chief Minister and the Governor. Both Sathasivam and Khan were apparently annoyed with the state for not ‘consulting’ them before arriving at important decisions but there is no clause in the Constitution that speaks about ‘consultation’. It does not require an expert to spell out what's there, and what not, to men like Sathasivam and Khan. Clearly, these learned individuals did not want to be ignored or, in other words, they suffer from a ‘superiority complex’. Indubitably, Governors are seen to toe the line of their appointers when they try to use their discretionary powers or take on the state governments.

Fadnavis, Thackeray's security reduced

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, Jan 10: The Maharashtra government has reduced the security cover of former chief minister Devendra Fadnavis and his family, former UP governor Ram Naik and MNS president Raj Thackeray, and withdrawn the security cover of state BJP chief Chandrakant Patil.

State BJP spokesman Keshav Upadhye termed the action unfortunate and a "vendetta" of the ruling coalition against his party's leaders.

Fadnavis, who is at present leader of opposition in the state Assembly, alleged that the government was now giving security "on the basis of politics", and that this would not impact his plans to travel and meet people.

However, state Home Minister Anil Deshmukh rejected the opposition BJP's charge and said the security of political leaders was reviewed as per the prevailing threat perception.

As per a government notification issued on January 8, Fadnavis will now get 'Y-plus security with escort', instead of the 'Z-plus' cover. The security of his wife Amruta Fadnavis and daughter Divija has been downgraded from 'Y-plus with escort' to 'X' category.

Former Uttar Pradesh governor Ram Naik will now get 'Y' cover instead of 'Y-plus'.

MNS chief Raj Thackeray's security cover has been downgraded from 'Z' to 'Y plus with escort'.

The security covers of BJP leader and former CM Narayan Rane, state BJP chief Chandrakant Patil and senior party leader Sudhir Mungantiwar have been withdrawn. Rane had 'Y-plus' security.

7-month pregnant rape survivor dies

The father of the girl, who was mentally unsound, said the family came to know about their daughter being six-month pregnant December 6

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bareilly, Jan 10: A 15-year-old rape survivor who was seven months pregnant died of pregnancy-related complications at the district hospital here, police said Sunday.

She was admitted to the hospital on Saturday night and passed away Thursday night, they said.

Senior Superintendent of the hospital Dr Subodh Sharma said the girl was brought to the hospital in serious condition and her health deteriorated further.

Despite best efforts by the doctors, she could not be saved, he added.

Senior Superintendent of Police, Bareilly, Rohit Singh Sajwan said, "The post-mortem report says that the death took place due to infection."

"The viscera of the girl has been preserved," he added.

The victim's father filed a complaint at Fatehganj West police station regarding the rape of his daughter on December 4, following which a case under the POCSO Act and the IPC was registered against the accused, police said. The accused was arrested on December 6, they added.

Station House Officer of Fatehganj West police station Ashwani Kumar said a charge-sheet has been filed in the case.

'Period room' for women

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Thane, Jan 10: In a bid to ease the woes during menstruation of women residing in congested slums and to provide them hygienic sanitary facilities, a 'period room' has been set up at a public toilet in Maharashtra's Thane city.

Claimed to be the first-of-its-kind initiative at a public toilet, the facility is equipped with a urinal, jet spray, toilet roll holder, soap, running water and a dustbin, a civic official told PTI Sunday.

The much needed facility, set up by the Thane Municipal Corporation in collaboration with an NGO, was opened for women at a slum in Shanti Nagar locality of Wagle Estate area last Monday, he said.

Painted on the outer wall of the toilet block are colourful pictures with messages advocating good hygiene, including during menstruation.

"This ₹45,000 low-cost facility will be replicated in all 120 community toilets in the city," the official said.

He said women living in small houses, which do not have a separate bathing section, many a times find it difficult to change during periods.

This facility will be a boon for such women and go a long way in promoting good hygiene, the official said.

There are no public toilets for women in most of the localities and this facility will help provide them some relief, he said.

The initiative indicates that slums are undergoing a revamp, with facilities like schools, health clinics and good toilets being set up there, the official said.

HOSPITAL FIRE

SAFETY NORMS WERE IGNORED: EXPERT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Nagpur, Jan 10: A day after a blaze at a hospital in Bhandara killed 10 infants, National Fire Service College Director Ramesh Kumar said fire safety standards were being ignored in sensitive establishments, including hospitals, and the issue requires a lot of attention.

Talking to PTI Sunday, Kumar said advance fire safety equipment are needed to be installed in all buildings and they have to be then properly maintained by trained staff.

Three fire engineers from the National Fire Service College, a Nagpur-based autonomous body managed by the Union Ministry of Home Affairs, are part of the team conducting a probe into the fire in a hospital at Bhandara in Maharashtra, he said.

"We would be emphasising on fire safety angles and how useful the safety equipment were and whether they were working or not, and whether the safety audit of the hospital took place or not," Kumar said.

He said the Centre as well as the Maharashtra government have laid down stringent fire safety norms.

"The Maharashtra government has also passed an Act that these norms should be followed, be it private or government buildings. But, these factors are being ignored by people. These factors need a lot of attention," he said.

"Advance fire safety equipment should be installed in all buildings, like hospitals, which are sensitive, and multi-storey buildings, where there is always a danger of collateral damage in case of a fire, and there should also be periodic inspections," the official said.

In most places, even if the fire safety equipment are installed, they are generally not functional. Even if they are functional, people are not trained to use it, he said.

CM MEETS VICTIMS' KIN

Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray Sunday met kin of the newborns who died in a fire at the Bhandara district hospital the day before and said orders have been issued for conducting safety audit of all hospitals in the state. Ten of the 17 infants, aged between one month and three months, died in the blaze erupted at the Special Newborn Care Unit of the four-storey state-run hospital here in east Maharashtra. Thackeray said the probe will ascertain if the fire was an accident or was the fallout of ignoring an earlier safety report. The CM also informed that orders have been issued to check if there have been any incidents of ignoring safety norms at hospitals.

'BMC needs 2 commissioners'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, Jan 10: Maharashtra Textiles Minister Aslam Shaikh has demanded two municipal commissioners for Mumbai to facilitate better development of the metropolis and provision of basic amenities to the people.

Shaikh, who is also the guardian minister of Mumbai city in a video posted on his Twitter handle Saturday, said he has made the demand on the lines of the prevailing system of separate collectors for the island city and suburbs.

Considering the growing population and expansion of the city and suburbs, having two commissioners will make it easier to provide basic amenities like water, footpath, gardens sewage facilities and other development expeditiously.

At present, it is not possible for one commissioner to address all these issues urgently, the Congress leader said, adding that he had held a meeting with the urban development department and a decision is expected soon.

