CHARIOT PULLING TO RESUME TODAY: TALADHWAJA HALTS AT BALAGANDI CHHAK, DARPADALANA AT MARICHKOTE, AND NANDIGHOSHA NEAR SRIMANDIR

WHEELS OF FAITH: The chariots of Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra and Devi Subhadra being pulled by devotees on the Grand Road in Puri, Friday.

Puri, June 27: Lord Jagannath devotees will get another chance to pull the chariots Saturday as none of them reached their destination Friday after Lord Balabhadra's Taladhwaja chariot got stuck while negotiating a turn, causing delays that prevented the others from arriving at Gundicha Temple, 2.6km away from the 12th-century shrine.

“There is no major issue. It is not unusual for chariots to be pulled on the following day. All rituals were conducted on time. There have been no accidents or untoward incidents,” Law Minister Prithviraj Harichandan said.

When Lord Balabhadra's chariot came to a halt at Balagandi Chhak, Devi Subhadra's Darpadalana was stopped at Marichkote. Meanwhile, Lord Jagannath's Nandighosha chariot was only symbolically pulled as part of the ritual and remains parked near the main temple.

Explaining the delay, the Minister said, “Due to favourable weather conditions, the number of devotees was nearly one and a half times higher than usual. Those who came specifically to pull Lord Jagannath's chariot will have the opportunity to do so tomorrow.”

The minister announced that chariot pulling was suspended for the day at 8 pm. He said all the rituals were completed in accordance with the schedule. The Pahandi and chariot pulling began on schedule, but the chariots could not reach their destination due to issues with the movement of Lord Balabhadra's chariot.

Earlier, Governor Hari Babu Kambhampati, Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi, and many other dignitaries joined the devotees and were among those who pulled the chariots. Amid chanting of 'Jai Jagannath' and 'Hari Bol', beating of cymbals and blowing of trumpets and conch shells, the 'Taladhwaja' first started rolling at 4.08 PM. It was followed by 'Darpadalana' and finally 'Nandighosha'.

While thousands of people pulled the chariots, lakhs of others also reached the sea-side temple town to participate in the festival. An estimated one million devotees gathered in Puri for the annual Rath Yatra, officials said. The chariot pulling commenced after Puri's titular king, Gajapati Maharaja Divyasingha Deb, performed the ritual of Chhera Pahanna (sweeping of the chariots). Wooden horses of different colours were fitted on three chariots before they were pulled by the devotees. Earlier, the trinity — Lord Balabhadra, Devi Subhadra and Lord Jagannath — had ascended their respective chariots after over two-hour long ceremonial 'Pahandi' ritual. During 'Pahandi', three wooden idols were carried to the chariots from the 12th-century temple.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, June 27: US President Donald Trump said America is going to have a 'very big' trade deal with India, hinting at significant progress in the negotiation process of a long-awaited bilateral trade agreement between the two countries.

“We're having some great deals. We have one coming up, maybe with India, a very big one, where we're going to open up India,” Trump said during an event at the White House promoting passage of the GOP's tax and spending cuts legislation Thursday.

“In the China deal, we're starting to open up China. Things that never really could have happened, and the relationship with every country has been very good,” Trump said.

The President, however, did not elaborate on the details of the deal signed with China.

“You remember a few months ago, the press was saying, 'Do you really have anybody of any interest?' Well, we just signed with China yesterday, right? We just signed with China. We have everybody. We're not going to make deals with everybody. Some we're just going to send them a letter and say thank you very much. You're going to pay 25 per cent, 35 per cent, 45 per cent. That's the easy way to do it, and my people don't want to do it that way. They want to do some of it, but they want to make more deals than I would do,” he said.

Oppn parties slam RSS leader's call on Preamble

New Delhi: The Congress and other Opposition parties Friday slammed RSS general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale's call for a national debate on whether the terms 'secular' and 'socialist' should remain in the Preamble, terming it 'political opportunism' and a 'deliberate assault' on the soul of the Constitution. Hosabale's strong pitch for a review of the two words inserted in the Preamble of the Constitution during the Emergency days has kicked up a political row.

Tackling deepfakes: Denmark to grant citizens copyright over their face, voice

Copenhagen, June 27: The Danish government is set to take action against the creation and distribution of AI-generated deepfakes by amending copyright law to guarantee individuals' rights to their own bodies, facial features, and voices. On Thursday, the government announced plans to enhance protections against digital impersonations in the first law of its kind in Europe.

The proposed law defines a deepfake as a highly realistic digital representation of a person, encompassing both their appearance and voice.

technology that has made it easier than ever to create a convincing fake image, video or sound to mimic the features of another person. The changes to Danish copyright law will, once approved, theoretically give people in Denmark the right to demand that online platforms remove such content if it is shared without consent.

With broad support from various political parties, the culture department intends to present a proposal for amending the existing law for public consultation before the summer break, with plans to submit the Danish Culture Minister Jakob Engel-Schmidt expressed hope that the bill would convey a clear message: everyone has the right to control how they look and sound. He told the Guardian: “In the bill we agree and are sending an unequivocal message that everybody has the right to their own body, their own voice and their own facial features, which is apparently not how the current law is protecting people against generative AI.”

It will also cover “realistic, digitally generated imitations” of an artist's performance without consent. Violation of the proposed rules could result in compensation for those affected. The government said the new rules would not affect parodies and satire, which would still be permitted.

He gives each character their moment."

New Delhi-Bhub Duronto Express looted in Bihar

INDO ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Patna, June 27: In a shocking incident, passengers of the New Delhi-Bhubaneswar Duronto Express were looted near Gaya, Bihar, in the early hours of Friday.

According to an official of the Gaya Government Railway Police (GRP), a group of unidentified robbers targeted at least five coaches of the train, stealing bags, mobile phones, laptops, and other valuables from passengers.

After looting, the miscreants pulled the emergency chain between Paraiya and Kastha stations on the Deen Dayal Upadhyay (DDU)-Gaya railway section around 2am, bringing the train to a halt for over half an hour before escaping under the cover of darkness.

Several passengers reported that purses, mobiles and laptops of at least 12 of them were stolen during the incident, causing panic.

