SAM'S IDEA OF SUCCESS

Mumbai: Samantha Ruth Prabhu recently reflected on her transformative journey in the entertainment industry, particularly after taking a two-year hiatus from acting. The Citadel: Honey Bunny star shared that her idea of success has evolved significantly. "Today, my definition of success is freedom — the freedom to take a break, to grow, evolve, and not be confined to labels," she said in a candid conversation.

After wrapping her 2023 film Kushi with Vijay Deverakonda, Samantha took time off to rediscover herself. Her return with the action-packed series Citadel: Honey Bunny, co-starring Varun Dhawan, was met with widespread acclaim. Her portrayal of a fierce spy and her dedication to high-octane action scenes won both critics and fans over.

During her time away, Samantha found clarity and a deeper sense of purpose. While some may not consider her as commercially successful as before, she feels more fulfilled than ever, focusing only on what truly resonates with her.

She is now gearing up for her upcoming series Rakt Brahmamand: The Bloody Kingdom, alongside Aditya Roy Kapur and Wamiqa Gabbi. Samantha also made her debut as a producer with the well-received Telugu film Subham and is set to return to Telugu cinema with Maa Inti Bangaram.

TRIPTII SET FOR HISTORIC FEAT

Mumbai: Triptii Dimri is on the cusp of creating history in Bollywood. With just Rs. 56 crores more at the Indian box office, she is set to become the second Bollywood actress after Deepika Padukone to cross the coveted Rs. 1000 crore mark in the post-Covid era. This remarkable achievement places her in an elite league of Indian cinema's top box office performers.

Triptii's rise has been nothing short of meteoric. While she first gained attention with Laila Majnu, it was her role in Animal alongside Ranbir Kapoor that catapulted her into the spotlight. Though not the lead, her screen presence in the action thriller was undeniable, and the film's massive Rs. 554 crore collection firmly established her as a force to reckon with.

Since the pandemic, Triptii has featured in four films, two of which were box office hits. Her total post-Covid box office earnings now stand at Rs. 944.04 crores. Adding to her momentum, she recently replaced Deepika Padukone in Spirit, following reports of creative differences between the Kalki 2898 AD star and director Sandeep Reddy Vanga.

Once she hits the Rs. 1000 crore mark, Triptii will join Deepika and Rashmika Mandanna as the only Indian actresses to reach this milestone in the post-Covid era.

Wamiqa on early career hustle

Mumbai: Wamiqa Gabbi is basking in the success of her recent comedy-drama Bhool Chuk Maaf, co-starring RajKummar Rao. Produced by Maddock Films, the film has earned an impressive Rs. 70 crore at the domestic box office. Amid the film's successful run, Wamiqa reflected on her early career hustle in a candid interview.

She revealed working 38-hour stretches across three shifts in her initial days. "I worked a morning shift on one project, then another at night. I did it happily because I was enthusiastic and free of major responsibilities. Whatever I earned was enough to support myself and my loved ones," she shared.

Wamiqa fondly recalled juggling Modern Love Mumbai with Vishal Bhardwaj and Jubilee with Vikramaditya Motwane, admitting she never informed either director about the overlapping schedules to avoid changes. "Do you think I wouldn't be thrilled to switch between Vishal Sir and Vikram Sir?" she said.

In another memory, she spoke of agreeing instantly to a jungle shoot without a vanity van or AC. "I was excited. These are the experiences that help me grow," she said.

Wamiqa's upcoming films include Bhoot Bangla with Akshay Kumar and Dil Ka Darwaaza Khol Na Darling with Siddhant Chaturvedi and Jaya Bachchan.

The unseen side of Raaj Kumar

Mumbai: Before he became one of Bollywood's most enigmatic actors, Raaj Kumar led a very different life. In the late 1940s, he served as a Sub-Inspector with the Mumbai Police, stationed at Mahim Police Station. His cinematic journey began unexpectedly when filmmaker Sohrab Modi spotted him while on duty at Metro Cinema. Though Raaj Kumar initially declined Modi's film offer, destiny had other plans, and he eventually transitioned into acting, bringing his signature style to the silver screen.

Known for his magnetic voice and piercing screen presence, Raaj Kumar was also famous for his eccentricities and blunt nature. A widely shared anecdote recounts how he rejected Zanjeer, the film that launched Amitabh Bachchan's stardom, supposedly because he didn't like the director's face or his choice of hair oil. Whether fact or folklore, his refusal significantly shaped the course of Bollywood.

Raaj Kumar shared the screen with Dilip Kumar in Paigham (1959) and reunited with him three decades later in Saudagar (1991). Despite the hype around their pairing, it's well-documented that the two rarely spoke off-camera due to their strong personalities and differing approaches to work.

Deeply loyal, Raaj Kumar retained the same driver, tailor, hairstylist, and even his beloved Plymouth car for over 40 years.

A fan of horse riding and golf, he also had a curious fondness for polished shoes.

True to his private nature, even in death, he left instructions for a quiet farewell—his cremation was to be done swiftly at Shivaji Park electric crematorium without informing the film fraternity. July 3, 1996, Raaj Kumar passed away due to throat cancer, leaving behind a legacy as unforgettable as the man himself.

4 dead, 18 injured in Pune bridge collapse

AGENCIES

Pune, June 15: Four persons died and 18 were seriously injured after an old iron bridge over Indrayani river collapsed Sunday afternoon in Pune's Maval tehsil, officials said.

While two persons succumbed to injuries during treatment after being rescued, the bodies of two persons were recovered from underneath the collapsed portion of the bridge, officials said.

"While two bodies were recovered from beneath the structure, we suspect one person is trapped there. Efforts are underway to locate and rescue the person," Talegaon Dabhade police station Senior Inspector Pradeep Rayannawar said late evening.

The incident took place at 3:30pm in Kundamala area, which has been seeing heavy rains over the past few days, giving the river a steady flow, another official said. It was not raining when the bridge collapsed in the presence of at least 100 picnickers, he added.

"In the mishap, so far 38 people have been rescued of which 18 sustained serious injuries and they are currently under treatment in three different hospitals. During treatment, two people succumbed to injuries," a statement from the district administration informed.

Another Char Dham disaster

Just days after an Air India flight crash in Ahmedabad claimed 274 lives, a helicopter carrying pilgrims from Kedarnath crashed in Uttarakhand, killing all seven on board. This tragic incident highlights growing concerns over air safety standards in India, particularly on the Char Dham pilgrimage routes where helicopter crashes and emergency landings have become alarmingly frequent. On May 8, a chopper en route to Gangotri crashed in Uttarakashi, killing six. On May 12, a helicopter from Badrinath made an emergency landing due to poor visibility. Another crash-landing occurred near Kedarnath May 17 involving a heli ambulance. On June 7, a chopper made an emergency landing in Rudraprayag district due to technical issues. Opposition leaders and activists blame the government's lack of oversight, alleging that profit-driven private aviation firms are compromising safety for financial gain. These incidents underscore the urgent need for stricter regulation and better safety protocols on pilgrimage routes.

pilgrims from the Kedarnath shrine crashed early Sunday in the forests of Gaurikund amid poor visibility, killing all seven people on board, the fifth helicopter accident on the Chardham Yatra route since the pilgrimage started April 30. The Civil Aviation Ministry suspended the operations of the helicopter operator and issued a slew of safety directions after the tragedy, which came just days after one of the deadliest air disasters where an Air India flight to London crashed in Ahmedabad just after take-off, killing 274 people on board and on ground. The seven people on board the Bell 407 helicopter, operated by private firm Aryan Aviation Pvt Ltd, included a two-year-old child and the pilot. They hailed from Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Uttarakhand and Uttar Pradesh. The Civil Aviation Ministry said it has suspended the operations of Aryan Aviation for the Char Dham Yatra and has directed the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) to immediately post officers from airworthiness, safety and operations to actively oversee all helicopter activity in the Kedarnath Valley.

Preliminary indications suggest that the probable cause may be Controlled Flight into Terrain (CFIT), with the helicopter reportedly airborne despite poor visibility and extensive clouding at the valley entry area, the ministry said in a statement.

The exact cause will be determined through a detailed investigation by the Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB), it added. CFIT occurs when an airworthy aircraft under the complete control of the pilot is inadvertently flown into terrain, water or an obstacle.

Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami also ordered a high-level inquiry and suspension of helicopter operations on the Chardham Yatra route for two days. Rudraprayag District Disaster Management Officer Nandan Singh Rajwar said zero visibility caused by bad weather apparently led the helicopter to crash between Gaurikund and Trijuginarayan in Kedarghati and catch fire.

Jajpur: 3 more diarrhoea deaths; toll rises to 16

POST NEWS NETWORK

Jajpur, June 15: Three more persons, including a woman, died of diarrhoea in Jajpur district Sunday, while the infection reportedly showed signs of decline.

The deceased were identified as Jatadhari Sahu, 75, of Kamalpur village under Dasarathpur block; Madanmohan Sahu, 62, of the Jajpur Municipality area and Jayanti Sahu, 50, of Khairabad village - also under the civic body area. With these three deaths, the toll from the infection has reportedly risen to 16.

However, Chief District Medical Officer (CDMO) Bijay Kumar Mishra refuted claims that the three deaths were caused by diarrhoea. "The deaths were due to other medical conditions, not diarrhoea," he maintained. Meanwhile, special teams from MKCG Medical College and Hospital in Berhampur and SCB Medical College and Hospital in Cuttack reached Jajpur Sunday. They collected 17 samples for cholera testing.

Earlier, 13 deaths had been attributed to diarrhoea in the district. The district Health department, however, officially confirmed only five.

Man held for beating pregnant wife to death

POST NEWS NETWORK

Tihidi, June 15: A pregnant woman reportedly died after being brutally assaulted by her husband in Talapada village, under Tihidi police limits in Bhadrak district.

The deceased, Monalisa Jena, 26, succumbed to her injuries late Saturday night. Police have registered a case (211/25) and arrested her husband, Shankarshan Jena, Sunday.

Monalisa's father, Panchanan Jena in his complaint said his daughter was murdered over dowry. Panchanan alleged that Shankarshan, son of Tera Jena from the same village, had married Monalisa five years ago. At the time of the wedding, dowry demands were met as per the groom's side's wishes. However, they continued to demand more, and Monalisa was repeatedly tortured both physically and mentally by her husband and in-laws.