There should be two civic commissioners - one for the island city and one for the suburbs. This will help maintain both geographical and population balance, said Shaikh, who is the MLA from Mumbai's Malvani constituency.

However, Maharashtra BJP MLA Atul Bhatkalkar hit back at Shaikh and accused the Congress of attempting to divide Mumbai.

The BJP will never allow such a proposal and will take to streets to oppose it. We demand that the Shiv Sena make its stand clear on this, he said.

Preventive measures in place at Lucknow zoo

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Lucknow, Jan 10: Following the confirmation of bird flu in samples collected from the Kanpur zoo, the Nawab Wajid Ali Shah Zoological Garden in Lucknow is opting for preventive measures and keeping a close watch on the birds kept in the bird enclosure, officials said on Sunday.

No case (of bird flu) has been reported here, yet we are taking all the preventive measures. The virus spreads from the excreta of migratory birds and our effort is to ensure that it does not come here, zoo Director RK Singh said.

Bottles containing a solution of potassium permanganate have been kept at the gates of the zoo so that the visitors enter the premises disinfected, he said.

We are maintaining a watch on the birds' enclosure. If any unusual behaviour is seen in any bird, it will be taken to the isolation ward, Singh added.

In Bareilly, arrangements to provide drinking water to migratory birds have been shut and reflectors are being installed at the Central Avian Research Institute (CARI).

In order to ensure that migratory birds do not enter the CARI cam-

Yogi Adityanath directed officials on Friday to remain alert in view of the bird-flu cases reported from various parts of the country.

He asked the officials to relieve the Indian Veterinary Research Institute (IVRI) in Bareilly of all responsibilities relating to COVID-19 so that it can concentrate on bird flu and its testing, an official release said.

Holding a review meeting with senior officials, the chief minister pointed out that every year in winter, migratory birds arrive in large numbers in Allahabad, where the Magh Mela is also organised.

Thus, there is a need to take extra precautions in view of the bird-flu scare, he said.

The chief minister directed the Prayagraj Mela Pradhikaran to make people aware of the matter and also asked the mela authority to publicise that pilgrims should not feed the birds.

Farmers' unrest continues

HUNDREDS OF PROTESTING FARMERS INDULGED IN VANDALISM AND VIOLENCE AT A 'KISAN MAHAPANCHAYAT' EVENT JUST AHEAD OF THE ARRIVAL OF HARYANA CHIEF MINISTER MANOHAR LAL KHATTAR, FORCING AUTHORITIES TO CANCEL THE EVENT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Karnal (Har), Jan 10: Protesting farmers here on Sunday vandalised the venue of a "kisan mahapanchayat" where Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar was to address people to highlight "benefits" of the Centre's three agriculture laws.

The Haryana Police used water cannons and lobbed teargas shells to prevent farmers from marching towards Kaimla village, where the programme was to be held. The farmers, however, reached the venue and damaged a makeshift helipad where Khattar's chopper was to land despite elaborate security arrangements made by police. Some protesters also uprooted its tiles.

They damaged the programme stage, breaking chairs, tables and flower pots at the venue. Police personnel were also pelted with stones and had to run for cover. They also tore BJP hoardings and uprooted banners in the presence of police. Under the banner of the Bharatiya Kisan Union (Charuni), farmers had earlier announced to oppose the "kisan mahapanchayat".

Later in the evening, Khattar accused BKU (Charuni) president Gurnam Singh Charuni, the Congress and Communists for "instigating" people. Police had made elaborate security arrangements for the chief minister's visit to the village where he was to speak to people to highlight "benefits" of the new farm laws.

Director General of Police (Crime) Muhammad Akil was also present at the spot. The protesting farmers earlier carried black flags and shouted slogans against the BJP-led state government as they attempted to march towards Kaimla village.

Police put up barricades at the entry points of the village to prevent them from reaching the programme venue. However, the farmers crossed the barricade put up at Gharaunda on the Kaimla road. Police had also parked several trucks carrying sand at one of the roads to prevent them from entering Kaimla village. Karnal Superintendent of Police Ganga Ram Punia also tried to pacify the agitators, but in vain. "All farmers are here to whom the CM 'sahib' intends to explain the farm laws. We will not allow the government to hold this programme," a protester said.

The farmers criticised the state government, saying it was holding a programme over the laws at a time when farmers across the country protesting against these. The government is trying to rub salt into our wounds with this "kisan mahapanchayat", another protester added. Some local villagers and BJP workers also had a face-off with the protesters when they reached the venue.

Police also resorted to mild cane charge to disperse them. Addressing the media in Chandigarh, Haryana CM Manohar Lal Khattar said he gave directions to land his chopper in Karnal keeping in mind the law and order situation.

He held the Congress and Communists responsible for this incident, saying such "andhergardi" is not acceptable. "If anybody is involved in this agitation, it is the Congress and Communists," he claimed. Khattar said some farmer leaders who had assured not to disrupt the event backtracked from their promise. "I want to state that there is a strong democracy in the country and everybody has the right to put forth his point," he said. He said those who were behind the act have defamed the farming community. "Our farmers do not involve in such things," he said. The CM said whatever he wanted to say to people in the "kisan mahapanchayat" was said by party leaders who were present there.

To a question, Khattar denied that there was any intelligence failure behind this incident. Reacting to the incident, Leader of Opposition Bhupinder Singh Hooda said the government should avoid confrontation with farmers.

"Farmers have certain apprehensions over the new farm Acts.

The government should rather repeal these Acts as desired by farmers and avoid confrontation with them by holding functions like the mahapanchayat," he said. The former CM reiterated his demand of convening a session of the state assembly. "This government has lost the faith of its legislators and people. The Congress wants to bring a no-confidence motion against the Khattar government," he said. Haryana Congress chief Kumari Selja said the mahapanchayat convened by Khattar did not get support from people.

"The government has lost the trust of people," she said. AICC general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala said the proposed mahapanchayat was a "government sponsored" event which has been shown "its true picture" by the protesters. Meanwhile, a purported video of BKU leader Gurnam Singh Charuni, making an appeal to end the arrogance of the CM by not allowing him to address the mahapanchayat, circulated on social media. On January 6, the BKU (Charuni) had threatened to oppose the "kisan mahapanchayat". Besides addressing the programme, the Haryana CM was also supposed to announce development works worth Rs 47 crore for Karnal.

SC to hear pleas on farm laws, ongoing agitation today

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: Amid a deadlock in the government's negotiations with protesting farmer unions, the Supreme Court is scheduled to hear Monday a clutch of pleas challenging the new farm laws as well as the ones raising issues related to the ongoing agitation at Delhi borders.