The passengers claimed that a few people were roaming Thursday night when the train departed from DDU railway station. "Shocking, there were no railway protection force (RPF) personnel patrolling in the coaches for the safety of the passengers," said a passenger at Gaya Railway Station.

The incident sparked outrage as angry passengers protested at Gaya Railway Station and demanding the recovery of their looted valuables.

Upon receiving information, railway police and local Paraiya police rushed to the spot and began their investigation.

A special team led by the Railway DSP has been formed to track down the culprits.

During the preliminary investigation, several empty bags were recovered near the tracks, indicating that the thieves had stolen the contents before discarding the bags.

Police suspect the involvement of a well-organised gang in the incident.

A First Information Report (FIR) has been registered at the Gaya GRP police station regarding the theft.

Notably, two months ago, a similar incident was reported from the same Duronto Express near Tankuppa station on the Gaya-Koderma railway section.

Oppn condemns 'police excess' on journalists

PNN & AGENCIES

Bhubaneswar, June 27: Opposition BJD and Congress Friday condemned the alleged police excess on journalists who were officially invited to Puri by the state government to cover Rath Yatra.

BJD spokesperson Lenin Mohanty in a statement said that the government had arranged a bus to take accredited working journalists from Bhubaneswar to Puri.

"Upon reaching Puri, despite showing their cordon passes and identity cards, the police did not allow journalists to carry out their duties. On the contrary, the police misbehaved and physically assaulted many senior journalists," Mohanty alleged. Several journalists, including a woman, suffered injury and she had to be hospitalised, the BJD leader claimed.

"We demand that the Chief Minister immediately intervene and take action against the officers who caused such chaos during the Rath Yatra," Mohanty said in a statement. Odisha Pradesh Congress Committee (OPCC) president Bhakta Charan Das also expressed concern over the incident and demanded the CM's immediate intervention. He urged the CM to review CCTV footage of the area and take strict action against the officials responsible for the incident.

"This is a shameful attack on the freedom of press. We demand accountability and immediate steps to ensure justice for the injured journalists," said Das.

In addition to condemning the alleged assault, Das also raised serious questions about the delay in the movement of Lord Jagannath's chariot. He alleged that the delay hurt the religious sentiments of millions of devotees across the state.

"Despite all preparations being in place, why did the government play with the emotions of the people," he asked. "For whom was the Lord's chariot stopped? Which VIP was so important that the chariot of Lord Jagannath had to wait?"

Over 600 fall ill during Rath Yatra

Puri: Nearly 625 people fell ill and many had to be admitted to hospitals due to sweating heat and overcrowding during Rath Yatra here Friday, officials said. According to Puri CDMO Kishore Satapathy, several people reported minor injuries, vomiting, and fainting—primarily due to overcrowded conditions. "Most of them were discharged after receiving preliminary treatment at OPDs. There were no casualties," he added. Health and Family Welfare Minister Mukesh Mahaling said the primary cause of illness among devotees was extreme heat and humid conditions. Around 70 people were undergoing treatment at the District Headquarters Hospital in Puri, with nine reported to be in critical condition, an official said. Meanwhile, sources claimed many people were injured in Balagandi area where Lord Balabhadra's chariot Taladhwa remained stuck for over an hour.

Puri the only 'Jagannath Dham': Bengal devotees

ARINDAM GANGULY, OP

Bhubaneswar, June 27: The naming of the recently constructed Jagannath Temple at Digha as 'Jagannath Dham' by the West Bengal government seems not to have made any dent in the devotion of pilgrims from the neighbouring state who participated in large numbers at this year's world famous Rath Yatra at Puri which they unequivocally hailed as the 'only' Jagannath Dham.

Joyeeta Roy, a regular attendee of the Rath Yatra at Srikshetra, said Puri will always remain the true Dham. "There is a profound historical, spiritual, and cultural sanctity here that cannot be recreated elsewhere. Puri is one of the Char Dhams established by Adi Shankaracharya—making it a cornerstone of Hindu pilgrimage and faith," she said.

"The divine presence of Lord Jagannath in Puri isn't just symbolic—it is eternal, living, and sustained by centuries of seva, rituals, and spiritual energy that vibrates through every stone of this sacred land," Roy said.

She went on to add that the beautiful temple at Digha might have been attracting devotees, but, "a Dham is not about architecture or tourism; it is about divine legacy. And that legacy, that living soul of devotion, breathes in Puri alone," she added.

Ashok Agrawal from Asansol said the effort in constructing the Digha temple for those who cannot travel to Puri is commendable. "However, you can't simply label it a 'Dham.' The sanctity of Puri Jagannath Dham is rooted in purity and centuries of unwavering faith—it's not something that can be built overnight," he said.

Another devotee from West Bengal, who preferred not to be named, said, "There is only one Jagannath Dham, and that is in Puri. The Digha temple seems to be a political move by the Mamata Banerjee government to rival the Ram Temple in Ayodhya championed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi."

Echoing similar sentiments, Radha Raman Ganguly of Bankura said, "For years, countless Bengalis have been coming to Puri for darshan of Lord Jagannath. That tradition cannot be replaced suddenly."

The declaration of the Digha temple as a 'Jagannath Dham' by the Bengal government has stirred controversy and sparked tensions between devotees from the two states. Many traditional followers have not accepted the new temple's claim to the sacred title historically associated with Puri.

Another contentious point that has also stirred discussions among traditional devotees is the entry rules at the two temples. While there are strict entry rules at the Puri temple, the Digha temple permits entry for foreign nationals.

Meanwhile, the Digha Jagannath Temple also hosted the Rath Yatra which was inaugurated by chief minister Mamata Banerjee. However, pilgrims were restricted behind barricades along the 1-kilometer route and were not allowed to pull the ropes of the deities' chariots—a central ritual of the festival. Banerjee stated this decision was made for security reasons, but many devotees expressed disappointment.

"Jagannath is the people's Lord. Not allowing us to pull the ropes is very hurtful," said a devotee.

As both temples continue their spiritual observances, the debate over what constitutes a true 'Dham' remains a matter of faith, tradition, and sentiment deeply rooted in India's religious and cultural landscape.