Panchanan said Saturday night he learned that Monalisa had been tied up and severely beaten by Shankarshan and others in the house. She was allegedly kicked on the stomach by her husband in an attempt to terminate her pregnancy. Monalisa was declared dead by doctors at Bhadrak DHH.

Israeli strikes kill over 400 in Iran

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dubai, June 15: Israel unleashed airstrikes across Iran for a third day Sunday and threatened even greater force as some Iranian missiles evaded Israeli air defences to strike buildings in the heart of the country. Planned talks on Iran's nuclear programme, which could provide an off-ramp, were cancelled.

Israel's strikes have killed at least 406 people in Iran and wounded another 654, according to a human rights group that has long tracked the country, Washington-based Human Rights Activists. Iran's government has not offered overall casualty figures.

The region braced for a protracted conflict after Israel's surprise bombardment Friday of Iranian nuclear and military sites killed several top generals and nuclear scientists. Neither side showed any sign of backing down. Iran said Israel struck two oil refineries, raising the prospect of a broader assault on Iran's heavily sanctioned energy industry that could affect global markets. The Israeli military, in a social media post, warned Iranians to evacuate arms factories, signalling a further widening of the campaign. Israel said 14 people have been killed since Friday and 390 wounded. Iran has fired over 270 missiles, 22 of which got through the country's sophisticated multi-tiered air defenses, according to Israeli figures. Israel's main international airport and airspace remained closed for a third day. P8

Sun comes to aid of heat-stressed cheetah cubs in Kuno

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: A solar-powered water lift system has emerged as a lifeline for the cheetah cubs born in Kuno National Park this summer, helping them survive extremely hot and harsh conditions.

Temperatures soared to the high 40s across northwest and central India this June, putting immense pressure on water resources.

In May 2023, three cubs born to Namibian cheetah Jwala died due to extreme heat in the national park in Madhya Pradesh.

Learning from that experience, authorities have installed a solar-powered system to pump water from the Kuno river and transport it through an 8.6-km-long pipeline to sprinklers and water saucers at more than 15 locations inside the park.

"Lifting water from Kuno river, taking it kilometres away, using sprinklers extensively to create green spaces, and improving water availability, especially for mother and newborn cubs in a planned way, have proved quite successful," according to video posted on X by Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests and Cheetah Project Director, Uttam Kumar Sharma.

"The importance of water is felt only in its absence and it is nowhere as pronounced as in Kuno during peak summer. Under the incessant pummeling of hot winds called 'loo' and temperatures bordering 48 degrees Celsius, life becomes very difficult for wildlife, particularly the young ones," it said.

South African cheetah Veera gave birth to two cubs in February 2025, while another South African cheetah, Nirva, gave birth to five cubs in April.

Two of Nirva's cubs died, but officials said the rest are doing well.

The officials said the cubs were experiencing such harsh conditions for the first time and both the mothers and their offspring were regularly using the water points, indicating the success of the initiative.

Launched in September 2022, 70 years after the species was declared extinct in the country, India's cheetah reintroduction project is among the most ambitious conservation efforts in recent history.

As part of the project, 20 African cheetahs were brought to Kuno: eight from Namibia in September 2022 and 12 from South Africa in February 2023.

Since then, 26 cheetah cubs have been born in India. Of these, 17 survived.

Eleven cubs are roaming free in the wild, while the others are in enclosures at Kuno.

CM: Take urgent steps to curb spread of diarrhoea

PNN & AGENCIES

Bhubaneswar, June 15: Amidst an outbreak of diarrhoea in some areas of Jajpur and Keonjhar districts, Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi Sunday directed the Health department to take urgent measures to prevent its spread to neighbouring districts. According to a statement from the Chief Minister's Office (CMO), all health facilities in the affected districts have been placed on high alert. "Neighbouring districts have also been advised to remain vigilant. Disinfection of drinking water sources has begun in Jajpur, alongside a temporary ban on street food sales and intensified food safety inspections," the statement added. Adequate supplies of medicines have been ensured and medical teams have been deployed to contain the outbreak, the CMO said. Health Minister Mukesh Mahaling is monitoring the situation through regular meetings with medical officers and administrative officials. A team from the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) has also arrived in Odisha to assist the state government in controlling the outbreak. Sixteen people have died so far due to the outbreak in Jajpur district, which was first reported June 9, Additional District Medical Officer (ADMO) Prakash Chandra Bal said. Out of 1,750 people diagnosed with diarrhoea in the district, 1,500 of them have recovered and about 250 are under treatment, officials said. "The situation is yet to be brought under control. When no new patients are admitted to hospitals, we will be able to control it," Director of Public Health Nilakantha Mishra said. Adding to the worries, 11 diarrhoea patients also tested positive to cholera, Chief District Medical Officer (CDMO) Bijay Mishra said. A 14-member central team visited the district Sunday to assess the ground situation. The team visited some hospitals where diarrhoea patients have been admitted and held a meeting with the district administration. Mahaling also visited various hospitals in Jajpur district and Anandapur hospital in Keonjhar district during the day and interacted with patients and doctors. "It is a matter of concern for us that cholera has been detected in Jajpur. A team from SCB Medical College and Hospital in Cuttack has been deployed in the district. We are trying to bring the situation under control," he told reporters.

Rural Water Supply and Sanitation (RWSS) teams are disinfecting drinking water sources in the district, while food inspectors and disease surveillance teams are also working to bring the situation under control, officials said. ASHA and Anganwadi workers, and health workers have been supplied with halogen tablets and ORS packets for distribution among the people, they said. People have been advised to take precautionary measures, avoid having outside foods, and adhere to hygienic practices, they said. Diarrhoea cases have also been detected in parts of the Cuttack district, Astaranga area in Puri district and Bhuban NAC in Dhenkanal district, officials said. Over 50 people were diagnosed with diarrhoea in Gholapur village in Cuttack, and 20 people were affected in Puri's Astaranga. Similarly, over 30 persons in Bhaban NAC have been affected with diarrhoea, they said. In light of rising cases of diarrhoea, the Housing and Urban Development (H&UD) department has directed all ULBs and district-level officials to initiate immediate preventive and response measures. Department principal secretary Usha Padhee has called for enhanced vigilance and real-time monitoring to ensure the sanitisation and safety of all water sources, with particular attention to vulnerable urban pockets. Meanwhile, BJD president and Leader of Opposition Naveen Patnaik accused the state government of taking the cholera outbreak lightly. He said cholera has taken a serious turn in the districts of Jajpur, Kendrapara, Bhadrak, Puri, Cuttack, and Keonjhar, and the outbreak appears to be spreading to other districts as well.

Non-servitors banned from climbing chariots

PNN & AGENCIES

Bhubaneswar, June 15: The state government will take stringent legal action, including arrests, against any non-servitor found climbing the chariots during this year's Rath Yatra in Puri, Law Minister Prithviraj Harichandan said Sunday. He also asserted that use of mobile phones on the chariots will be strictly prohibited. Speaking to reporters, Harichandan said, "No non-servitor will be allowed to climb the chariots. If any such person is found on the chariot, strong action including arrest will be taken. Also, servitors will not be allowed to carry mobile phones onto the chariots." To ensure the timely completion of rituals and maintain discipline during 'Pahandi Bije' (the ceremonial procession) of the deities, the government has requested a list of servitors designated to perform rituals on Rath Yatra day (June 27). "The final list will be enforced strictly," the minister said. Meanwhile, Director General of Police (DGP) Yogesh Bahadur Khurania held a meeting here to review the security measures for the Rath Yatra. The road connecting Uttara Square near Bhubaneswar to Puri will be under CCTV surveillance, and efforts are underway to install CCTV cameras along Puri-Konark road as well, the DGP said. For the first time, an integrated command and control centre will be set up at Puri Town police station to monitor crowd movement and traffic. "AI-enabled CCTV cameras are being installed at key locations in Puri for real-time monitoring," he said. Traffic advisories will be issued from the control room to guide pilgrims and visitors, he added. Besides, a mobile app has been developed through which people will get information about the route through which they will have the convenience to visit Puri during the festival and park their vehicles, he informed.

Along with police personnel, rapid action force, Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) and specialised agencies will be deployed in Puri for the festival, he said, adding, "We have requested the authorities concerned for deployment of central forces." Drones and an anti-drone system will also be deployed in Puri during the Car Festival, he added. Chief Secretary Manoj Ahuja visited Puri Sunday and took stock of the construction of chariots. "Chariot construction is progressing as per schedule, and I am confident that it will be completed on time," he told reporters.

Mahakalapara, June 15: The annual marine fishing ban imposed at Gahirmatha Marine Sanctuary of Kendrapara district ended Sunday, paving the way for thousands of local fishermen to return to the Bay of Bengal and resume operations. The ban, which has been in effect for seven months and a half from November 1, last year to June 15 this year, was imposed to protect mass nesting of Olive Ridley sea turtles during their breeding season. With the turtles having returned to their natural habitats, the restriction will be lifted, officials said. Around 10,000 fishermen from Batighar, Kharinasi, Ramanagar, Petachhela, Jambu, Suniti, Tantiapal, and Bau-lakani panchayats under the Mahakalapara block depend heavily on marine fishing for their livelihood. Many of them conducted traditional rituals of boat worship like 'Danga Manga Puja' before setting out to the sea with their boats and nets Saturday. Gahirmatha, spanning over 1,435 sq km from the Mahanadi river mouth to the Dhamra river mouth, is India's first marine sanctuary. Though the seasonal fishing ban is lifted, permanent restrictions remain in force within the sanctuary's core area, which stretches 20 km from the coast into the sea. Entry into this zone is prohibited year-round, and a buffer zone follows beyond the 20-km mark. To enforce the restrictions, the Forest department has deployed 14 high-tech floating buoys to demarcate boundaries. Despite such measures, officials allege that some trawler owners continue to trespass into the protected zones to illegally catch high-value fish species, evading forest patrols. Kapila Chandra Pradhan, range officer of the Gahirmatha Marine Sanctuary, warned that any unauthorised entry into the restricted areas after lifting of ban will be met with legal action.