The eighth round of talks between the Centre and the farmer unions January 7 appeared heading nowhere as the Centre ruled out repealing the contentious laws while the farmer leaders said they are ready to fight till death and their 'ghar waapsi' will happen only after 'law waapsi'. The Monday hearing on the pleas by a bench headed by Chief Justice S A Bobde assumes significance as the Centre and the farmer leaders are scheduled to hold their next meeting on January 15. The top court, which had observed that there is no improvement on the ground regarding farmers' protests, was told by the Centre on the last date of hearing that "healthy discussions" were going on between the government and the unions over all the issues and there was good chance that both sides may come to a conclusion in the near future. The court had then assured the government of an adjournment January 11 provided it urges so saying that the settlement through talks was a possibility. "We understand the situation and encourage the consultation. We can adjourn the matters on Monday (January 11) if you submit the same due to the ongoing consultation process," it had said.

After the eighth round of talks, Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar had said no decision could be reached as the farmer leaders did not present alternatives to their demand for the repeal of the laws. On Saturday, a farmers' body, Consortium of Indian Farmers Associations (CIFA), moved the top court in support of the three laws and sought immediate implementation in the matter.

It said the laws are "beneficial" to farmers and will enable increased income and growth of agriculture. The apex court had earlier issued notice and sought the Centre's response on a batch of pleas against the three contentious farm laws -- the Farmers' (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, the Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, and the Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act.

Don't deploy officials with record of lapses, says EC

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: Gearing up for elections in five states in the coming months, the EC has reminded these states not to assign any poll-related duty to officials who have been charged for any lapse in any election in the past.

In an advisory to the chief secretaries of Assam, Kerala, West Bengal, Tamil Nadu and Puducherry, the Election Commission (EC) has also said that officers against whom it had recommended disciplinary action in past and which is pending or has resulted in a penalty should also not be deployed for poll-related work.

The advisory, sent last month, said any officer, who is due to retire within the coming six months, should not be associated with any election-related duty.

The terms of the legislative assemblies of West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Assam, Kerala and Puducherry are coming to an end on different dates in May and June this year. Assembly elections are likely to take place sometime in April-May.

The poll watchdog also asked these states to ensure that officers directly connected with the conduct of elections are not posted in their home districts and those who have spent three years in a district in the last four years.

It is usual for the poll panel to issue such directions ahead of Lok Sabha or assembly polls to ensure that officials do not interfere in the election process in any way and the exercise remains free and fair.

'nCoV ICU patients at risk of acute brain dysfunction'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: COVID-19 patients admitted to intensive care in the early months of the pandemic experienced a higher burden of delirium and coma than is typically found in those hospitalised with acute respiratory failure, according to the largest study of its kind to date.

The research, published in The Lancet Respiratory Medicine journal, tracked the incidence of delirium and coma in over 2,000 COVID-19 patients admitted before April 28, 2020, to 69 adult intensive care units across 14 countries. According to the scientists, led by those at Vanderbilt University Medical Center in the US, the choice of sedative medications and curbs on family visitation played a role in increasing acute brain dysfunction for these patients. They said ICU delirium is associated with higher medical costs and greater risk of death and long-term ICU-related dementia. Nearly 82 per cent of the patients in the study were comatose for a median of 10 days, and 55 per cent were delirious for a median of three days. The scientists noted that acute brain dysfunction lasted for an average of 12 days. "This is double what is seen in non-COVID ICU patients," said study co-author Brenda Pun from VUMC. The scientists believe COVID-19 could predispose patients to a higher burden of acute brain dysfunction.

COVID-19 IMPACT

MoE suggests door-to-door survey to enroll students

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: The Education Ministry has asked the states to conduct a door-to-door survey to identify out-of-school children and prepare an action plan for their enrolment as part of efforts to mitigate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, especially on migrants, according to officials.

The ministry has also recommended relaxing detention norms to prevent drop-outs this year as well as a slew of measures to address learning loss due to the coronavirus-induced shutdown of schools. The move is particularly aimed at identification, admission and continued education of migrant children who have been affected during the pandemic, they said. "In order to mitigate the impact of challenges thrown by the COVID-19 pandemic for out of school children, it was felt necessary for every state and UT to devise a proper strategy for preventing increased dropouts, lower enrolments, loss of learning and deterioration in the gains made in providing universal access, quality and equity in the recent years," a senior ministry official said.

"The states and UTs have been advised to carry out proper identification of Out-of-School Children (OoSC) for 6 to 18 years age group through a comprehensive door-to-door survey and prepare an action plan for their enrolment," the official added.

The ministry has also issued guidelines for offering support to students during the closure of schools and when they reopen.

"To ensure that school-going children have access to education with quality and equity and to minimize the impact of the pandemic on school education across the country, the Ministry of Education has prepared and issued detailed guidelines on steps to be taken by the States and UTs during school closure and when the schools reopen," the official said. Exploring the option of classroom-on-wheels and classes in small groups at the village level, increasing the access of children to online and digital resources, use of TV and radio to reduce learning losses and ensuring easy and timely access to the provisions of uniforms, textbooks and mid-day meals are among the recommendations made by the ministry for student support during the closure of schools.

Similarly, the guidelines for student support when schools reopen after prolonged closure include preparation and running of school readiness modules and bridge course for the initial period so that they can adjust to the school environment and do not feel stressed or left-out.

Identifying students across different grades based on their learning levels and relaxing detention norms to prevent drop out this year have also been recommended.

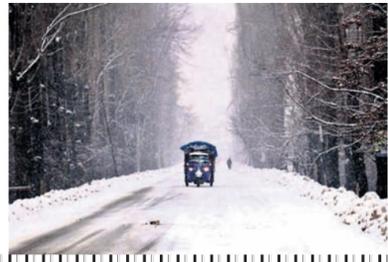

The ministry has also suggested encouraging children to read books beyond the syllabus and indulge in creative writing and problem solving for ensuring reading with comprehension and numeracy skills. Large-scale remedial programmes and learning enhancement programmes should be held to mitigate learning loss and inequality, it recommended.

BIRD FLU SCARE

Centre asks states, UTs to increase surveillance

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Jan 10: The Centre has directed states and union territories across the country to increase surveillance around water bodies, live bird markets, zoos, and poultry farms as well as strengthen biosecurity at poultry farms amid the bird flu scare.

The Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry and Dairying said in a statement on Sunday that the states and UTs have been asked to increase public awareness and prevent the spread of misinformation on the avian influenza or bird flu.

The states and UTs have also been requested to ensure proper disposal of animal/bird carcasses, the statement added.

After the confirmation of avian influenza in samples taken from poultry from two farms in Panchkula district of Haryana, the state had deployed nine rapid response teams and undertaken control and containment operations at both the places, the Ministry added.

Samples of crows/wild birds had confirmed avian influenza (H5) in Surat district of Gujarat as well as Sirohi district in Rajasthan. Further, reports of unusual deaths of 86 crows and 2 egrets were received from Kangra district in Himachal Pradesh.