There is a thirst for Love which no human relation can quench. It is only the Divine's love that can satisfy that thirst.

Double-engine PMO

Since February, the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) has been operating for the first time with two full principal secretaries, P.K. Mishra and Shaktikanta Das. The arrangement reflects the scale of ambition in Modi 3.0: fast-track delivery, tighter coordination, and a laser focus on 2030 goals. Mishra oversees economic ministries, infrastructure, and appointments; Das oversees key service ministries like health, agriculture, and education. The division is logical, and the intention is unmistakable: cut through bottlenecks and compress decision cycles. But, observers note, with more power now flowing into two unelected officials, what becomes of the ministries? When every major call is either cleared or nudged from the top, ministerial leadership risks being reduced to a relay function. They are waiting for signals, rather than setting directions. And this isn't just about turf, it's also about institutional resilience. Concentrating so much decision-making within the PMO creates a single point of failure. Both Mishra and Das are immensely capable, but no governance model should depend on individual capacity alone. The real tension here is between speed and depth. A centralized structure may get more done, faster. But it also limits scrutiny and the open debate that democratic systems rely on. Under Modi, India's ambitions are large and long-term. A double-engine PMO may well accelerate project execution, but only if ministries remain more than just delivery arms. Otherwise, what looks like efficiency may, over time, expose its own fragility. The South Block can steer, but the engine of governance needs all its parts running, not just the ones closest to the PM.

Warning bell for honest public service

There's a rustling in the forests of Uttarakhand. It's the collective disbelief over the sudden, near-mysterious departure of Dr Dhananjay Mohan, the state's Head of Forest Force (HoFF). A top-notch forest officer, a Dehradun native, an IIT-Kanpur gold-medallist, and a bird expert of global repute, Dr Mohan wasn't exactly a babu you'd expect to vanish from service in 24 hours flat. And yet, he did. His Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) application, submitted on June 20, just two months before his superannuation, was accepted with the kind of speed usually reserved for emergency transfers or political exits. He had even applied for leave to visit Bengaluru from June 25 to July 2. What changed is the big question? Officially, there's no explanation. Unofficially, there are too many. Sources have told DKB that some believe that Dr Mohan's hallmark integrity may have been his undoing. Another view holds that he was too methodical for a system that wants instant decisions. Then there's the speculation about a political scandal around sapling procurement under the Miyawaki project that may have created enough unease for someone to want a quick reshuffle. It's ironic and also troubling that a man who lived for forests might have been nudged out by the very ecosystem he sought to protect. If that's the case, it's not just a babu we've lost; it is a warning bell for honest public service.

CBDT's top deck shuffle

Another month, another round of top-level musical chairs. This time, it's the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) gearing up for a shuffle. Or possibly, just a slow remix. Chairman Ravi Agrawal's extended innings ends on June 30, and with him, two other senior members — Prabodh Seth (administration) and R N Parbat (legislation) — are also on their way out. Or are they? If the whispers in North Block are to be believed, Agrawal may just get another run, this time on a contractual basis. Now, while some observers argue continuity is key in tax administration, there's a growing section in the revenue service that's itching for fresh blood. And for good reason. A new CBDT line-up could trigger long-overdue changes down the chain — DGs, PCCITs, and other key field positions, several of which are already vacant or about to be. There's also the optics question. Post-election, this is one of the first major senior-level bureaucratic reshuffles in the making. Will the Centre play it safe and stick with familiar hands, or signal reform and renewal? The Income Tax Department, like much of India's babudom, often functions in a delicate dance between experience and inertia. The hope is that this transition isn't just about who sits in the big chair, but whether the system around them gets sharper, swifter, and a little less status quo.

Learn to be more polite. One day, Bill and Tom went to a restaurant for dinner. As soon as the waiter took out two steaks, Bill quickly picked out the bigger steak for himself. Tom wasn't happy about that: "When are you going to learn to be polite?" Bill: "If you had the chance to pick first, which one would you pick?" Tom: "The smaller piece, of course." Bill: "What are you whining about then? The smaller piece is what you want, right?"