Mastermind arrested in explosive loot case

PNN & AGENCIES

Rourkela, June 15: Police Sunday arrested the prime accused and mastermind behind the loot of five tonne of explosives by Maoists from a vehicle near a stone quarry in Sundargarh district May 27, an official said.

The arrested accused has been identified as George Munda alias Kulu (43) from Banko village under K Balang police station.

Munda was passing important information to the Maoists. He was the main conspirator from the beginning of the loot and actively passed information to the Maoists, said DIG (Western Range) Brijesh Rai.

During the investigation, George's complicity was found by the police. He was living just opposite to the quarry and was objecting to it, which was closed down subsequently, Rai said.

He was very vocal against the quarry and he then took the issue to the Maoists. He met the Maoists multiple times and passed vital intelligence regarding the movement of explosive trucks, the DIG said.

It was he who had passed the information regarding the movement of the vehicle with explosives and ensured that the loot was carried out without any problem, the police said.

On May 27, a group of armed Maoists intercepted the explosives van en route to Banko quarry from Itma and decamped with 200 packets of explosives.

The state police took the issue seriously with DGP YB Khurania flying to Rourkela and meeting with senior officials.

So far, 3.8 tonne of explosives have been recovered while search is still going on to recover the remaining explosives, they said.

Mid East Great Again

For decades, current Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has been warning about the “existential threat” that a nuclear-armed Iran poses to his country, asserting that military action is the only reliable means to counter it. Throughout the various terms in his long 17-year tenure as the prime minister, Netanyahu has considered, debated, and planned an all-out strike on Iran’s nuclear facilities, but never executed until the early hours of 13 June, 2025 when Israel struck Iran’s nuclear and military facilities which resulted in the deaths of several high-ranking generals and nuclear scientists. It is clear why Netanyahu has chosen to act now. His recent statements drew on the darkest moments of Jewish history to emphasize that Israel will never allow itself to be vulnerable to a “nuclear holocaust.” His arch rival and former PM Yael Lapid has, on 15 June 2025, said that though he opposes Netanyahu on many issues, his recent decision to strike on Iran’s nuclear facilities is totally justified and timely.

Additionally, the timing is influenced by the current strategic weakness of the Iranian regime. Tehran’s influence in the region has historically depended on its allies and proxies, creating a “ring of fire” around its adversary, Israel. This network included the Assad regime in Syria, Hezbollah in Lebanon, Hamas in Gaza, and the Houthis in Yemen. However, with Assad no longer in power and Syria’s new leader gaining favour with US President Donald Trump, Syria’s focus has shifted from Tehran to Washington. Meanwhile, the Houthis have reached an agreement with the US, Hezbollah is struggling without a leader and still recovering from last year’s Israeli attacks, and Hamas has suffered significant losses, with its leadership decimated and Gaza destroyed. Consequently, there has never been a more opportune time for Tel Aviv to take on its sworn enemy.

On the other hand, the extent of the attacks, the targets selected by Israel, and the statements from its politicians indicate that, in addition to severely crippling Tehran’s nuclear weapons programme, there is another goal: the overthrow of the Islamic regime. In a video message shortly after Israeli fighter jets launched strikes on Iranian nuclear facilities and air defence systems, Netanyahu, addressing the Iranian people directly, said: “The Islamic regime, which has oppressed you for almost 50 years, threatens to destroy our country, the State of Israel.” Israel’s objective was to remove the nuclear and ballistic missile threat, he said, but added: “As we achieve our objective, we are also clearing the path for you to achieve your freedom. The regime does not know what hit them, or what will hit them. It has never been weaker. This is your opportunity to stand up and let your voices be heard.”

It will be naive to think that Israel’s actions were unilateral, as stated by US Secretary of State Marco Rubio or as claimed by Trump himself that the US had “no involvement in the attack on Iran.” For, it is a well known fact that Israel is a proxy of the US in the Middle East and therefore any action that it takes in the region has America’s clear approval. With the post-Assad Syria under its fold, a decimated Iran will only strengthen the US position in the region vis-a-vis Russia.

Iran, on its part, counts on allies like Russia and China, who are reluctant to see the country humiliated. However, neither of these countries is willing to engage in the present conflict, and Iran’s proxies -- Hezbollah, Hamas, and the Houthis -- are badly beaten and forced to remain on the sidelines. As a result, Tehran could now be finding itself in a spot on how to respond to the situation.

Meanwhile, Trump, remaining true to his unpredictability, on 15 June, called for a truce between Israel and Iran. He posted on his Truth Social platform that “Iran and Israel should make a deal, and will make a deal, just like I got India and Pakistan to make, in that case by using TRADE with the United States to bring reason, cohesion and sanity into the talks with two excellent leaders who were able to quickly make a decision and STOP!” He went on to add: “Likewise, we will have PEACE, soon, between Israel and Iran! Many calls and meetings now taking place. I do a lot, and never get credit for anything, but that’s OK, the PEOPLE understand. MAKE THE MIDDLE EAST GREAT AGAIN!”

If Trump succeeds in making a deal between the two warring countries like he did in the India-Pakistan scene, not just the Middle East, the world at large can heave a sigh of relief.

FOCUS WARFARE

THE AGE OF DRONES

Ukraine’s 1 June assault on airbases across Russia has already ushered in a new conventional wisdom: the expensive, human-crewed weapons (tanks, planes, ships) that have long defined the world’s “advanced” militaries have been rendered obsolete by inexpensive drones. But this view is incomplete, and perhaps dangerously misleading. Today’s drone warfare offers sobering lessons that go far beyond the vulnerability of expensive legacy weapons; and the looming integration of AI into drone warfare will make the current situation look positively quaint.

Although few people realize it, the US and NATO now desperately need Ukraine for its drone expertise

Charles Ferguson

FIVE YEARS FROM NOW, IT WILL BE TERRIFYINGLY EASY TO LAUNCH PREEMPTIVE STRIKES ON CONVENTIONAL TARGETS

Consider the lessons of the Ukraine war so far. First, the impact of drones goes far beyond legacy weapons. Drones have indeed rendered tanks and armored personnel carriers extremely vulnerable, so Russian ground assaults now frequently use troops on foot, motorcycles, or all-terrain vehicles. But this hasn’t helped, because drones are terrifyingly effective against people as well. Casualties are as high as ever – but now, drones inflict over 70% of casualties on both sides.

Drones are also effective against almost everything else. Ukraine has used drones to destroy Russian targets as varied as weapons factories, moving trains, ammunition stores, oil refineries, ships, and ports. It could be worse; in fact, Ukraine has shown great restraint, considering Russia’s barbaric conduct. Two additional sobering lessons from Ukraine concern how drone warfare depends on its industrial base. First, speed and responsiveness are critical. Drone technology, weapons, and tactics now evolve at a blinding pace. A new drone will be useful for only 2-6 months. The other side develops countermeasures, requiring the development of new products, against which new countermeasures are developed, and so on.

At first, the drones used in Ukraine were crude weapons, radio-controlled by a pilot who needed to be nearby. As drones became more sophisticated and lethal, jamming was used to block their radio signals, which led to frequency changes and then frequency hopping, which was then countered by multi-frequency jammers, which then engendered drones that attack jamming equipment. Then Russia developed drones controlled via fiber-optic cable – impervious to jamming. Ukraine tries to track the cable to its source and kill the pilots (with drones). Now Ukraine has fiber-optic drones, too. Guidance is ever more sophisticated, so that drones can evade radar by flying very low or using stealth technology. But drone detection and tracking systems have also advanced, employing networks of cellphones and microphones connected to audio analysis software, as well as using Lidar, radar, and cameras.

In this ferocious environment, falling even a month behind is fatal. Normal defense industry procedures are totally inadequate, and most US drones and drone producers have proved to be hopelessly slow, expensive, and unusable. In response, however, Ukraine’s drone industry and military developed a revolutionary model of weapons research and development, production, and deployment, based on direct, continuous communication between front-line units and drone producers. Ukraine’s military command and Ministry of Digital Transformation have even developed a points-based system that publishes continuously updated rankings of military units’ performance based on verified drone kills. Here, Ukraine benefited from having a strong startup ecosystem, which supports a weapons industry (with hundreds of companies) capable of designing, producing, and fielding a new weapon in a matter of weeks. This year, Ukraine will produce more than four million drones, most of them models that did not exist even a year ago. Unfortunately, Russia has adapted as well, also relying heavily on private startups.

Ukraine evolved its own drone industry because the US and NATO had almost none of their own, much less one with the speed and flexibility required, and because China has gradually tightened supplies to Ukraine in favor of Russia. Some 80% of the electronics used in Russian drones are sourced from China. While Ukraine was initially highly dependent on China, it has reduced its reliance to perhaps 20%, most of that obtained covertly.

Yet US and European defense R&D and procurement remain slow and uncompetitive, which cripples their ability to defend against drones, as well as their ability to use them. Although few people realize it, the US and NATO now desperately need Ukraine for its drone expertise. Ukraine is now the only country that could possibly match Chinese and/or Russian technology and reaction time in a war. Without Ukraine, and without modernizing their own forces, NATO and the US would suffer horrific casualties in a war with Russia or China – and might even lose.

Moreover, AI will change everything. Ukraine’s 1 June operation used 117 drones, each controlled by a skilled operator, and reports suggest that something like half were defeated by Russian defenses – jamming, mainly – because the drones needed to be in radio communication with their controllers. Had they been autonomous, there could have been a thousand of them. And with AI, there is no need for pilot communication, and thus no effective jamming, greatly increasing drone range and lethality. Five years from now, it will be terrifyingly easy to launch preemptive strikes on conventional targets. AI also increases the lethality and precision of drones used against people. Chinese researchers have already demonstrated drone swarms navigating through a forest and then re-forming as a swarm after passing through. This is not just about warfare; it also works for terrorist attacks.

Stuart Russell, an AI specialist at the University of California, Berkeley, has long argued for an arms-control treaty to prevent the spread of small, mass produced, AI-controlled drone weapons. He even underwrote the production of a short film, Slaughterbots, which dramatizes the risks these drones could pose in the wrong hands. At a dinner years ago, he told me that it would soon be easy to target individuals using facial recognition or, say, everyone wearing a cross, a yarmulke, or any other religious or political symbol.