Reports of unusual mortality of wild birds was also received from Nahan, Bilaspur and Mandi in Himachal and the samples sent to a designated laboratory for testing, the Ministry said.

Advisories have since been issued to the affected states to prevent further spread of the avian disease. So far, the disease has been confirmed from Kerala, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, Haryana, Gujarat, and Uttar Pradesh. "The test reports of samples sent to the designated laboratory from Delhi and Maharashtra are still awaited. Further, no samples have been confirmed positive for avian flu in wild birds from Balod district in Chhattisgarh," it added. The control and containment operation has been completed in two affected districts of Kerala and post-operational surveillance programme guidelines issued to the southern state. The central teams formed to monitor the situation are visiting the affected areas across the country. One of the central teams visited Kerala on January 9 and is monitoring the epicentre spots and also conducting epidemiological investigations. Another central team visited Himachal on January 10 and undertook a survey in the affected areas.

The Centre said test reports of samples from Delhi and Maharashtra, which have been sent to the designated laboratory, are still awaited. Control and containment have been completed in both the affected districts of Kerala. Post operational surveillance programme guidelines have been issued to the state. Meanwhile, the central teams formed for monitoring the situation in the affected areas of the country are visiting the affected sites. One of the central teams reached Kerala on January 9 and is presently monitoring the epicentre sites and conducting epidemiological investigation. Another central team reached Himachal Pradesh on January 10 and is undertaking survey in the affected areas.

'Good news' on K'taka Cabinet rejig soon: Yedi

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi/Bangalore, Jan 10: Karnataka Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa Sunday expressed confidence of soon getting a final clearance from the central BJP leadership for the much-awaited cabinet rejig in the state after he met senior party leaders including its chief JP Nadda and Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

State party in-charge Arun Singh was also present in an hour-long meeting held at Shah's residence in Delhi. "On cabinet expansion, there was a detailed discussion. You will get good news soon," Yediyurappa told reporters after the meeting.

He said the final names will be cleared as early as possible because there was "positive, fruitful and satisfactory discussion." "I am happy with the discussion. ... We will wait for their instructions," he said, adding the central leadership has assured its support.

When asked if this was the last meeting on cabinet expansion with the senior party leaders, the CM said, "A 101 percent this is the last meeting. They are going to clear the names as soon as possible." The cabinet expansion in the state has been on the cards for over a year now, but it could not take place, giving some anxious moments to ministerial aspirants and also leading to dissatisfaction.

Further, the CM said he suggested some names and also expressed confidence that the central BJP leadership will respond to that in a positive way. Asked if it would be a cabinet expansion or a re-shuffle, the CM said "you will get to know when they inform".

Apart from the cabinet rejig, the CM said there were discussions also on the upcoming bypolls in the state for two assembly and one parliamentary seats. "They asked me to send the names of the candidates at the earliest for clearance," he said, adding the leadership also told him to ensure the party's victory on all three seats. The senior party leaders also expressed happiness over recent gram Panchayat results, he added. The CM said he will return to Bengaluru tonight itself. Among those in the ministerial race in the state are MLAs Umesh Katti, Munirathna, Basanagouda Patil Yatnal, M P Renukacharya, Aravind Limbavali and S R Vishwanath.

Three MLCs - C P Yogeshwar, MTB Nagaraj and R Shankar - are too aspiring for a ministerial berth. Another MLC, A H Vishwanath, too was in the race but his hopes dashed when the Karnataka High Court on November 30 barred him from becoming a minister until at least May this year. The state can have a total of 34 ministers and it has 27 now.

Rajini fans hold demonstration

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Chennai, Jan 10: Fans of actor Rajinikanth Sunday held a peaceful demonstration here Sunday, demanding their screen idol take a plunge into the Tamil Nadu politics.

The actor's fans held banners reading "Va Thalaivava (Come Leader Come)", and "Ippo Illaina, Eppovum Illai (If Not Now, Never)" as they urged Rajinikanth to get into the state politics as he had announced earlier. The demonstration was held despite the request made by the Rajini Makkal Mandram not to go ahead with it.

On December 29, 2020, Rajinikanth announced his decision not to get into Tamil Nadu politics, citing Covid-19 pandemic as it would risk his health condition. His volte-face came a few days after he, earlier in December, sounded his poll bugle against the ruling AIADMK as well as against the major opposition party DMK.

"The time has come to change the fate of Tamil Nadu. Political and government change in the state is important. It will surely change. The political change is important and is compulsion of time. If not now, it is not possible ever. Everything has to be changed. We will change everything," he had said. The actor had said he would float his political party in January 2021 and an announcement in that regard will be made December 31, 2020.

However, a bout of illness forced him to change his plans. On December 31, 2017, Rajinikanth had announced his decision to float a political party to practice 'spiritual politics' and contest all 234 Assembly seats in Tamil Nadu in 2021.

Bird flu virus is heat-labile

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Jan 10: Contrary to what some people think that the bird flu virus, also known as Avian influenza, is spread to humans via consumption of cooked poultry products, health experts Sunday stressed that it usually does not infect people as the virus is heat-labile (degraded and killed when subjected to heat).

Avian influenza refers to the disease caused by infection with avian (bird) influenza (flu) Type A viruses. These viruses occur naturally among wild aquatic birds worldwide and can infect domestic poultry and other bird and animal species. According to the World Health Organisation (WHO), cooking of poultry (e.g. chicken, ducks and geese) at or above 70 degree Celsius so that absolutely no meat remains raw and red, is a safe measure to kill the virus in areas with outbreaks in poultry.

Richa Sareen, consultant (pulmonology) at Fortis Vasant Kunj in New Delhi, said the virus is heat-labile and it gets killed with cooking temperatures.

"At this time, people should eat fully cooked chicken and eggs and not raw or partially cooked ones. One should avoid going to open markets that sell poultry as they are the focal point of the spread," Sareen told IANS. "People who handle poultry should take special precautions. They should wear PPE, gloves and masks while handling birds and should practice frequent hand washing," she added.

Although the virus causing bird flu usually does not infect people, but rare cases of human infection with these viruses have been reported, especially in individuals working with infected domestic birds. Bird Flu is a communicable virus among the avian population and human to human spread is not too prominent with the current strain. However, viruses are prone to mutation, so if this virus undergoes mutation in future, it has the potential to spread from human to human and cause a pandemic.