FOCUS AXIOM MISSION

INDIA'S GIANT STRIDE

In a significant space achievement, the Indian astronaut Shubhanshu Shukla created history by flying to space as part of the Axiom 4 mission aboard SpaceX's Falcon 9 spacecraft. After several previous re-schedules due to weather and technical problems, the rocket finally cleared the launch pad on 25th June 2025 at 12.01 PM IST and soared to the sky carrying Shubhanshu and other crew members to space. With this success, Shubhanshu became the first Indian astronaut to travel to the International Space Station and the second after Rakesh Sharma to be orbiting the Earth in space. It is worth noting that Rakesh Sharma travelled to space in 1984 as the first Indian astronaut on a Russian Soyuz spacecraft and spent 8 days in the Salyut-7 space station. Now, after a long gap of 41 years of Rakesh Sharma's journey, another Indian citizen travelled to space. Hence, a space voyage with an Indian astronaut was long due for the country. Commanded by the US astronaut Peggy Whitson, with crew members from Poland and Hungary, the mission marked India's re-entry into orbital spaceflight after 41 years of silence. During his 14-day stay in space, Shubhanshu will remain busy in conducting many groundbreaking experiments in science and technology in the zero gravity conditions of space which were designed by various scientific organizations of the country and abroad. The Axiom mission will serve as a significant launch pad for India's upcoming space programmes. The mission will provide valuable real time experience in working in the International Space Station ecosystem, adapting to microgravity conditions of space, conducting complex scientific experiments in microgravity and working within an international space protocol system. This knowledge will prove to be immensely beneficial in preparing India to launch its own astronauts to space as a part of the Gaganyaan programme and its ambitious plan of launching an indigenous space station by 2028. Delving briefly into the life and journey of Shubhanshu, he was born on October 10, 1985 in Lucknow and was the youngest of the three children of his parents of a middle class family. Since childhood, he possessed a deep interest for bravery and aspired for a career in the military field. Inspired by the valour of Indian soldiers in the 1999 Kargil War and India's glorious victory over the enemy, he studied at the National Defence Academy, Pune after clearing the Entrance examination. He came out with flying colours from the Academy after completing a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science in 2005. He was then selected for the flying branch of the Indian Air Force and underwent training at the Indian Air Force Academy, Dundigal. In June 2006, he was commissioned into the Fighter stream of the Indian Air Force as a Flying officer. During his career in the Indian Air Force, Shubhanshu served as a Combat Leader and Test pilot and flew several fighter aircrafts like Su-30 MKI, MiG-21, MiG-29, Jaguar, Hawk, Dornier, An-39 where he clocked 2000 hours of valuable flight experience. Later, impressed by his flying skills, the Indian Air Force included him in the Indian Human Spaceflight programme spearheaded by ISRO. In 2020, he was sent to Russia for receiving basic training related to space flight at the Yuri Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Centre in Moscow. After completing his training, he returned to India and further received extensive training at the Astronaut Training facility in Bengaluru. Later, he was promoted to the rank of a Wing Commander in the Indian Air Force. During this time, he completed a Masters degree in Aerospace Engineering from the Indian Institute of Science, Bengaluru. His name as a member of India's manned Gaganyaan programme was first announced by the Prime Minister Narendra Modi on February 27, 2024. He continued his glorious journey as he got selected as the Pilot of the Axiom mission, (a joint effort of NASA, SpaceX, and ISRO) to fly to the International Space Station on SpaceX's Falcon 9 vehicle. For this, he received rigorous training at NASA's Johnson Space Centre in USA. Shubhanshu was entrusted with the most crucial job of the mission of piloting the spacecraft. Subhanshu's space journey would prove to be a source of inspiration for all Indians. As an astronaut, he epitomizes India's evolving presence in global space ventures, from Gaganyaan to partnering with NASA and SpaceX. His mission isn't just scientific, it's emblematic of India's renewed ascent in space exploration. He represents India's hopes and aspiration for a global leadership position in space sector in this highly challenging world dominated by powers like China and Japan. His journey from a small city like Lucknow to the low Earth orbit of the infinite cosmos signifies how best a human endeavour can achieve under the most difficult realities of life. His life and journey teaches us that accomplishing lofty goals does not require positions or patronage, but a dream to cherish and a will to achieve! SPECTRUM EUROPEAN UNION

Lesson from Poland for India

On 1 January this year, Poland took over the rotating presidency of the Council of European Union in a grand ceremony at the Grand Theatre in Warsaw. As the six-month presidency ends on the 30th June, it is a good time to assess the Polish performance from an Indian perspective. Like India, Warsaw faces an autocratic neighbour on its borders, which was once one of the two super powers, is in military occupation of an independent country, Ukraine, which shares long borders with it. Warsaw had fought wars against Russia that had invaded and occupied it. India's relations with autocratic China could not be dissimilar to that of Poland-Russia relations. But, unlike India, Poland has been smart enough to join NATO for its security and the European Union for its growth and development. Of late, Poland has been the fastest-growing economy in Europe and is increasingly seen as the mouth-piece of Europe in view of the relative decline of Germany and France, the two big brothers of the European Union.

EUROPEAN UNION AND THE UNION OF INDIA HAVE A LOT IN COMMON AND THEY SHOULD BE CLOSER THAN THEY HAVE BEEN

For the current presidency of the Council, Poland profoundly articulated the motto as 'Security Europe' and maintained the continuity of thought and diligent work that has gone into making Europe safe and secure. As expected, Polish presidency put the biggest emphasis on the security of Ukraine which will define the cohesion of Europe which Russia seeks to destabilise. Poland held that Russia was trying to redraw the geo-political and security scenarios of Europe. So stopping Russia in its tracks was the foremost priority of the European Union. Warsaw urged the member countries to increase their budget on defence upto at least 2 per cent of their GDP. Having been a victim of Russian autocracy and imperialism in the past, and now experiencing Russian bombs dropped 15 kms away from its borders, Poland is in the right strategic position to warn others on the threats to freedom and sovereignty. Poland advocates Ukraine's eventual entry into EU and defending Ukraine, in the meantime, by all means, against Russian aggression. Poland also urges EU-member countries to withdraw from importing Russian gas and oil immediately by 2/3rd and eventually complete independence from Russian energy supply. Poland argued that, Russian act of invasion of Ukraine attacks the fundamental values the European Union espouses and it was created to defend — freedom, democracy and human rights. Ukraine is a litmus test for continued existence of European Union as a democratic and plural entity. Poland took over the presidency of the Council at about the same time as Donald Trump walked into the White House for the second time. Donald tusk, the Polish Prime Minister, grasped Trump's mercurial and self-centred approach and urged Europe to stand solid and united to negotiate with their traditional ally. However, the most noteworthy impact of the Polish presidency is fore fronting the security imperative in context of invasion of Ukraine. Poland successfully reiterated the European commitment to the independence and sovereignty of Ukraine. The lesson India can draw is to ensure its own security and concentrate its energies on growth of its economy and development of its people by being a part of a security network as Poland has done. Neutrality is a strategic fantasy and not maintainable. Poland realized that. And as Poland and India raise their ties to a strategic level, New Delhi should realize that too and deepen its contact with Poland. The second takeaway from the Polish presidency is the engagement of three Civil Societies which include think tanks, development organisations, human rights defenders and so on. The think tanks enrich government policies, and others become a kind of conscience keeper, enhance people to people contact and so on. The shrinking civil society space and non-involvement think tanks does not augur well for India. New Delhi needs to realise that foreign policy making needs multiple intellectual inputs. It could no longer be an exclusive and elitist domain of a few. The writer is Prof of Practice, NIIS Group of Institutions @INFA

AI wars Sir, The battle for AI supremacy is heating up, with Microsoft sharply criticizing Apple's newly introduced 'AI General,' calling it nonsensical and lacking real innovation. Once a pioneer, the iPhone maker now appears to be falling behind in the rapidly evolving AI race. In a bid to catch up, Apple is reportedly eyeing a major acquisition—AI search startup Perplexity—to regain its footing. As tech titans jostle for control of the future, the clash highlights both the fierce competition and the widening gap between those leading the AI revolution and those scrambling to stay relevant. Leadership crisis Sir, The Congress high command's apparent indifference towards state-level politics is proving to be a major setback for the party. The inability to consolidate its position even in winnable states has pushed Congress into one of its most challenging phases. After the debacle in Haryana and Maharashtra, the situation in Delhi appears equally grim, with the state unit functioning under an interim president. The lack of a permanent leader, with Assembly elections just two months away, reflects the party's unpreparedness. RS Narula, PATIALA