Since any meaningful treaty is unlikely in the current geopolitical environment, we must prepare for a world that probably will contain such weapons. But the Western defense establishment increasingly looks like the typical “legacy” company that has been caught off guard by technological disruption. In markets, legacy resistance can be costly, but the costs are purely monetary. In warfare, they can and will be deadly.

SPECTRUM COMMERCE

Disruption in India’s retail landscape

Bhaskar Nath Biswal

QUICK COMMERCE PLATFORMS HAVE LAUNCHED A FORMIDABLE ASSAULT ON TRADITIONAL RETAIL BY WEAPONISING TWO CRITICAL ADVANTAGES: HYPER-SPEED AND FRICTIONLESS CONVENIENCE

Kirana stores, the small neighbourhood shops, have traditionally been the go-to source for groceries and daily essentials for millions of Indian households. They dominate India’s retail landscape, contributing to over 85% of grocery sales. However, the swift emergence of quick commerce platforms is disrupting this ecosystem, putting significant pressure on thousands of local kirana stores. The All India Consumer Products Distributors Federation (AICPDF) reports that around 200,000 kirana stores closed in the past year, with 45% of closures in metro cities, 30% in Tier-1 cities, and 25% in Tier-2/3 cities.

Quick commerce platforms have launched a formidable assault on traditional retail by weaponising two critical advantages: hyper-speed and frictionless convenience. Their promise of delivering groceries and essentials in minutes appeals to busy urban consumers. Compounding this disruption is aggressive discounting, subsidized by venture capital funding, which has accelerated a seismic shift in spending habits away from conventional stores. This dual strategy of instant gratification and price arbitrage now threatens the very survival of neighbourhood retailers struggling to match these capital-fueled efficiencies.

While there is no single, official government census for them, the most widely cited and accepted estimates from various market research firms and industry bodies place the number of kirana stores in India between 12 to 15 million. The vast majority of these stores operate in the unorganised sector. Many are unregistered, family-run businesses, making it incredibly difficult to conduct a precise count. The number is also dynamic, with stores opening and closing continuously.

Quick commerce is disrupting kirana stores, particularly in urban centers, leading to significant closures and reduced sales. However, despite the rapid growth of e-commerce and quick commerce, kirana stores still remain the primary shopping destination for the vast majority of Indian households due to their convenience, accessibility, and deep-rooted community trust. Of the total number, over 10 million of these stores are situated in Tier-2 and smaller cities, highlighting their deep penetration into the heart of the country. The cordial personal relationships with customers, the extension of credit and the intimate understanding of local needs and preferences are significant advantages for kirana stores. This social fabric of trust and familiarity has been the bedrock of their existence for generations. The human touch of kirana shops acts as a powerful defense system against quick commerce.

The future of retail in India will likely be a hybrid model where technology-driven convenience and traditional, relationship-based commerce coexist. However, to compete with the quick commerce, kiranas in the Tier 1 and Tier 2 cities have to adapt and integrate technology to counter the onslaught. Many of them are now accepting online payments, receiving orders online and streamlining their inventory management. Quick commerce’s impact is largely urban, with minimal penetration in rural areas where kirana stores remain dominant due to limited digital infrastructure and consumer preference for local, credit-based shopping. The kiranas with their inherent strengths will not only survive but may also find new avenues for growth in this dynamic new era of Indian retail. The battle is on, but the final bell for the ubiquitous Indian kirana store has certainly not rung.

Debatable move

Sir, The government’s proposal to make it mandatory for air conditioners across India to operate between 20°C and 28°C has sparked off a debate. The rationale behind this restriction is to reduce power consumption. In an overpopulated country with very high power consumption, the government’s move is justified. At the same time, it must be taken into account that in a tropical country like India with sizzling summer days, people have personal preference for AC usage. While the government’s move has long term advantages, the way of implementation raises questions about people’s right to their comfort. In fact, by restricting the operating temperature of ACs, the government will be able to power millions of homes by using the saved electricity. True, heatwaves during summer season make life uncomfortable in several states. On the other hand, the overall benefits of the step need to be reckoned with. While the public outcry over the proposal is understandable, the ultimate aim of the move must not be overlooked..

Long-awaited win

Sir, The World Test Championship 2025 has gone to the right captain and his resilient team. As South African captain Temba Bavuma holds the championship mace it depicts a true story of a skipper whose grit, guts and determination led his team to achieve the greatest of ICC crown. The wait was too long. The Proteas last kissed an ICC trophy way back in 1998. The very popular team was ‘unpopular’ for missing so many cups in the past and Bavuma has broken that jinx. The win is truly special as the Proteas have defeated the mighty Aussies who are known for whisking away trophies in the finals. The captain led from the front as dashing batsman Markram, pace bowler Rabada and everyone in the team came out with their brilliant tactics and skills helping the team to lay it’s hand on the mace on the fourth day itself. The big win will not only boost them but shall inspire the captain and his team to be confident to win many more in future.

Chopper crash sparks safety probe

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: In the wake of a chopper crash in Uttarakhand, the Congress Sunday called for fixing accountability in such incidents and urged the Central and state governments to investigate them. "The news of the helicopter crash in Rudraprayag, Uttarakhand is extremely painful. Seven passengers including the pilot have died. Our deepest condolences to the families of the victims. May God give strength to the bereaved families in this hour of grief," Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge said in a post in Hindi on X. This is the fifth such helicopter accident in the last six weeks, he said. "Accountability for these accidents must be fixed. It is an appeal to the state and central government to investigate these accidents

Char Dham helicopter services suspended

Dehradun: The Uttarakhand government suspended helicopter services on the Char Dham Yatra route for two days and ordered a high-level probe into the accident. After chairing an emergency meeting with senior officials to discuss the situation, Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami said that heli services on the Char Dham route will remain suspended for two days, as the weather is bad and the safety of the passengers is the government's top priority. The chief minister also ordered a high-level inquiry into the crash. Those responsible for negligence, no matter at what level, should be identified and punitive action should be initiated against them, Dhami said.

and ensure proper security arrangements," Kharge said. Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra urged the state government to thoroughly review the safety standards and ensure the safety of the pilgrims. "The news of the death of seven people in the helicopter crash in Gaurikund, Uttarakhand is extremely saddening. May Lord Kedarnath grant peace to the departed souls. My deepest condolences to the bereaved families," she said in an X post in Hindi.

Rudraprayag District Disaster Management Officer Nandan Singh Rajwar told PTI that zero visibility caused by bad weather apparently led to the crash.

As a precautionary measure, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has reduced the frequency of helicopter operations to chardham shrines of Kedarnath, Badrinath, Yamunotri and Gangotri. The watchdog is carrying out enhanced surveillance and reviewing the operation for any further action, the statement said.

AMBEDKAR ROW

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Patna, June 15: The Bihar State Commission for Scheduled Castes has issued a notice to RJD president Lalu Prasad for allegedly disrespecting Babasaheb Bhim Rao Ambedkar. The Commission has given the former chief minister 15 days to respond, warning that failure to do so could lead to legal proceedings. Talking to PTI, Bihar SC Commission vice-chairman Devendra Kumar said a notice was issued to Lalu Prasad seeking an explanation over the alleged incident. "The Commission has given Prasad 15 days to respond and warned that failure to do so could result in action under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act," he added. The controversy erupted after a video, purportedly recorded during Lalu Prasad's 78th birthday celebrations earlier this week, went viral. In the clip, the ailing leader is seen seated on a couch with his feet on a nearby sofa. A supporter then enters the room carrying a portrait of Dr. Ambedkar and places it near Prasad's feet before greeting him. The act drew sharp criticism from political opponents. On Saturday, the BJP accused the RJD chief of insulting the Dalit icon. Addressing a press conference, Bihar Deputy Chief Minister, a former state BJP president, played the video, demanding accountability. On Sunday, saffron party workers staged a protest and burnt an effigy of Prasad at Income Tax Golumber here. Responding to the notice, Tejashwi Yadav, leader of the opposition in Bihar Assembly and Lalu Prasad's son, dismissed the move as politically motivated. "There have been so many cases of atrocities against Dalits that the Commission has ignored. But since we oppose the BJP, we are being subjected to intimidation tactics," he said. He further mocked the Commission's process, claiming that a copy of the notice had not yet been officially received. "The draft that's doing the rounds contains multiple grammatical errors. We've also learned that the letter has been withdrawn twice for corrections. We'll respond appropriately once the Commission finishes drafting and formally dispatches it," he added.

Rules eased for buying scientific equipment by R&D institutes

New Delhi: In the wake of demands from researchers, the government has enhanced financial limits for the procurement of scientific instruments and consumables by various scientific institutions, including those pursuing research in the defence sector, and also allowed them to look beyond the GeM portal for making such purchases. The existing financial rules mandated procurement of equipment of less than Rs 200 crore only through the government e-marketplace (GeM) portal and from local producers to encourage the domestic manufacturing sector. However, various scientists and researchers faced hindrances due to these rules as several high-end research equipment were not available on the GeM portal.

FIR against Union minister for 'throwing slipper at Sikh man'

Kolkata: An FIR has been lodged against Union minister Sukanta Majumdar at a police station in Kolkata alleging he threw a slipper at a Sikh man which hit his turban, the ruling Trinamool Congress claimed Sunday. BJP dismissed the allegation and said it was only a paper cutting used in a protest. The FIR, lodged at Kaighat police station in south Kolkata June 13, claimed that June 12, Majumdar, who is also the state BJP chief, had thrown a slipper in a public place at the crossing of Hazra Road and Harish Chatterjee Street, near Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's residence.

Influencer murder: Key accused fled to UAE hours after crime

Chandigarh: Amritpal Singh Mehron, the alleged key accused in the murder case of Punjab-based social media influencer Kanchan Kumari alias 'Kamal Kaur Bhabhi', fled to the UAE hours after the incident, police said Sunday. Bhatinda Senior Superintendent of Police Amneet Kondal said police had already issued a lookout circular against Mehron, a resident of Moga. Mehron (30) is a self-styled Sikh radical leader. He is also accused of issuing threats to at least two other Punjab-based woman social media influencers. The police said they have also blocked some of his social media handles. On June 13, two accused -- Jaspreet Singh (32) of Moga and Nimratjit Singh (21) from Tarn Taran -- had been arrested in connection with the murder of Kanchan Kumari, who was found dead in an abandoned car in a parking lot in Bhatinda.