Rumblings in 'parivar'

The six-term Gujarat MP Mansukh Vasava may have withdrawn his resignation from the BJP and also Lok Sabha after a lot of prodding by top leadership of the saffron leadership. But it did expose the rumblings in the 'parivar'. These rumblings rarely surface as the BJP has been keeping its affairs behind the curtains. But Vasava fired the public salvo after he failed to persuade the PMO to withdraw the controversial notification by the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC) declaring 121 villages in Narmada district in Gujarat as part of eco-sensitive zone. He had extended his support to the movement by tribals on the issue. Since he came from Modi's home state, no minister or leader could dare interfere in the Gujarat affairs. An upset Vasava dropped the bombshell by quitting his Lok Sabha seat and all hell broke. It is learnt that the PM spoke to him and he withdrew the resignation within the next 36 hours. But this incident should be a wakeup call as it brings out chinks in the working of the government where nothing moves without the PMO. The BJP Rajya Sabha MP, Subramanian Swamy, has been bitterly attacking the government on many issues. But he never attacked the PMO. However, he targeted the PMO for appointing someone as principal scientific adviser; Dr. Vijay Raghavan brought the Chinese Wuhan Bat virus project to Nagaland to experiment on the Bats without clearance. Soon instructions went that no party functionary should react to his statements. In another tweet, Swamy urged the prime minister to cancel the Republic Day parade this year in view of the pandemic.

Yechury pivot of Oppn unity

CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury will renew efforts of uniting the opposition parties and speak to the Congress leaders including Rahul Gandhi after his return from abroad. He will also speak to NCP chief Sharad Pawar among others. Interestingly, it is Sitaram Yechury who invited Sharad Pawar to Delhi for talks late last month as he is the 'tallest leader among the opposition parties.' Yechury will talk to Rahul Gandhi with whom he has a wonderful chemistry and bring the like-minded together. Congress is riddled with dissensions and defections and the death of senior leader Ahmed Patel has created a vacuum in the political arena. The Congress doesn't have a leader of stature who can talk to all top political leaders of other parties. Now Yechury has taken up the task of uniting the opposition like his predecessor late Harkishan Singh Surjeet in the 90s. It was CPM late leader V P Singh, H D Deve Gowda and I K Gujral as Prime Ministers in the 90s. Yechury felt that the fundamental issue was that the opposition needs to be strengthened and all parties have to be brought together. These parties had come together in the past and now coming together on the farmers' issue.

Govt on a sticky wicket

The government is 'ready' to give written assurance to farmers on Minimum Support Price (MSP) for their produce. But incorporating the same into the law is turning out to be a vex issue. Reason; of the 23 crops falling under the MSP regime, only wheat, rice and maize are procured at MSP rates. Even Wheat & rice is procured only 8-10% of the total production outside Punjab & Haryana by the Centre. Noted agriculture economist Ashok Gulati had put this figure to only 6% while it may be 30% plus in Punjab & Haryana. Therefore, there is a catch when Pushpendra Singh, convener of the Kisan Shakti Forum said "Let the government make it mandatory for the private Mandis too outside the APMCs to procure only at the MSP rates." Various studies have shown that farmers' produce is hardly sold above the MSP as per Agmarknet - the government's own price information system. The Agmarknet takes price and quantity data from around 3000 mandis across the country. It showed most 'losses' were in the sale of maize, groundnut and other crops. For example, bajra in Karnataka was 45% below the MSP in October & Jowar in Madhya Pradesh sold at 56% lower than the MSP in October. Already, the food subsidy bill estimate for the FY21 Budget is Rs 2,53,000 crore and this does not include Rs 1,50,000 crore spent on supplying free food during April-November to address the impact of Covid-19 crisis.

'Prince Harry, Meghan quit social media for good'

The couple who had announced their decision to step back from official royal duties to relocate with their one-year-old son Archie last year will no longer use platforms like Twitter and Facebook

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, Jan 10: Prince Harry and wife Meghan Markle, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex, have reportedly decided to quit social media as they focus on their roles in the US away from frontline British royalty.

According to 'The Sunday Times', the couple who had announced their decision to step back from official royal duties to relocate with their one-year-old son Archie last year will no longer use platforms such as Twitter and Facebook.

The duo, who amassed more than 10 million Instagram followers as working royals, are reportedly rejecting social media as part of their new "progressive role" in America.

A source close to the couple told the newspaper they had "no plans" to use social media for their new Archewell Foundation and were "very unlikely" to return to platforms in a personal capacity.

The couple is understood to have become disillusioned by the "hate they encountered on social media. Meghan Markle, a former actress, has spoken about the "almost unsurvivable" experience of online trolling. Before her marriage to Prince Harry in 2018, the 39-year-old had a prolific social media presence, with 1.9 million followers on Instagram, 350,000 Twitter followers and 800,000 likes on her Facebook page. She also had a lifestyle website and blog called The Tig and used the sites for her commercial fashion and beauty partnerships, to promote her friends' businesses, offer food and travel tips.

However, she had shut those down soon after she began dating the 36-year-old prince and the couple together created the @SussexRoyal

Instagram account. However, they stopped posting on the account as part of branding negotiations with the royal family after stepping down from official duties.

According to the newspaper report, instead of using social media, Harry and Meghan are poised to continue promoting their work in online video and television appearances, through selected publications and via their Archewell website, which they launched fully on New Year's Eve. They also have production and podcast deals in place with the streaming giants Netflix and Spotify. They are also expected to resume more frequent public appearances when the coronavirus pandemic eases.

4 dead following shooting spree in Chicago area

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago, Jan 10: A man killed three people and wounded four others in a series of shootings over roughly four hours that started on Chicago's South Side and ended with his death in a shootout with police in a parking lot just north of the city.

Investigators are trying to determine a motive for the attacks, which began Saturday afternoon with the killing of a 30-year-old University of Chicago student who was shot in the head while sitting in his car in a parking garage in the Hyde Park neighborhood, Chicago police Superintendent David Brown told reporters. He didn't release any of the victims' names.

The shooter, 32-year-old Jason Nightengale, then "just randomly" walked into an apartment building a block away, where he shot a 46-year-old security guard who was sitting at the desk and a 77-year-old woman who was getting her mail, Brown said. The guard was pronounced dead at a hospital and the older woman, who was shot in the head, was hospitalized in critical condition, the Chicago Tribune reported.

Chinese media blasts latest Pompeo move on Taiwan

AGENCIES

Beijing, Jan 10: China's state media lashed out at the latest move on Taiwan by the departing Trump administration, accusing US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo of "seeking to maliciously inflict a long-lasting scar on China-US ties."

A writer for the official Xinhua News Agency said in a commentary Sunday that the lifting of longstanding restrictions on US government contacts with Taiwanese counterparts proves that Pompeo "is only interested in stoking unwarranted confrontations, and has no interest in world peace."

A commentary posted online by CGTN, the English-language channel of state broadcaster CCTV, called Pompeo's announcement "a cowardly act of sabotage" of the next US administration.