Touching chariot rope Sir, During the world-famous Rath Yatra in Odisha, devotees try to touch the chariot rope carrying the deities. What could be the reason? It is believed that the Lord himself comes down to the human level to show and tell them that he is like any of his devotees. Simple love and faith can make any devotee witness the supreme power of the Lord's divinity. Such is the love of Lord Jagannath that there are many rituals which show how pure love is enough for the Lord to descend from his pedestal just to bless his devotees! It is believed that the chariot is the embodiment of the Lord himself, while the soul lies inside the deities placed on the chariots. This is one of the occasions when the Lord chooses to merge with the masses and gives them a way to reach out to him—therefore, they touch him and feel his blessings. Anandambal Subbu, MUMBAI

Youth crushed under chariot wheel, dies

Berhampur, June 27: A tragic accident occurred at Sikula village under Purushottampur police limits in Ganjam district as a youth was crushed to death under the wheels of a chariot during Rath Yatra. The deceased has been identified as 32-year-old Shibaram Behera. According to eyewitnesses, Behera accidentally slipped and fell under the moving chariot. One of its massive wheels rolled over him, causing severe injuries. Local residents immediately rescued him and rushed him to the CHC in Purushottampur for emergency treatment. He was later referred to MKCG Medical College and Hospital in Berhampur. However, he succumbed to his injuries on the way.

Constable suspended for deceiving woman

Berhampur, June 27: A police constable has been suspended here following allegations that he sexually exploited a woman for several years under false pretence. The accused identified as Manoranjan Sethi has been transferred to the reserve office pending further investigation. In her complaint, the survivor alleges that Sethi coerced her into a physical relationship while she and her family were staying at his residence. The constable reportedly used his position and authority to intimidate her and made repeated false promises, allegedly maintaining the relationship over an extended period. Approximately seven to eight months ago, Sethi was transferred to Digapahandi, after which he allegedly began avoiding the woman and severed all contact with her. The woman subsequently lodged a formal complaint with the Berhampur Town police station, accusing Sethi of deception and exploitation. While police registered a case based on her complaint, no immediate action was taken at the time. Eventually, the woman approached Berhampur SP Dr Saravana Vivek M, seeking justice. Following her appeal, the SP ordered the constable's suspension. Police have confirmed that an investigation is ongoing and that further legal action, including arrest, will be taken if sufficient evidence is found to support the allegations. Meanwhile, the suspended constable has denied the charges, calling those entirely false.

Juang man killed in tusker attack

Keonjhar, June 27: A 60-year-old man from Juang tribal community was killed in an elephant attack in the forested region of Kulanga Balangisahi under the Bimala forest beat of Telkoi range in Keonjhar district. The deceased has been identified as Dhaneshwar Juang, a resident of Kulanga Balangisahi village under Raisuan panchayat in Telkoi block. According to reports, the incident took place Friday when Dhaneshwar had taken his livestock to the fringes of the Jharabeda reserve forest near Jhinka Dari for grazing. A rogue tusker, which was separated from its herd, lifted him with its trunk, slammed him on the ground, and then trampled him to death on the spot. Hearing his screams, locals rushed to the scene and managed to drive the elephant away. However, by the time they reached, Dhaneshwar had already succumbed to his injuries. Forest department officials from Telkoi range later arrived at the spot to investigate. According to officials, the tusker retreated into the Jharabeda forest after the attack. The incident has once again highlighted the growing conflict between humans and wildlife in the region.

Bhitarkanika facelift on cards to boost tourism

Tourism Secretary Balwant Singh has undertaken a two-day visit surveying Bhitarkanika and its entry points

Rajnagar, June 27: Bhitarkanika, Odisha's first national park and one of the state's most celebrated natural attractions, is set for a makeover in order to provide a fillip to tourism. Despite its rich ecological wealth, Bhitarkanika National Park's tourism infrastructure has lagged behind other popular destinations in Odisha. Successive governments have announced plans for its development, but work never fully took off. Now, the state government has planned to make Bhitarkanika a premier ecotourism destination. Following Chief Minister Mohan Charan Ma-ji's recent announcement for its development, Tourism Secretary Balwant Singh has spent two days surveying Bhitarkanika and its entry points. Singh visited Bhitarkanika and surrounding areas to assess the park's current condition. According to official sources, the state will soon prepare a master plan to revamp the park and allocate necessary funding. In addition to Bhitarkanika, Singh is set to visit near spots like Gupti, Khola, Chandbali and Dhamara. The purpose of the tour is to evaluate available government land and plan potential tourism projects across these locations. A detailed master plan is expected to be drafted shortly to kick start development work. With the increasing number of tourists visiting Pentha beach, a Blue Flag beach will be developed there, officials said. Jetties will also be constructed at Gupti, Khola, Dangamal, Bhitarkanika, Chandbali, Jaynagar Ghat and Kasturikana. At Dangamal's creek area a footpath will be made with paver blocks, and a similar entry gate will be built at the Dangamal entry point. An interpretation centre and food court will also come up, along with a parking lot near Aranya Nivas, the forest rest house. The district administration has been directed to submit a report detailing the availability of government land at these sites to support the planned infrastructure development. DFO Sudarshan Gopinath Yadav, ADM Manas Kumar Das, Eastern Division Superintendent Engineer Ratikanta Behera, Assistant Executive Engineer Krupasindhu Dhal, Assistant Engineer Biswa Ranjan Swain and other officials have inspected these sites over a two-day visit.

New Delhi, June 27: Indian Defence Minister Rajnath Singh told his Chinese counterpart that the two countries should seek a "permanent solution" to their decades-old border dispute, in a new push for a conclusive outcome.