Segregating dreams from scrap

India's E-Waste (Management) Rules, 2022, was designed to tighten controls, making producers more responsible through extended producer responsibility. But the system still falls short

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: In the winding, congested alleyways of New Seelampur, a 500-foot stretch tucked deep inside east Delhi, life hums with the quiet rustle of wires, metal scraps, and fraying hopes.

Every household here seems tied to the business of e-waste - a world where old computers, phones, fridges, and their innards are torn down, stripped, sorted, and sold.

But the story is no longer what it once was.

As India's e-waste policy evolves and the gaze of enforcement agencies intensifies, the epicentre of one of the world's largest informal e-waste markets has quietly dispersed, not collapsed, but fragmented and slipped into the shadows.

The business hasn't ended, it has just moved -- to Loni, Muradabad, Meerut and smaller towns where it thrives away from the eyes of the regulators, the media, and digital scrutiny.

"The volumes have not really reduced. The business is still alive, but just not visible in Delhi anymore," says Vinod, programme officer at Toxics Link, an environmental NGO.

During a recent visit to the New Seelampur slum, PTI witnessed how this once-bustling hub has morphed into a quieter but deeply embedded network.

A resident of New Seelampur slum, segregates e-waste outside her home

As the reporter walked through the slum's narrow lanes, nearly every doorway opened into a home where families were engaged in e-waste segregation.

In a dimly-lit 6x6 feet room, 50-year-old Saleema sat hunched over a knee-high mound of cables. Her fingers, bent with arthritis, sort wires from morning to night, guided only by a low-watt bulb dangling from the tin roof. For 10 kg of wires, she earns ₹50 -- slightly more if she finds slivers of copper. A single mother

-- her alcoholic husband vanished into irrelevance years ago -- Saleema supports her three children. Her eldest son has been lodged in Tihar Jail for over a year on theft charges, still awaiting trial.

Next door, 19-year-old Shaheda sits outside her one-room home, her hands still hennaed from her wedding barely a month ago. Married into this community from Muradabad, she's no stranger to the trade. After making breakfast for her family, she joins her husband and in-laws, segregating wires. Nearby, Sajid Khan's family of five is also neck-deep in dismantling old electronics. His daughter attends school in the morning and returns to help in the evening -- a pattern repeated in many homes here.

Twelve-year-old Sharmila (name changed) wants to become a doctor -- and not just any doctor, but one who treats her neighbours, many of whom suffer from chronic ailments linked to toxic exposure. "After school, I help my father," she says shyly, as she picks apart an old mobile charger. Her father, who did not wish to be named, is saving every rupee in the hope of breaking the cycle. For ₹80, a technician will strip an old phone into saleable pieces. In the makeshift shanties, traders examine CRTs from old monitors, polishing the glass to resell in rural markets. Impure copper sells for ₹600 per kg; pure fetches up to ₹800.

Each house is a microcosm of labour -- families bent over wires, children washing dismantled parts, mothers selling components to traders who come knocking. Yet, the total daily income rarely crosses ₹500-Rs 1,000 per household.

"How laws are made is not very important but how implementation takes place is the key, and that is where the gap is between implementation and the role of the informal sector -- these are two serious gaps," says Satish Sinha, associate director, Toxics Link, which works closely in the sector.

Only about 500,000 tonnes of e-waste were formally collected in 2021-22 -- out of more than 3 million tonnes generated.

The Chinese-made wire stripping machines have replaced some manual labour, but not all. The actual dismantling -- sorting, stripping, burning -- is still largely done by hand. The traders now operate via phone calls, with less visibility.

UTTARAKHAND CHOPPER CRASH

Pilot, who served Army for 15 years, killed

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jaipur, June 15: Rajveer Singh Chauhan, the pilot of the helicopter that crashed in Uttarakhand early Sunday killing all seven on board, had served in the Indian Army for over 15 years and had vast experience of flying missions over different terrains.

Chauhan (37), a resident of Jaipur's Shastri Nagar, was working as a pilot with Arya Aviation Private Ltd since October 2024. He was the captain of Bell 407 helicopter that crashed near Gaurikund in Uttarakhand Sunday morning. Besides him, six people were killed in the accident.

"I got information about the crash from his colleague," said Chauhan's father Govind Singh. Singh said that his daughter-in-law and Rajveer's wife is a Lieutenant Colonel in the Indian Army and they became parents four months ago. "His wife gave birth to twins four months ago," he said.

Having worked in the Indian Army, Chauhan had a vast experience of flying missions over different terrains, over-seeing aerial operations and had been trained in different types of helicopters and their maintenance, according to his LinkedIn profile. As soon as the news about his death broke, Chauhan's relatives and friends started reaching his residence in Shastri Nagar to console the family.

Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma, former chief minister Ashok Gehlot and other leaders expressed sorrow over the demise of seven people.

"The news of the loss of life of a pilot from Rajasthan and other devotees due to a helicopter crash in Kedarnath is extremely sad. May Baba Kedar grant a place in his lotus feet to the departed souls and give strength to the bereaved families to bear this blow," Sharma said. Gehlot said the "death of seven people, including Jaipur resident pilot Rajveer Singh Chauhan, in the helicopter crash near Kedarnath is extremely sad".

"My deepest condolences are with the bereaved families in this difficult time," he said in a social media post.

Khejri tree rampantly felled at solar sites

Known as the 'Pride of Rajasthan' and 'Kalp Vriksha' of the desert, khejri has long been struggling for survival due to root borer and fungal infections forcing it to dry up

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jodhpur, June 15: A symbol of survival in the harsh climate of Thar desert and tagged as state tree of Rajasthan, 'khejri' (Prosopis Cineraria) is now fighting a battle for its survival, desperately looking for another Amrita Bishnoi, who laid down her life for the protection of the tree in 1730 AD.

However, for past few years, it is faced with a man-made threat -- solar plants -- which has unleashed mass elimination of these trees.

This threat stood substantiated when the district administration of Phalodi last year recovered 47 khejri trees buried at a solar plant site in Badi Sid under the Baap tehsil, a prominent site for solar plants.

Activists from different Bishnoi organisations, who staged a demonstration in Phalodi following the recovery against the indiscriminate felling of the tree, claimed to have satellite images validating their claim that thousands of bighas of land have been cleared to accommodate solar plants in Jaisalmer, Phalodi, Jodhpur and Bikaner districts.

Earlier this week, a similar demonstration was reported from Osian, a temple town and emerging solar plant site near Jodhpur, where about 150 khejri trees were cut along with other species such as rohida, the flower of which enjoys the status of state flower in Rajasthan.

Om Prakash Lol, organising secretary of the Bishnoi Tiger Force, an organisation comprising predominantly members from the Bishnoi community known for its pro-environment and wildlife stance, said that if no action is taken against the "killers" of the tree, they will launch a fierce movement.

Such demonstrations and warnings have become common with the increasing acreage of solar plants in the region, but they have failed to bring a check on indiscriminate and unabated felling of the trees.

Last year, Jaymalsar village in Bikaner district witnessed a 34-day sit-in against the felling of khejri trees, but it ended with an assurance of action that never came to be.

The absence of a stringent law to penalise the felling of khejri has acted as immunity to the owners of the land or the solar companies.

They are demanding that the fine be increased to ₹2 lakh per tree and a minimum punishment of three years be mandated.

Alleging connivance between the companies and the administration, Bhawad claimed they dry up the tree either by pouring acid in its roots or by burning its base.

To avoid any legal implication, the solar companies in most of the cases ask the farmers or the owners of the land they are taking on lease to set up plants to clear the land of entire vegetation before taking possession of the same in lure of money. Phalodi District Collector Harji Lal Atal said permission for clearing the land of any vegetation is given by the concerned tehsildar, who is also supposed to keep a watch on the activities.

Taking a serious note of the indiscriminate felling of khejri trees, the National Green Tribunal (NGT) had directed AMP Energy Green Four Pvt Ltd to plant 2,500 trees, 10 times of the trees uprooted from the allotted land measuring 3,200 bighas, besides slapping a cash penalty of ₹2 lakh in October 2022.

In April last year, the high court also sought affidavits from the secretaries of revenue, forest and energy departments on illegal felling of trees and damage caused to environment and wildlife due to solar plants at seven villages in Bikaner district.

IIIT-Delhi's Chartr app simplifies bus travel

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: Startups emerging from the academic institutions are increasingly shaping real-world solutions, with public transport in the national capital witnessing a notable example as a technology developed at the Indraprastha Institute of Information Technology Delhi (IIIT-Delhi) is now powering digital ticketing and live tracking for DTC and cluster buses, making daily commuters more efficient and commuter-friendly.

Delhi to get relief from heatwave as IMD predicts storm

The India Meteorological Department has predicted a severe thunderstorm and strong wind for the city, warning residents in Delhi and the National Capital Region to stay indoors

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: After prolonged spell of scorching temperatures for several days, people in the national capital received a gradual respite from heatwave conditions early Sunday, as several parts of the city experienced light rainfall thunderstorm and strong winds.

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has predicted a severe thunderstorm and strong wind for the city, warning residents in Delhi and the National Capital Region (NCR) to stay indoors.

According to the IMD, "moderate to intense spell of rainfall with thunderstorms and lightning, and squally winds reaching speeds of 80-100 kmph" swept through the capital during the early Sunday hours.

Two thundersqualls along with hailstorm activity were recorded at Safdarjung between 0348 to 0350 hrs IST and 0358 to 0400 hrs IST.

The first squall saw gusty winds reaching 82 kmph, while the second saw a peak wind speed of 104 kmph, the IMD said. The weather department urged residents to take precautions.