"The Trump administration, in its continuing efforts to burn the house down before leaving office, has crossed a dangerous red line with China days before incoming President Joe Biden takes office," the commentary read in part. Biden takes office January 20.

Under the One China policy, the US recognises Beijing as the government of China and doesn't have diplomatic relations with Taiwan. However, it maintains unofficial contacts with Taiwan

"We are expressing our gratitude toward the US for speaking out and supporting Taiwan," Premier Su Tseng-chang told reporters. "We also hope to interact actively with each other further, so that Taiwan could have an even bigger space in the international society."

He and Foreign Minister Joseph Wu, who thanked Pompeo on Twitter, emphasized the values of freedom and democracy shared by Taiwan and the US—a contrast to China's authoritarian one-party state.

'No talks with India until autonomy restored in JK'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Islamabad, Jan 10: Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan said Sunday that no dialogue is possible with India until New Delhi restores the autonomous status of Jammu and Kashmir.

Khan said this while responding to a question about any possibility of a dialogue with New Delhi during his interactions with the representatives of the digital media in Islamabad.

"No talks possible with India until they restore the autonomous status" of Jammu and Kashmir, he said. "We don't have adversarial relations with any country except India which is trying to destabilise Pakistan," he claimed.

Ties between India and Pakistan nosedived after a terror attack on the Pathankot Air Force base in 2016 by terror groups based in Pakistan. Subsequent attacks, including one on Indian Army camp in Uri, further deteriorated the relationship. The relationship further dipped after India's war planes pounded a Jaish-e-Mohammed terrorist training camp deep inside Pakistan on February 26, 2019 in response to the Pulwama terror attack in which 40 CRPF jawans were killed. Withdrawal of Jammu and Kashmir's special powers and bifurcating the state into two union territories in August last year also evoked a strong reaction from Pakistan, which has been unsuccessfully trying to rally international support against India on the Kashmir issue

Britain is 'gung ho' about world role after Brexit

AGENCIES

United Nations, Jan 10: Britain's new UN ambassador says the government is feeling "gung ho" about continuing its role as an important player on the world stage despite its exit from the European Union.

Barbara Woodward pointed to the United Kingdom's permanent seat on the powerful UN Security Council, its presidency this year of the Group of Seven major industrialized nations, its membership in the Group of 20 leading economic powers and NATO, and its hosting of the next United Nations global climate summit in Glasgow, Scotland, in November. "Don't underestimate the power of the relationship with the EU," she stressed in an interview with The Associated Press this past week.

"There's a lot of values and principles which we share with European partners which I think will stand us in good stead." Britain's long and sometimes contentious divorce from the EU became final December 31, a split that left the 27-member bloc without one of its major economic powers and the UK freer to chart its future but facing a world trying to confront a deadly pandemic and cope with rising unemployment, growing divisions between haves and have-nots, and a climate crisis. An article in the US-based World Politics Review in October identified three visions for Britain's future: "Catastrophists who argue that the UK has become completely irrelevant on the international stage as a result of Brexit; the nostalgics, who see a powerful Britain through the lens of a great colonial power; and the denialists, who refuse to accept that Britain must adapt to a changing global context."

"Yet the country continues to carry weight." Woodward, who came to the UN after more than five years as ambassador to China and previously served in Russia, agrees.

She said PM Boris Johnson is "very keen on multilateralism."

'CITIES KEY TO INDIA'S POST-PANDEMIC GROWTH'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: Cities have borne the maximum brunt of the COVID-19 outbreak but they will also be key to India's post-pandemic growth as they account for nearly 70 per cent of the country's GDP and an average of 25-30 people migrate to cities from rural areas every single minute, a new study has shown. The study by the Geneva-based World Economic Forum (WEF) said the unfolding COVID-19 pandemic has been catastrophic for cities. "According to estimates, about 70 per cent of India's GDP comes from its cities and around 25-30 people migrate to the cities from rural areas every minute. However, most big cities in India have a wide economic disparity, with expansive slums and a large urban poor population," the WEF said.

The study further said that about 25 million households in India - 35 per cent of all urban households - cannot afford housing at market prices and it is time to create a new urban paradigm that enables cities to be healthier, more inclusive and more resilient.

The WEF report, titled Indian Cities in the Post-Pandemic World, highlights the country's most pressing urban challenges that were further exacerbated by the pandemic. The report also provides insights for translating the lessons learned from the pandemic into an urban reform agenda. The impact of the pandemic has been profoundly uneven on different population groups. Vulnerable populations, including low-income migrant workers, have suffered the dual blows of lost income and weak social-protection coverage, while the pandemic has also laid bare gender-based imbalances in public and private life in India's urban areas, the WEF said.

The report, produced in collaboration with Mumbai-based IDFC Institute, compiles insights from leading global and Indian urban experts across seven thematic pillars - planning, housing, transport, environment, public health, gender and vulnerable populations.

Among other recommendations, the report underscores the critical role data can play in helping cities manage and direct emergency operations during a crisis.

"But data alone is not a panacea; realizing the potential of cities requires empowered and capable governance, investment in transport and infrastructure to fuel productive urban economies, and a rethink of outdated planning norms and regulations," the WEF said.

The wide-ranging recommendations compiled in the report include a rethink of outdated urban planning regulations, which will make cities more compact, commuter-friendly and green.

It also recommends greater decentralisation and empowerment of local governments, which will allow for more proximate and responsive governance.

'Economy heading towards V-shaped recovery in 2021'

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Jan 10: India's economy is showing decisive signs of a 'V-shaped' recovery in 2021 with the return of consumer confidence, robust financial markets, an uptick in manufacturing and exporters braving it out in the global market with never-say-die spirit, ASSOCHAM said Sunday.

The industry chamber said it expects immense accruals of economic benefits from the COVID-19 vaccination programme about to be rolled out.

"The high-frequency data is a strong pointer to a V-shaped recovery in 2021 with the seeds bursting into green shoots over the last two months of 2020 itself," ASSOCHAM Secretary General Deepak Sood said.

India's GDP is estimated to contract by a record 7.7 per cent during 2020-21 as the COVID-19 pandemic severely hit the key manufacturing and services segments, as per government projections released on Thursday.

"With India about to roll out its vaccination programme with approvals of the two vaccines, the accruals of the economic benefits would be significant, especially to sectors such as hospitality, transport, entertainment, which were hit hard during the pandemic," Sood said.

According to ASSOCHAM, the most definitive of the data is the record collection of Rs 1.15 lakh crore in the Goods and Services Tax (GST) during December.

"The state-wise collection showed the fightback spirit in consumer confidence. Illustratively, the largest consumption state of Maharashtra, which was amongst the severely affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, has posted a healthy growth of seven per cent in GST collection; even as the total GST mop-up was up 12 per cent year-on-year," Sood said.