Singh met China's Dong Jun on the sidelines of the meeting of the defence ministers of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) in Qingdao Thursday and stressed on solving issues between the countries through a structured roadmap, India's defence ministry said in a statement Friday. "Singh also stressed on border management and to have a permanent solution of border demarcation by rejuvenating the established mechanism on the issue," the statement said, referring to the border talks process between the Asian giants.

New Delhi's stress on a permanent solution is considered significant as India has in the past generally used phrases such as seeking an early resolution to the dispute.

Beijing says the border dispute should not affect the larger relationship and differences should be managed properly until a mutually acceptable solution is found through dialogue.

There was no Chinese defence ministry statement yet on the meeting and its foreign ministry did not immediately respond to a request for comment on India's statement.

The world's two most populous nations - both nuclear powers - share a 3,800 km (2,400 mile), largely undemarcated and disputed border in the Himalayas and have gone to war over it.

Although the frontier has been mostly peaceful in recent decades, a deadly clash between their troops in 2020 resulted in the deaths of 20 Indian and four Chinese soldiers.

The clash led to a four-year military standoff with both armies deploying tens of thousands of troops in the mountains until they reached a pact in October to step back, leading to a thaw in ties.

During his meeting with Dong, Singh also called for bridging the trust deficit created after the 2020 standoff, New Delhi said.

The defence ministers agreed to continue consultations to achieve progress on "disengagement, de-escalation, border management and eventual de-limitation", the statement added.

Beijing and New Delhi have continued to mend ties and said this month that they have agreed to expedite the resumption of direct air services, which were suspended after the 2020 clash, and step up communication.

SCO is a 10-nation Eurasian security and political grouping whose members include China, Russia, India, Pakistan, and Iran. Their defence ministers' meeting was held as a precursor to the annual summit of its leaders set for the autumn.

The SCO defence ministers were unable to adopt a joint statement at the end of their meeting due to a lack of consensus on referring to "terrorism", India said Thursday.

Punjab Police busts Pak ISI-backed BKI terror module, nabs 3

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chandigarh, June 27: Punjab Police Friday said they have busted a Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI)-backed terror module named Babbar Khalsa International after nabbing three people, including a juvenile.

Sehajpal Singh and Vikramjit Singh, both residents of Ramdas in Amritsar, have been arrested, while a 17-year-old boy has been nabbed during the intelligence-led operation carried out by State Special Operation Cell (SSOC), Mohali.

Punjab police chief Gaurav Yadav claimed the group was conspiring to carry out attacks on police establishments and targeted killings in the Amritsar area. "A major terror plot has been foiled, saving countless innocent lives," the director general of police (DGP) said.

In a post on X, he said, "In an intelligence-led operation, the SSOC, Mohali has successfully busted a Pak ISI-backed Babbar Khalsa International terror module being operated by UK-based Nishan Singh and Pakistan-based terrorist Harwinder Rinda. Three associates, including a juvenile, have been arrested."

"During the operation, two hand grenades, one pistol, and ammunition were recovered. The nabbed accused have been identified as Sehajpal Singh and Vikramjit Singh, both residents of Ramdas in Amritsar Rural, along with a juvenile," he said. An FIR has been registered under the relevant sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita and the Explosives Act at SSOC, Mohali, Police Station.

The investigation is ongoing and more arrests are expected, the DGP added. Meanwhile, the AIG of SSOC-Mohali, Ravjot Grewal, said that during questioning, Sehajpal Singh revealed that he was working on the one Lovepreet Singh of Pairewal village in Amritsar who was lodged in the Ferozpur Jail.

Following the disclosure, police teams have brought Lovepreet to SSOC, Mohali, on production warrant, she said. Grewal also said interrogation revealed that Lovepreet instructed Sehajpal who roped in Vikramjit to retrieve and transport the recovered arms and explosives.

A Punjab police statement mentioned that Lovepreet, a known criminal with multiple cases registered against him under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, and Explosive Substances Act, as well as an attempt to murder, played a pivotal role in mobilising and directing ground-level operations.

Grewal said the seized hand grenades were meant to be used in a targeted explosion with the specific location and timing to be conveyed later by the handlers abroad. The recovery Glock pistol that has been recovered was intended to be used in the targeted killing of rival gang members, she said.

DGP Yadav said the Punjab Police remains fully committed to dismantling terror networks, eliminating organised crime, and safeguarding peace, safety, and harmony across the state.

CM Mamata inaugurates 1st Rath Yatra from new Digha Jagannath temple

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Digha, June 27: West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday inaugurated the first 'Rath Yatra' from the newly constructed Jagannath temple in the coastal town of Digha.

Amidst chants of 'Joy Jagannath' by thousands of pilgrims, the CM along with her cabinet colleagues pulled the ropes of the chariots of Lord Jagannath and his two siblings — Balabhadra and Subhadra — this afternoon.

She appealed through a public address system that the devotees could touch the ropes of all three chariots from inside the barricades along the 750-metre procession route from the main temple to the sibling deities' aunt's place. On Thursday, the CM had made it clear that none would be allowed to spill onto the street to pull the ropes of the chariots of the sibling deities.

Earlier in the afternoon, Banerjee swept the road before the three chariots with a golden broom and offered 'arati' to the deities in a traditional ritual. A group of children of ISKCON devotees from abroad performed to music by Madhab's rock band, drawing applause from the crowd.

CONVOY DEATH CASE

AP HC grants relief to Jagan

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Amaravati, June 27: Andhra Pradesh High Court Friday restrained the police from taking coercive action against YSRCP chief YS Jagan Mohan Reddy until July 1 over the death of a party supporter during his recent roadshow.

The High Court gave the same relief to others as well, who were named as accused in the case and it includes, YSRCP Rajya Sabha member YV Subba Reddy and former ministers, Ambati Rambabu and V Rajini. On June 18, Reddy visited Rentapalla village in Palnadu district to visit the family members of a party leader who had died by suicide a year ago due to alleged harassment by TDP leaders and police.