"Stay indoors and avoid travel unless necessary," the IMD advisory said, as flying debris and low visibility posed risks on the roads. The Safdarjung observatory, Delhi's official weather station, recorded a maximum temperature of 41.2 degrees Celsius Friday -- a dip of 2.7 degrees from Thursday, but still 1.3 degrees Celsius above normal. The minimum temperature remained high at 31.0 degrees Celsius, marking a departure of 3 degrees Celsius from the seasonal average. Humidity levels oscillated between 51 per cent and 69 per cent, making conditions hot and uncomfortable throughout the day.

According to IMD officials, the national capital is set to witness generally cloudy skies with very light to moderate rainfall, thunderstorms, dust storms, and lightning till June 19. Gusty winds are also expected during thunderstorms.

This comes after a red alert - a severe warning level - was issued for Delhi, as the capital experienced extreme heatwave conditions. Daytime temperatures climbed to between 41°C and 45°C, while the minimum temperature reached 31°C, marking a rise of four degrees above the seasonal average.

The weather department has predicted partly cloudy skies with a chance of a thunderstorm and rain early Sunday morning, potentially bringing some relief from the intense heat.

The IMD, in its extended range forecast, has said that the southwest monsoon is likely to advance over the remaining parts of central and eastern India, along with some areas in northwest India, between June 12 and 18. It is further expected to reach most parts of northwest India, including Delhi, between June 19 and 25. The normal date for the monsoon to arrive in Delhi is around June 30.

This year, it arrived in Kerala May 24 -- well ahead of the usual onset date of 1 June -- and reached Mumbai by May 26, which is 16 days earlier than normal.

According to IMD data, the monsoon reached Delhi June 28 last year, and on June 26 in 2023.

In previous years, it arrived June 30 (2022), July 13 (2021), and June 25 (2020). After a nearly 10-day pause, the monsoon has picked up pace again, especially over southern India. Since Wednesday, several parts of Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Konkan, and Maharashtra have been receiving heavy to very heavy rainfall. This renewed activity marks a strong push northwards, indicating rapid progress of the monsoon across the country.

The IMD has also said the second phase of the monsoon is expected to spread across eastern India, bringing rainfall to West Bengal, Odisha, Bihar, Jharkhand, and eastern Uttar Pradesh within the next week.

Act beyond advisories, evacuate Indian students from Iran: Cong to MEA

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: The Congress Sunday claimed that more than 1,500 Indian students are left in a state of uncertainty in Iran and asked the Ministry of External Affairs to move beyond passive advisories to immediately establish a coordinated evacuation mechanism.

The Congress' assertion came after Indians in Iran were Sunday asked not to panic, exercise due caution and maintain contact with the Embassy of India in Tehran through its social media accounts in view of the current situation in the country following the launch of strikes by Israel.

Congress' media and publicity department head Pawan Khara alleged that while Indian students in Iran are calling for help, the government remains largely unresponsive, even as missiles rain from the sky.

"With flights suspended, airspace over Tehran closed, and internet access disrupted, more than 1500 Indian students are left in a state of precarity and uncertainty - with no information about evacuation or safe zones," Khara said in a post on X. The Indian Embassy has issued a generic advisory urging the students to "remain vigilant, avoid all unnecessary movements, follow the Embassy's Social Media accounts and observe safety protocols as advised by local authorities", he said.

"Meanwhile, students remain trapped in distress as the Indian Embassy in Iran remains unresponsive: 'We are traumatized after last night's attack. There has been no response from the Indian Embassy. Our families are panicking', Khara said. He claimed this is not the first time Indian citizens have been left pleading for help during foreign crises. "Whether it was Sudan, Ukraine, or now Iran, Modi's government has turned evacuations into propaganda opportunities -- stepping in late, speaking too much and doing too little, too slowly," Khara alleged.

"The MEA must move beyond passive advisories and immediately establish a coordinated evacuation mechanism -- complete with emergency response teams, real-time communication channels and logistic support -- before the window for safe exit narrows any further," he said.

In an advisory, the Indian embassy in Iran asked all Indian nationals and Persons of Indian Origin to remain vigilant, avoid all unnecessary movements, follow the embassy's social media accounts and observe safety protocols as advised by local authorities.

In light of heavy rains, authorities declared a holiday for educational institutions in Malappuram, Kannur, Kasaragod, Wayanad and Thrissur districts for Monday. Tourism in J&K's Pahalgam limping back to normalcy

A significant number of Kashmiris from other parts of the valley made their way to Pahalgam on the third day of the Eid, much to the delight of people associated with the tourist trade in this resort, which is 100 kilometres from Srinagar

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Pahalgam (J&K), June 15: Nearly two months after the deadly terror attack here left 26 persons dead, the tourism trade in this south Kashmir resort is limping back to normalcy as locals and a "trickle" from Punjab have started visiting the valley of shepherds after the Eid holidays.

A significant number of Kashmiris from other parts of the valley made their way to Pahalgam on the third day of the Eid, much to the delight of people associated with the tourist trade in this resort, which is 100 kilometres from Srinagar.

"We have been visiting Pahalgam every year irrespective of whether there has been a rush of tourists or not. So, it was no different this year. However, we did feel pampered this time," Nabeel Bhat, a youngster from Srinagar, told PTI here.

The tourism trade came to a standstill in most of Kashmir after the April 22 terror attack on tourists at Baisaran, a meadow six kilometres from here, in which 26 persons -- 25 tourists and a local service provider -- were killed. The incident led to air skirmishes between India and Pakistan while cross border shelling took a toll of people along the Line of Control (LoC).

Most of the local tourists were happy that Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha had decided to open the parks at Pahalgam, saying it would attract more people to the place.

"There is no better advertisement than word of mouth... The people from various parts of Kashmir started to visit soon after Eid, but the numbers did not increase much as they had no place to sit as all the parks were closed. We hope that it will change now as the LG on Saturday announced that the parks will be opened again," said Mohammad Ishaq, a hut owner.

Ishaq said that a few tourists from other states also returned to Pahalgam over the past 10 days. A hotelier, who wished not to be identified, said the Amarnath Yatra usually does not impact his business. The hotelier, however, added that a peaceful and successful yatra will immensely benefit the entire tourism sector of Kashmir as the pilgrims will be "our ambassadors to the rest of India".

Israel, Iran conflict turns deadly

Israel launched Operation Rising Lion early Friday, targeting Iran's nuclear, missile and military infrastructure. Iran later launched retaliatory strikes on Israel, which has threatened even greater force after some Iranian missiles struck buildings in the heart of the country

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerusalem, June 15: The death toll grew Sunday as Israel and Iran exchanged missile attacks for a third consecutive day, with Israel warning that worse is to come.

Israel targeted Iran's Defence Ministry headquarters in Tehran and sites it alleged were associated with Iran's nuclear programme, while Iranian missiles evaded Israeli air defences and slammed into buildings deep inside Israel. Israel's strikes have killed at least 406 people in Iran and wounded another 654, according to a human rights group that has long tracked the country, Washington-based Human Rights Activists. Iran's government has not offered overall casualty figures.

The country's main international airport and airspace remained closed for a third day. The region braced for a drawn-out conflict after Israel's strikes hit nuclear and military facilities, killing several senior generals and top nuclear scientists. President Donald Trump said the US had "nothing to do with the attack on Iran" and warned Tehran to expect "the full strength and might of the US Armed Forces" if it retaliates against the United States.

In a report carried on state TV, Pezeshkian said that Iran has never sought war and conflict. "However, just as our armed forces, including the powerful army and Islamic Revolutionary Guard, have so far provided appropriate and firm responses, in case of continued hostile actions, the responses will be more decisive and severe."

'Israel doesn't want regime change in Iran'

Israel's Foreign Minister Gideon Sa'ar said Sunday that the goal of its military campaign in Iran "is not a regime change."

Iran will pay a very heavy price for the murder of civilians - women, children - that it carried out deliberately. We will achieve our objectives, and we will strike them with overwhelming force

BENJAMIN NETANYAHU | PM, ISRAEL

"This is for the Iranian people to decide," Sa'ar said in an interview. He said the Israeli security Cabinet set the objective as eliminating Iran's nuclear program and minimising its ballistic missile threat. "I believe what we are doing, as an ally for the US and for the Western civilization as a whole, is critical for stability in this part of the world," Sa'ar said, adding: "If we learn something from our history, when somebody says I'm going to eliminate the Jews, take him at his word."

Sa'ar said Iran was within six months of being able to build as many as nine nuclear bombs.

Iraqi militia warns US

The powerful Iran-linked Iraqi militia Kataib Hezbollah Sunday warned it will target US interests and bases in the region if Washington intervenes in the hostilities between Israel and Iran. The group said in a statement that it is "closely monitoring the movements of the American enemy's military in the region" and "should the United States intervene in the war (between Israel and Iran), we will directly target its interests and bases spread throughout the region without hesitation."

The statement was the first explicit and direct threat issued by an Iraqi militia to target US forces and interests in the region since the outbreak of the Iran-Israel conflict.

Iraqi militias have previously targeted US bases in Iraq and Syria, but have largely remained quiet since Israel launched a barrage of strikes on Iran and Tehran retaliated. Three drones launched at the Ain al Assad base housing US troops in western Iraq on Friday were shot down, and no group has claimed responsibility for the attack.

India-origin man dies days after Oz police allegedly knelt on his neck

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Melbourne, June 15: A 42-year-old Indian-origin man has died days after an Australian police officer allegedly knelt on his neck during an attempted arrest, a media report said Sunday.

Gaurav Kundi, 42, from Modbury North in Adelaide, died surrounded by his family Thursday after he was hospitalised for an "unrecoverable" brain injury, 7News Australia reported. Police attempted to arrest Kundi on Payneham Rd at Royston Park, alleging that it witnessed an "altercation" between him and a woman.

The video footage of the incident showed Kundi being forced by police while he and his wife, Amritpal Kaur, loudly protested.

"I've done nothing wrong," Kundi shouted while Kaur filmed and cried out that the police were acting unfairly.

Kundi was rushed to the hospital after his condition declined and he "became unresponsive" during the attempted arrest.

Police said Kundi violently resisted the arrest and was intoxicated. It said the couple was allegedly arguing, and a passing patrol reportedly mistook the incident for domestic violence.

However, Kaur said his husband was simply drunk and loud, not violent.