He said the Budget for 2021-22 would be a major catalyst. "Great focus on healthcare, agriculture and revival of demand would be imperatives in Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman's Budget".

The entire healthcare value chain from hospitals to medical education, primary health centres, scientific laboratories and further to the pharmaceutical industry along with the logistics is most likely to receive a booster shot of support from the forthcoming Budget, Sood added.

FMCG cos look to hike prices

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Jan 10: Consumers may have to shell out more money for their daily use products as FMCG firms, which are facing inflationary pressure on their key raw material inputs, are considering marginal hike on their products price to offset it.

Some FMCG companies like Marico and others have already gone for price hike, while some which include Dabur, Parle and Patanjali are closely monitoring the situation.

FMCG players have been trying to absorb the price increase of raw material inputs such as coconut oil, edible oil and palm oil, but they are unlikely to hold the prices of their commodities for a long time as that will impact their gross margins. "We have seen a significant rise in input cost and especially edible oil in the last three to four months and that is putting pressures on our margins and costs. As of now, we have not taken any price hike but we are closely monitoring it and if it goes like this then probably, we may go for a price hike," Parle Products Senior Category Head Mayank Shah said.

According to him, these commodities are cyclic in nature. When asked about the price hike, Shah said: "It will be across products as edible oil is being used in all products. It would be at least 4 to 5 per cent."

CAIT asks govt to ban WhatsApp, Facebook over new privacy policy

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Jan 10: Traders' body CAIT Sunday wrote to Information and Technology Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad demanding that the government restrict WhatsApp from implementing its new privacy policy or impose a ban on the messaging app and its parent company Facebook.

The Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) claimed that through the new privacy policy, "all kinds of personal data, payment transactions, contacts, location and other vital information of a person who is using WhatsApp will be acquired by it and can be used for any purpose by WhatsApp".

In the communication to Prasad, CAIT has demanded that "government should immediately restrict WhatsApp from implementing the new policy or put a ban on WhatsApp and its parent company Facebook", the traders' body stated.

CAIT said Facebook has more than 200 million users in India and enabling it to access data of every user can pose serious threat to not only the economy but even to the security of the country.

However, in an email response to PTI, a WhatsApp spokesperson said, "To further increase transparency, we updated the privacy policy to describe that going forward businesses can choose to receive secure hosting services from our parent company Facebook to help manage their communications with their customers on WhatsApp.

"Though of course, it remains up to the user whether or not they want to message with a business on WhatsApp."

The spokesperson further said that the update does not change WhatsApp's data sharing practices with Facebook and does not impact how people communicate privately with friends or family wherever they are in the world.

'Include natural gas under GST to push for gas-based economy'

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Jan 10: The government should bring natural gas under the Goods and Services Tax (GST) regime to realise Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision for a gas-based economy and raising the share of the environment-friendly fuel in India's energy basket, the industry has said.

Natural gas is currently outside the ambit of GST, and existing legacy taxes - central excise duty, state VAT, central sales tax - continue to be applicable on the fuel.

"Non-inclusion of natural gas under GST regime is having adverse impact on its prices due to stranding of taxes in the hands of gas producers/suppliers and is also impacting natural gas-based industries due to stranding of legacy taxes paid on it," the Federation of Indian Petroleum Industry (FIPI) said.

In a pre-Budget memorandum to the Finance Ministry, FIPI, which boasts of members from across the oil and gas spectrum, said the value-added tax (VAT) rate on natural gas is very high in different states - 14.5 per cent in Uttar Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh, 15 per cent in Gujarat, 14 per cent in Madhya Pradesh.

"Since gas-based industries do not get the benefit of tax credit of VAT paid on purchases of natural gas, it is resulting in an increase in cost of production of such industrial consumers and would have an inflationary effect on the economy," it said.

China recovering faster than bigger economies: IMF

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, Jan 10: China is recovering fast ahead of most large economies, but the recovery is still unbalanced and facing significant downside risks, the IMF has said, projecting an eight per cent growth rate for the world's second largest economy in 2021.

However, the main concern around the Chinese recovery that the International Monetary Fund (IMF) has is the lack of balance, said Hlge Berger, Mission Chief for China and Assistant Director, Asia and Pacific Department of the IMF.

The recovery is still relying mostly on public support. Private investment has strengthened recently, but consumption is lagging. Growth rates and consumption recently have been higher, but the level of consumption compared to its pre-crisis trend is still rather low, he told reporters during a conference call Saturday on the publication of the 2020 China Article IV Staff Report.

"China is recovering fast ahead of most large economies, but the recovery is still unbalanced and facing significant downside risks. We are seeing growth at around 2 per cent in 2020 and around 8 per cent in 2021. December numbers have been surprising on the upside, so there are some upside risks to that forecast," said Berger. On the other hand, he said that there are significant downside risks. Domestically, there is a pandemic risk that is still around. Also, the external environment has generally become a little bit more difficult for China and its economic relations with other countries.

POST-COVID TIMES

Growth rates and consumption recently have been higher, but the level of consumption compared to its pre-crisis trend is still rather low

China's recovery is, however, unbalanced and facing significant downside risks

The external environment has generally become a bit more difficult for China and its economic relations with other countries

"This is a large reason for the fact that we think that there's still an output gap this year of 1.8 per cent. That's the difference between what the economy potentially can have in terms of GDP and what we are actually expecting in terms of demand. So that's where this lack of balance comes in, and this has important implications for the way macro policies should be conducted," Berger said. In the short term, he said, the IMF does not withdraw macroeconomic policy support prematurely in China. And this is the advice that other countries are getting from the IMF, so this is a bit of a global concern, but it applies to China as well.

"The second implication of our analysis of the outlook and the risks around it is that we need to make sure that we adjust the composition of macroeconomic support away from investment towards household support. This will directly help consumption. This has implications, of course, for our policies to strengthen the social safety net," Berger said.

Noting that structural reforms have been progressing despite the pandemic which is quite an achievement in China, Berger said that this reform effort has been predominantly in the area of opening financial services to the outside world, and less so in the real sector. Real sector reforms, however, are important, he said.

Australia captain Tim Paine was fined 15 per cent of his match fee Sunday for showing dissent at an umpire's decision on day three of the third Test. He was found to have breached 'Article 2.8 of the ICC Code of Conduct for Players and Player Support Personnel', the ICC said in a release.

New Delhi, Jan 10: Former cricketers and BCCI officials did not mince words as the racial slur against Mohammed Siraj overshadowed the keenly-contested third Test between India and Australia being played at Sydney. Here's what they had to say.

into the matter and quickly resolve this problem forever

Harbhajan Singh: I personally have heard many things on the field while playing in Australia about me, my religion, my colour and much more. This isn't the first time the crowd is doing this nonsense. How do you stop them?