On his way towards the village, C Singayya, a supporter of YSRCP, allegedly fell under the wheels of a vehicle in which Reddy travelled and succumbed to his injuries. Police booked the former chief minister and others over Singayya's death. Police named the vehicle driver as Accused-1 and Jagan as Accused-2. Later, the YSRCP supreme filed a petition in the High Court to quash the FIR against him. Jagan's counsel P Sudhakar Reddy said that the Andhra Pradesh High Court has adjourned the case to July 1, and until then, it has restrained police from taking any coercive action against the former chief minister.

India bans importing certain textile from B'desh

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 27: India Friday banned imports of certain jute products and woven fabrics from Bangladesh through all land routes amid strained relations between the two countries.

However, imports are allowed only through Nhava Sheva seaport in Maharashtra, the Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT) said in a notification. The goods under these curbs include jute products, flax tow and waste, jute and other bast fibres, jute, single flax yarn, single yarn of jute, multiple folded, woven fabrics or flex, and unbleached woven fabrics of jute.

Such port restrictions will not apply to Bangladeshi goods transiting through India to Nepal and Bhutan, it added. It further said re-exports of these products from Bangladesh to India through Nepal and Bhutan will not be allowed.

"Import from Bangladesh shall not be allowed from any land port on the India-Bangladesh border. However, it is allowed only through Nhava Sheva seaport," the DGFT said, adding that "imports of certain goods from Bangladesh to India are regulated with immediate effect".

Earlier in April and May, India announced similar curbs on imports from Bangladesh. On May 17, India imposed port restrictions on the import of certain goods like readymade garments and processed food items, from the neighbouring country. On April 9, India withdrew the transshipment facility it had granted to Bangladesh for exporting various items to the Middle East, Europe and various other countries except Nepal and Bhutan.

These measures were announced against the backdrop of the controversial statements made by the head of Bangladesh's interim government Muhammad Yunus in China. The comments did not go down well in New Delhi. It also drew sharp reactions from political leaders in India across party lines. India-Bangladesh relations have nosedived dramatically after Yunus failed to contain attacks on minorities, especially Hindus.

Droughts linked to rise in sexual violence in poor nations: Study

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 27: Extreme, prolonged droughts, sometimes lasting up to over three years, in low- and middle-income countries can worsen social vulnerabilities indirectly, increasing levels of sexual violence against girl teenagers and women, a study has found.

Researchers, including those from Curtin University, Australia, said the findings emphasise how climate change can have a negative impact on women who have to travel long distances for water, are sometimes forced to migrate for resources and are encouraged to marry early as a downstream effect.

The study, published in the journal PLOS Global Public Health, analysed survey responses of over 35,000 women, aged 13-24, from across 14 countries in south America, sub-Saharan Africa and southeast Asia. Data for the 'Violence Against Children and Youth Surveys' was collected during 2013-2019.

"The analysis revealed that exposure to prolonged and extreme drought, lasting 8-43 months in a 48-month period (four years), was associated with higher odds of sexual violence," the authors wrote. "Very dry periods are also associated with increased odds of experiencing sexual violence," they said.

Evidence emerging from previous studies has suggested a relation between extreme weather events and an increase in domestic violence. An October 2024 study, published in the journal PLOS Climate, analysed national level data of 156 countries and found that extreme weather events, such as storms, landslides and floods, can increase intimate partner violence over the two years following the events.

This study is the first to provide a population-level analysis specifically of sexual violence against young women and girl teenagers, the authors said.

vulnerable to environment-related stress, as droughts can impact livelihoods and resources.

This can increase risk of sexual violence because of having to rely on distant water sources, requiring migration and encouraging early marriages to preserve scant household resources, the team said.

Citing a qualitative study conducted in Indonesia and Peru, the authors said that the women participants also categorise the extreme burdens due to water insecurity as a form of violence, which can result in adverse sexual and reproductive health. The team looked at individuals with and without a partner, thereby broadening the scope to understand how droughts can increase violence outside of intimate relationships, they said.

"These results underscore the need for comprehensive strategies that address drought's immediate environmental and economic impacts and the broader social and health consequences," the authors wrote.

Naked, tied-up: 42 rescued from Noida old-age home

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Noida, June 27: Forty-two elderly people were rescued from an "illegal" old-age home after a police raid at the institution found some women tied up, many residents without clothes and others in "basement-like" rooms, officials said.

During a raid conducted Thursday in the presence of members from the Uttar Pradesh State Women Commission and the State Welfare Department, the old-age home was found in a deplorable condition, they said.

Meenakshi Bharala, a women's commission member, said the Anand Niketan Vridha Seva Ashram at C-5, Sector 55, Noida was an illegal old-age home. "During the raid, an elderly woman was found tied up while other elderly people were locked in basement-like rooms," she said.

Oppn slams Hosabale's call on Preamble

RSS general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale, while addressing an event on Emergency said, "The Preamble to the Constitution Baba Saheb Ambedkar made never had these words. During Emergency, when fundamental rights were suspended, Parliament did not work, the judiciary became lame, then these words were added"

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 27: The Congress and other Opposition parties Friday slammed RSS general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale's call for a national debate on whether the terms 'secular' and 'socialist' should remain in the Preamble, terming it "political opportunism" and a "deliberate assault" on the soul of the Constitution.

As Hosabale's strong pitch for a review of the two words inserted in the Preamble of the Constitution during the Emergency days (1975-77) kicked up a political row, an article published in an RSS-linked magazine Organiser said it is not about dismantling the Constitution but about restoring its "original spirit", free from the "distortions" of the Congress' Emergency-era policies.

Union minister Jitendra Singh and senior BJP leader sought to defend the call by the second senior most functionary of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), saying any right-thinking citizen will endorse it because everybody knows that these words were not part of the original Constitution written by Dr B R Ambedkar.

Addressing an event Thursday in connection with the 50th anniversary of the imposition of Emergency, Hosabale said, "The preamble of the Constitution Baba Saheb Ambedkar made never had these words. During the Emergency, when fundamental rights were suspended, Parliament did not work, judiciary became lame, then these words were added."