Meanwhile, South Australian (SA) Police Commissioner Grant Stevens told ABC Radio Adelaide it would investigate the incident in addition to a probe by the internal investigation section detectives.

After day of protests, Trump's military parade rolls through DC

Largest outpouring of protests against Trump since his return to power

REUTERS

Washington, June 15: President Donald Trump's long-sought military parade rolled through the streets of downtown Washington Saturday, but the celebration of the US Army's 250th anniversary was marred by a day of violence and discord.

In the hours before the parade began, hundreds of thousands of Americans marched and rallied in streets in cities from New York to Chicago to Los Angeles, protesting Trump's actions while in office, in the largest such actions since his return to power in January. Earlier in the day, a gunman assassinated a Democratic lawmaker and wounded another in Minnesota and remained at large.

Meanwhile, Israel and Iran exchanged further attacks early Sunday, stoking fears of a mushrooming conflict between the two nations.

All of it followed a week of tension in Los Angeles, where protests over federal immigration raids resulted in Trump calling in National Guard troops and US Marines to help keep the peace, over the objections of the state's Democratic Governor Gavin Newsom.

The parade, which fell on Trump's 79th birthday, kicked off earlier than expected with thunderstorms forecast in the Washington area.

Military parade brings tanks, troops to streets of Washington

Thousands of spectators lined up along the route. Trump watched the proceedings from an elevated viewing stand behind bulletproof glass.

Some of the president's opponents also managed to find a spot along the parade route, holding signs in protest. Other demonstrators were kept separate from the parade crowd by local police.

The US Army has brought nearly 7,000 troops into Washington, along with 150 vehicles, including more than 25 M1 Abrams tanks, 28 Stryker armored vehicles, four Paladin self-propelled artillery vehicles, and artillery pieces including the M777

Earlier in the day, thousands marched in Washington and other cities in protest of Trump's policies. The demonstrations were largely peaceful, and marked the largest outpouring of opposition to Trump's presidency since he returned to power in January. In Los Angeles, however, the situation remained tense. About an hour before a downtown curfew, police officers mounted on horses were aggressively pushing back demonstrators, using gas, flash bangs and other less lethal munitions, causing large groups to panic and flee.

Protesters were firing what police called commercial-grade fireworks against officers, along with rocks and bottles.

Some demonstrators wore gas masks and helmets and vowed to stay in the area for many more hours.

A crowd earlier had confronted soldiers guarding a federal building, yelling "Shame! Shame!" and "Marines, get out of LA!" Anti-Trump groups planned nearly 2,000 demonstrations across the country to coincide with the parade. Many took place under the theme "No Kings," asserting that no individual is above the law.

Ex-French prez Sarkozy stripped of Legion of Honour medal

Paris: France's former President Nicolas Sarkozy has been stripped of his Legion of Honour medal after being convicted last year of corruption and influence peddling while he was the country's head of state, it was announced Sunday.

The decision was made via a decree released in the Journal Officiel that publishes the government's major legal information. It comes in line with the rules of the Legion of Honour. The conservative politician, who was president from 2007 to 2012, has been at the heart of a series of legal cases since leaving office. He was found guilty of corruption and influence peddling by both a Paris court in 2021 and an appeals court in 2023 for trying to bribe a magistrate in exchange for information about a legal case in which he was implicated. He was sentenced to wear an electronic monitoring bracelet for one year, a verdict upheld by France's highest court, the Court of Cassation, in December. Earlier this year, Sarkozy stood trial over allegations he received millions of dollars from Libya for his successful presidential campaign in 2007. He denies the claims. Prosecutors requested a seven-year prison sentence. The verdict is expected in September.

Russia hands over 1,200 war dead bodies to Ukraine

Moscow: Ukraine has received the bodies of another 1,200 Ukrainian soldiers killed in the war with Russia, as part of agreements to exchange both prisoners of war and the dead, Ukrainian officials said Sunday. In several exchanges so far this month, Ukraine has repatriated more than 4,800 bodies, Ukrainian officials said. This marks one of the largest returns of war dead since Russia launched its full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022. Russian state news agencies TASS and RIA both reported the handover, saying Moscow had not received a single Russian corpse in return. It is the fourth in a series of handovers of soldiers' remains to take place in the past week, in accordance with an agreement reached between Russia and Ukraine at talks in Istanbul earlier this month. Kyiv and Moscow agreed to each hand over as many as 6,000 bodies and to exchange sick and heavily wounded prisoners of war and those aged under 25. Russia has so far reported only receiving a total of 27 Russian servicemen in return. Ukraine and Russia have conducted three exchanges of POWs so far, but have not disclosed exact numbers.

Iran-Israel war may affect India exports

The escalating tensions between Iran and Israel are also sending shockwaves through global stock markets, with India's benchmark Sensex closing 573 points lower Friday

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: The Iran-Israel conflict has further increased global economic uncertainties, impacting world trade, including India's exports, as it is expected to drive up both air and sea freight rates, exporters say.

They said that India's exports to Europe and countries like Russia may get impacted due to this war. If the conflict continues for long, the movement of merchant ships through routes such as Strait of Hormuz between Iran and UAE, and Red Sea would be affected.

"The war will further hurt global trade. The situation was gradually improving but now again the trade will be impacted. Our exports to Europe and countries like Russia may get hurt. Freight rates and insurance are expected to increase," Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO) President S C Ralhan said.

Indian export consignments gradually started moving through the Red Sea route but now again it would get impacted, he said. The immediate fallout of the conflict that started on early Friday or June 13 will be freight and insurance charges going up after a period of calm as Red Sea routes were slowly coming back to normal. Mumbai-based exporter and Technocraft Industries Ltd Founder Chairman S K Saraf said. Cargo ships had gradually returned on Red Sea routes, saving those 15-20 days while moving to US and Europe from India and other parts of Asia.

"The merchant ships will again avoid the Red Sea which will lead to escalation of freight costs that will have to be borne by traders. If war would go beyond a week, it can push freight rates by about 50 per cent," he added.

The present conflict that began with an attack on Israel on October 7, 2023 had brought cargo movement through Red Sea routes to a halt due to attacks by Houthi rebels on commercial shipping. After the US intervened with attacks on the rebels, the firing on commercial ships stopped.

"Everything depends on whether the conflict remains localised or expands to include other countries. Its impact will be first felt in global crude oil prices," FIEO Director General Ajay Sahai said.

Apart from the Red Sea route, this time transit through Strait of Hormuz is another factor that is weighing on the world energy trade. The Strait of Hormuz, located between Oman and Iran, connects the Persian Gulf with the Gulf of Oman and the Arabian Sea.

Around 21 per cent of global petroleum liquids consumption passes through that route. China, India, Japan, and South Korea were the top destinations for crude oil moving through the Strait, Oman also uses this route to supply liquefied natural gas to India. Only Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) have operating pipelines that can circumvent the Strait of Hormuz.

Around 80 per cent of India's merchandise trade with Europe passes through the Red Sea and substantial trade with the US also takes this route. Both these geographies account for 34 per cent of the country's total exports.

India's exports to Israel have fallen sharply to $2.1 billion in 2024-25 from $4.5 billion in 2023-24. Imports from Israel came down to $1.6 billion in the last fiscal from $2.0 billion in 2023-24.

Similarly, exports to Iran of $1.4 billion, which were at the same level in 2024-25 as in 2023-24, could also suffer. India's imports from Iran were at $41 million in FY25 as against $625 million in the previous year.

The conflict adds to the pressure world trade was under after the US President Donald Trump announced high tariffs. The government is expected to hold meetings with exporters in the coming days to discuss the recent developments.

Based on the tariff war impact, the World Trade Organisation (WTO) has already said that the global trade will contract 0.2 per cent in 2025 as against the earlier projection of 2.7 per cent expansion.

India's overall exports that had grown 6 per cent on year to $825 billion in 2024-25 were expected to touch $1 trillion by the end of this year, according to FIEO, and it could fall well short of this target due to geopolitical uncertainties.

Iran-Israel conflict, likely to drive mkts

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: Stock investors will track the ongoing conflict between Iran and Israel, Brent crude oil prices, inflation data and US Fed interest rate decision for further cues this week, analysts said.

Tariff-related news would also dictate trends in the equity market, experts noted. Stock markets faced heightened volatility last week and ended in the red amid escalating geopolitical tensions, which sparked a risk-off sentiment. Investor sentiment was hit hard on surging oil prices as fears of supply disruptions resurfaced.

"Indian stock markets are likely to follow the global trend, following rising tension in the Middle East amid the Israel-Iran conflict, which could fuel further pessimism and prompt investors to flee riskier assets. Also, traders will exercise caution ahead of US Federal Reserve interest rate decision on Wednesday, coupled with other central banks of Japan and the UK announcing their interest rates separately," Ketan Vikam, Head of Sales at financial services provider Almondz Institutional Equities, said. Equity benchmark indices Sensex and Nifty tumbled nearly 1 per cent Friday last week as weak global markets and a spike in Brent crude oil prices weighed on investor sentiment. "Looking ahead, investors are expected to remain cautious amid premium valuations and geopolitical risks. All eyes are now on the upcoming US Fed meeting. The Fed's commentary and economic projections will be closely scrutinised for future policy cues," Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Investments Limited, said.

Last week, the BSE benchmark tanked 1,070.39 points or 1.30 per cent, and the Nifty declined 284.45 points or 1.13 per cent. Markets would also track trends in global equities and movement in the rupee, analysts said.

Siddhartha Khemka, Head - Research, Wealth Management, Motilal Oswal Financial Services Ltd, said, "Overall, we expect the market to remain subdued on the back of weak global cues, while industry-specific news flows would continue to drive sectoral movements."

AIF investments up 32% to ₹5.38 lakh cr

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: India's affluent investors are increasingly turning to Alternative Investment Funds (AIFs), with investments in the space reaching ₹5.38 lakh crore by the end of the March 2025 quarter, a surge of 32 per cent from the year earlier.

This increase is being driven by heightened market volatility and shifting global macroeconomic conditions, prompting the wealthy to seek more diversified and resilient portfolio options, according to investment advisory firm Multi-Act Trade and Investments.