Justin Langer: Sorry, it is upsetting and it is disappointing. ...It is one of my greatest pet hates in life that people can think they can come to a sporting event, whether it is cricket or any kind and pay their money and think that they can abuse or do whatever they like. I have hated it as a player, I have hated it as a coach, we have seen in different parts of the world, it is really sad to see this happen in Australia.

Jay Shah (BCCI secretary): Racism has no place in our great sport or in any walk of society. I've spoken to Cricket Australia and they have ensured strict action against the offenders. BCCI and Cricket Australia stand together. These acts of discrimination will not be tolerated at all.

MOMENT TO CHERISH: Australian players celebrate with bowler Josh Hazlewood after the dismissal of Shubman Gill at the SCG, Sunday

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Scoreboard

Sydney, Jan 10: Cheteshwar Pujara (9 batting, 29 balls) was left to summon his trademark doggedness with skipper Ajinkya Rahane (four batting) after India lost their openers in pursuit of an improbable 407 at the Sydney Cricket Ground here Sunday. The Test is at an intriguing stage with the Australians firm favourites to take a 2-1 lead in the four-match series. Pujara had faced flak for his 50 off 176 balls in the first innings. However, such is the situation that now such an effort is needed from the one-drop batsman after India finished the fourth day on 98 for two largely due to a 71-run opening stand between Rohit Sharma (52, 98b, 5x4, 1x6) and Shubman Gill (31). Rohit was unlucky picking out Mitchell Starc in the deep while pulling Pat Cummins. Gill on the other hand, fell to peach of a delivery from Josh Hazlewood. It was after 53 years that an Indian opening pair had struck two 50 plus partnerships in the same Test Down Under. Last time also it was here where Farokh Engineer and Syed Abid Ali had a decent outing albeit in a lost cause. A delectable chip shot coming down the track off Nathan Lyon helped Rohit bring up his half century but his dismissal in the next over left fans yearning for more. As far as Australia are concerned, they hardly put a foot wrong during the two sessions that they battled. Steve Smith (81, 167b, 8x4, 1x6) missed out on a second hundred but rookie Cameron Green (84, 132b, 8x4, 4x6) played a hapless Indian attack. The Aussies declared at the stroke of tea after putting on 312 for six wickets. It left the Indians to chase a victory target of 407. Marnus Labuschagne (73, 118b, 9x4) once again batted positively during his second century partnership of the match (103 runs) with Smith. The butter-fingered Indian fielders also didn't help the bowlers' cause as Hanuma Vihari, Rohit and Rahane missed regulation catches at square leg, slip and gully

Bengal hammer Odisha

The match was over in a canter with the Odisha players looking completely demoralised.

The match was reduced to a no contest as wickets fell in a heap for Odisha after they were put in. They were reduced to 30 for five by the end of the fifth over as none of the top-order batsmen got going against the Bengal pacers. Shantanu Mishra (6), Aditya Rout (11),

Brief scores:

Odisha 113 all out (Rajesh Dhupar 37, Ankit Yadav 32, Ishan Porel 4/26) lost to Bengal 114 for one in 12.2 overs (Vivek Singh 54 n o) by nine wickets

Subhranshu Senapati (1), Govind Poddar (8) and Biplab Samantray (1) failed to make sizeable contributions. However, once they fell, the others also quickly returned to the hut without troubling the scorers too much.

Porel was well-supported by fellow pacers Mukesh Kumar (2/20) and Akash Deep (2/20). Left-arm spinner Shahbaz Ahmed also picked up a wicket.

Bengal were never in any trouble and they knocked off the runs quite easily. Goswami was the only batsman to be dismissed by part-time spinner Poddar.

EASY FOR BARCELONA, REAL MADRID HELD

Griezmann ends goal drought

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Barcelona, Jan 10: First it was Pedro 'Pedri' González shining with his assists. Then the injury-prone Dembele Ousmane earned a spot in the attack. Now the oft-maligned Antoine Griezmann is back to scoring goals. All in all, Barcelona are slowly showing signs this season might not be a wash after all. Griezmann scored a brace and set up Lionel Messi for one of the Argentine's two goals Saturday to lead Barcelona to a 4-0 win at Granada.

Barcelona's first three-match winning run in the La Liga under Ronald Koeman put them four points behind leader Atlético Madrid, whose home game scheduled for Saturday against Athletic Bilbao was postponed due to a blizzard.

"Our situation is still complicated, but the team are playing better. We have had three games on the road and won all," Koeman said. "We are more focused from the start of the games now, and when we are focused and move the ball with pace, there are few teams that can control us," he added.

BACK IN BUSINESS: Antoine Griezmann (hands up) celebrates after scoring against Granada in the La Liga game played Saturday

Second-placed Real Madrid was one point behind Atlético after being held at Osasuna to 0-0 in a match played in steady snowfall and with barely any scoring chances for either side. Atlético have three more games to play than their top title rivals.

Griezmann got Barcelona started with his first goal in nearly a month in the 12th minute when a pass by Sergio Busquets was deflected to him by a Granada defender. He then set up Messi to double the lead with a left-footed shot from the edge of the area in the 36th. Messi got his league-leading 11th goal in the 42nd minute when he drove a free-kick under two players who jumped in the defensive barrier. It was his first goal from a free-kick this season.

Griezmann rounded off the big win in the 64th minute when he beat goalkeeper Rui Silva from a tight angle after Dembele played him clear with a lobbed pass. It was Griezmann's first multi-goal game in nearly a year.

"They weren't going in for me, and now they are. I hope they keep coming," Griezmann said after the game.

OFC, Chennaiyin play out goalless draw

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bambolim, Jan 10: Odisha FC (OFC) and Chennaiyin FC (CFC) traded missed chances to play out a goalless draw in their ISL match here Sunday. The match saw both teams failing to convert clear-cut chances. Odisha had three shots on target while Chennaiyin managed just two. It clearly exemplified how much the two sides concentrated on defensive plays. However, the draw did not help Odisha's cause as they remained at the bottom of the table with six points from 10 games.

Chennaiyin were the better side in terms of possession. They had a couple of chances to get a winner but their forwards were unable to convert them.

It was Chennaiyin who dominated the opening exchanges, creating multiple chances in the opening quarter. They had their first open chance during the second minute, but Rahim Ali failed to put his team ahead with only OFC goalkeeper Arshdeep Singh to beat. In the 14th minute, Lallianzuala Chhangte received the ball from Anirudh Thapa and drilled in a low shot, but it only struck the side netting of the OFC goal.

OFC goalkeeper Arshdeep Singh (in yellow) made some crucial saves for his team in the match against Chennaiyin FC

Odisha thought they had the lead as the first half drew to a close.