This trend marks a departure from the traditional equity-debt mix, as the country's affluent investors or High Net worth Individuals (HNIs) move into the AIFs space, which include private equity, hedge funds, real assets, private credit, and other non-traditional instruments that typically have low correlation with public markets.

The appeal of these alternatives is driven by their potential to offer higher returns as well as stability during periods of market stress.

"As HNIs navigate persistent volatility, global macroeconomic shifts, and a low-yield environment, the demand for diversified and resilient portfolios is on the rise," Multi-Act noted.

To support this view, Sebi data showed that cumulative investments in Indian AIFs surged 32 per cent year-on-year to ₹5.38 lakh crore in Q4 FY2025 from ₹4.07 lakh crore in Q4 FY2024. This suggests a clear shift in asset allocation strategy among HNIs and family offices.

"Family office portfolios have a really long horizon, so their ability to participate in private investments is much higher than most other investors," the firm added, highlighting a key advantage that allows these entities to engage in alternative assets. Multi-Act attributed this increase to a combination of factors such as the need for diversification, a hedge against inflation, and access to expert management.

AIFs have been divided into three categories I, II, and III -- covering early-stage venture capital, private equity, private credit, infrastructure, and long-short hedge strategies -- each offering a unique mix of risk, return potential, and liquidity.

NEA exports power to B'desh via India

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Kathmandu, June 15: The Nepal Electricity Authority (NEA) Sunday resumed exporting 40 megawatts (MW) of electricity to Bangladesh through India's power transmission system.

The resumption follows a tripartite agreement signed in 2023 between the NEA, the Bangladesh Power Development Board (BPDB), and India's NTPC Vidut Vyapar Nigam Limited (NVVN).

Under the agreement, the NEA will export electricity to Bangladesh for five months - from June 15 to November 15 - during Nepal's peak production period in the rainy season. NEA Deputy Manager Subarna Sapkota of the Electricity System Control Department stated that a total of 146.88 million units of electricity will be exported over this period, generating an estimated ₹129 crore in revenue.

The electricity will be transmitted from Nepal's 400 kV Dhalkebar Substation, routed through Muzaffarpur and Behrampur in India, before reaching the Bheramara Substation in Bangladesh.

According to the NEA, the export resumed at midnight on Saturday after Bangladesh opened a letter of credit (LC), clearing the way for the transaction.

AC sales growth cools amid peak demand season

Climate change is likely to disturb the industry as IMD has predicted gradual drop in temperature from the mid of June as a western disturbance is expected to move in

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 15: Unrelenting heatwave across north and east regions has spiked sales of room air-conditioners (RAC) in June, but intermittent rains in several part of the country amid peak demand season have forced the industry players to lower sales projections to 10-15 per cent for this year.

The summer, which is the peak season for sales of room air-conditioners, has disappointed AC makers this time, though there are some silver lining in June with impulse purchases happening due to the heatwave. RAC makers said after having an encouraging numbers in February and March, helped by an early arrival of summer, they were expecting a high double-digit volume growth of around 25 per cent from the last year, and had also built up inventory.

"We all had planned for a 25 to 30 per cent growth, which is not going to take place. This is a disappointing summer; that is the truth. It is part and parcel of the game," Blue Star Managing Director B Thiagarajan told PTI.

"We have to manage the situation and move forward," he said, adding that now the RAC industry will end up with 10 to 15 per cent growth this year, despite a good start in February and March.

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) had last week said that temperatures are likely to have a gradual drop from the mid of June as a western disturbance is expected to move in, bringing cooler winds, rain, and thunderstorms. According to Thiagarajan, the current June quarter will be bad for the RAC industry. However, he expects a bounce back in the September quarter. He expects some recovery in the festive season and also in the quarter when the energy label changes, as makers offer discounts to liquidate the old inventory.

"A lot of pre-buying takes place whenever energy label changes are there. People will end up buying in that quarter," he said.

Voltas MD & CEO Pradeep Bakshi said in the last two months, there has been hardly any growth for the industry in comparison to 2024 sales.

"Rather, actually, there has been a de-growth for the industry. So, I don't think people are now looking at big growth numbers in the first quarter (June quarter). Hitting last year's number would itself be a challenge," Bakshi said.

The peak summer months have actually been impacted by the weather. It played a spoilsport during the peak summer months. After losing April and May, it's difficult to recover in the rest 10 months, said Bakshi.

However, he also added last some days are showing good results as summers are peaking up, temperatures are rising, especially in the northern region of the country, which may pave the way for better results in the coming months.

India women's hockey team loses 1-2 to Australia in Pro League

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, June 15: The Indian women's hockey team fought on equal terms against Australia but conceded a last-minute goal to lose 1-2 in its FIH Pro League match here Sunday.

This was India's second consecutive defeat to the same opponents as they had lost 2-3 Friday. India took the lead in the third minute through a field goal from Vaishnavi Phalke and they were 1-0 up at half-time. But Australia restored parity in the 37th minute through Amy Lawton.

The match was heading towards a draw but Lexie Pickering scored the winner from a penalty-corner variation in the 60th minute to break Indian hearts.

India made a bright start to the game as they won three back-to-back penalty corners in the very first minute, adding pressure on the Australian backline. India carried on their momentum and scored the opening goal as early as the third minute to take charge of the match.

Navneet Kaur carried the ball forward and passed it to Sharmila Devi to the left. Devi played it to the far post for Vaishnavi to deflect the ball into the net.

India continued to pile on the pressure as Navneet came close to extending the lead but narrowly missed the target.

Minutes later, Australia won two back-to-back penalty corners towards the end of first quarter but India did well at the back to maintain their lead.

Australia improved their performance in the second quarter and started creating goal-scoring chances. Both sides exchanged possession and battled it out in the midfield but they couldn't be separated in the second quarter as India headed into the second half with a goal in hand.

Australia were more dominant in the third quarter and caused troubles for the Indian defence. Greta Hayes came teasingly close to scoring a goal as she struck a shot towards an empty net. However, the ball was accidentally stopped by her own teammate.

In the 37th minute, Australia were on the attack again and Lawton managed to find the equaliser through a brilliant field goal.

Lawton did well to win the ball from an India defender and then unleashed a powerful shot from the edge of the circle, past the keeper into the bottom right corner.

In the fourth and final quarter, India earned a penalty corner but the Australian keeper was up to the task to keep her side in the contest.

In the 54th minute, India won four penalty corners in a row but they failed to find the net. In their third attempt, India were unlucky not to take the lead. Neha fired a shot which took a deflection and struck the post.

With 34 seconds left on the clock, Australia converted a penalty corner to complete their comeback in the match.

Tatum Stewart played the perfect pass to Pickering who deflected the ball into the net to hand Australia all three points.

Le Mans (France), June 15: Ferrari won the 24 Hours of Le Mans for the third year running Sunday but a late surge from Porsche Penske Motorsport denied the Italian manufacturer a podium sweep.

The No 83 Ferrari 499P crew of Robert Kubica, Ye Yifei and Philip Hanson took the win as Ferrari won for the 12th time in the 93rd edition of the storied race, which began 102 years ago. Their bright-yellow car, privately entered by the AF Corse team, got the better of Porsche and the two official factory-entered Ferraris. Kubica took the checkered flag after a marathon spell at the wheel Sunday afternoon to make sure of the win.

"It has been a long 24 hours," Kubica said to his team over the radio and thanked them in Italian. "Enjoy." It's a career highlight for 40-year-old Polish driver Kubica, whose promising Formula 1 career was interrupted in 2011 when a crash while competing in a rally left him with severe injuries.

Mumbai, June 15: It was a red-letter day in the sport of rugby as the inaugural season of the Rugby Premier League (RPL) kicked off in grand style Sunday evening at the Shahaji Raje Bhosale Sports Complex (Andheri Sports Complex).

All six franchises were in action on the opening day, giving the fans a fantastic experience of one of the oldest sports in the world.

On Day 1, the Bengaluru Bravehearts and Delhi Redz played out a nail-biter that ended in a tie, whilst the Chennai Bulls and Hyderabad Heroes bagged comprehensive wins.

The opening match of Season 1 of the RPL had the Bengaluru Bravehearts taking on the Delhi Redz, in what turned out to be an absolute humdinger. After four quarters of intense rugby, with both sides going for the kill, the Bengaluru Bravehearts and the Delhi Redz shared the spoils, as the scores read 21-21.

For the Bengaluru Bravehearts, Akuila Rokolisoa scored two Tries in the first and second quarters respectively, whilst Philip Wokorach added a third in the penultimate quarter. Akuila Rokolisoa was also on hand to complete the conversions as well. The Delhi Redz, who conceded early, though roared back with Patrick Okongo scoring two Tries, in the first quarter and third quarter.

The Redz also had Matias Osadzczuk get on the score-sheet with a try in the second quarter. Matias Osadzczuk and Deepak Punia were also able to convert their kicks, helping the Redz level things before the final whistle.

Match two of the opening day saw the Chennai Bulls win at a canter against the Mumbai Dreamers, with the score reading 24-5. It was a tight first quarter, with neither side getting on the scoresheet. However, after that, the Chennai Bulls settled in and took control. Terry Kennedy scored tries in the second and third quarter, and Vaafauese Maliko along with Muhammed Ep, added to the list of tries with their efforts in quarter two and four. Terry Kennedy was also able to convert his kick, and Joaquin Pellandini added another couple of points for the Bulls. For the Mumbai Dreamers, it was Henry Hutchinson who managed to get the first points of the tournament for his side when he scored a try early in the final quarter.

In the final game of the day, the Hyderabad Heroes put on a fine display -- showing great co-ordination within themselves, as they swatted aside the Kalinga Black Tigers, with the score at 24-14. Joji Nasova's try put Hyderabad in the lead before Maurice Longbottom's try brought things to level pegging. Both the sides had also converted their kicks, and continued to trade blows in the second quarter with Hyderabad's Manuel Moreno and Kalinga's Harry McNulty adding tries for their teams. Moreno and Longbottom converted the kicks after that once again, as the teams stayed locked on points, with the game on a knife-edge.

In the second half, Hyderabad were out of the blocks quicker than their opposition as Javed Hussein and Kevin Wekesa, added a try each in the third and fourth quarter to put the seal on the win.