"The Preamble is eternal. Are the thoughts of socialism as an ideology eternal for India?" said Hosabale, who was also imprisoned during the Emergency. While the Congress saw Hosabale's remarks as a "deliberate assault" on the soul of the Constitution and claimed the RSS-BJP had never accepted Ambedkar's Constitution, the CPI(M) said the demand exposes the RSS' long-standing objective of subverting it. The RSS is the ideological mentor of the BJP.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said the mask of the RSS has come off again as they want 'Manusmriti'. "The Constitution irks them because it speaks of equality, secularism, and justice," he said in a post in Hindi on X.

CPI(M) leader and Kerala chief minister Pinarayi Vijayan said Hosabale's call is a "brazen attempt to dismantle the core ideals of our Republic".

The Left parties and RJD alleged that Hosabale's proposal was part of a conspiracy to change the Constitution. Congress general secretary in-charge communications Jairam Ramesh said the BJP/RSS attacked Ambedkar, Nehru, and others involved in the framing of the Constitution from November 30, 1949, onwards. "In the RSS' own words, the Constitution was not inspired by Manusmriti," he said in a post on X.

In a post on X from its official handle, the Congress alleged the RSS-BJP's ideology stands in direct opposition to the Indian Constitution.

"RSS General Secretary Dattatreya Hosabale has openly called for the removal of the words 'socialist' and 'secular' from the Preamble. This is not just a suggestion -- it is a deliberate assault on the soul of our Constitution," it said.

RJD president Lalu Prasad, who claimed that social justice and communal harmony are his guiding principles, voiced his anguish on X by terming the RSS a "casteist" outfit.

"They do not have the guts to cast an evil eye on the Constitution and reservations provided therein. Why are people with an unjust character so full of hatred for democracy and Babasaheb Ambedkar's Constitution?"

In a statement, the CPI(M) Politburo said the inclusion of 'socialism' and 'secularism' in the Preamble is not an arbitrary addition and reflects the core values for which freedom fighters sacrificed their lives.

CPI General Secretary D Raja said everyone knows what RSS wants. "Everyone knows it is opposed to Constitution/why they spoke of '400-paar' and that is why defending constitution became the central issue for opposition parties."

Citing the Constituent Assembly debate on the issue, the Organiser weekly stressed that Hosabale's call resonates with the democratic principles championed by B R Ambedkar and the Constituent Assembly, which rejected a proposal to describe India as a "secular, federal, socialist Union of States" in 1948.

Talking to reporters in Jammu, Minister Jitendra Singh said, "I think any right-thinking citizen will endorse it because everybody knows that it was not part of the original Constitution written by Dr Ambedkar and the team."

SC stays enhanced payout in defence project near LAC

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 27: The Supreme Court Friday stayed an order that enhanced the compensation awarded for acquiring 537 acre of land for the establishment of a defence-related project near the India-China border in Arunachal Pradesh.

A bench of Justices K V Viswanathan and N Kotiswar Singh passed the direction while hearing a plea filed by the Centre and others challenging a March 2025 order of the Itanagar bench of the Gauhati High Court. The Centre told the bench that compensation to the beneficiaries was already paid and the land was acquired but subsequently, one person, on the strength of a power of attorney, filed a reference case.

It said the earlier compensation awarded was around ₹70 crore for all beneficiaries, but it was increased to over ₹410 crore by the additional district and sessions judge in the reference case in October 2024.

The Centre argued in the apex court that the reference was based on a "fraud" and the person had "fabricated power of attorney" of over 100 persons. It said the government had approached the high court seeking a stay on the operation of the order passed in the reference case.

The Centre said the high court had directed that order passed in the reference case shall stand stayed subject to the condition that 50 per cent of the enhanced amount awarded be deposited within

The top court observed the Centre's counsel argued in the high court that the government was ready to deposit 10 per cent as security deposit but there should be no order for withdrawal of the disbursement until the disposal of the appeal.

"Issue notice to the respondents. There shall be a stay of operation of the impugned order on condition that the petitioner (Centre), as undertaken by them (before the high court), deposit 10 per cent of the enhanced amount in the registry of the high court within four weeks from today," the bench said. The court further stayed the October 2024 order of the reference court and posted the matter August 18. When the bench asked if the Centre had paid the undisputed amount, the counsel said, "Yes. ₹70 crore was paid."

Raj, Uddhav to protest against Hindi 'imposition', language policy

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, June 27: Estranged cousins Uddhav and Raj Thackeray will unite for the cause of the Marathi language, as their parties will stage a joint protest against the "imposition" of Hindi and the state government's three-language formula for Classes 1-5.

The protest July 5 will bring Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray and Maharashtra Navnirman Sena (MNS) president Raj Thackeray on the same platform. Both leaders had asserted Thursday that they would vehemently oppose the imposition of Hindi and the three-language formula while addressing separate press conferences at the same time.

Uddhav had announced to join a protest by civil society at Azad Maidan July 7, while Raj declared that he would take out a non-political march from Girgaum Chowpatty July 6, and would invite leaders of all political outfits, including the Shiv Sena (UBT).

Talking to reporters Friday, Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Sanjay Raut said Raj invited him to take part in the July 6 protest. He said Uddhav immediately consented to be part of the protest but raised concerns that Ashadhi Eka-dashi, which is celebrated across the state with much fanfare, falls July 6, and it would be inconvenient for everyone. Raut said the Sena (UBT) chief suggested a joint protest by both parties July 5, and Raj also consented to it.

There has been a buzz about a possible rapprochement between the Thackeray cousins, and the language issue may prove to be the platform they need to put up a united front.

The Rajya Sabha MP said that the two cousins feel there should be a fight similar to the one put up during the Samyukt

Maharashtra movement for the formation of the state in 1960, and the Thackerays should lead it. "Similar attacks are now taking place to break Mumbai and drive the Marathi mannos out of Maharashtra," Raut said. He said other politi-

MNS Mumbai president Sandeep Deshpande said, "As a Marathi mannos, I am happy for the way Raj saheb took the lead for Marathi mannos, and it was reciprocated by Uddhav saheb." Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis has made it clear that Hindi is optional while Marathi is compulsory.

The row erupted after the state government last week issued an amended order stating Hindi will "generally" be taught as the third language to students in Marathi and English medium schools from Classes 1 to 5. According to the order, if 20 students per grade in a school wish to study any other Indian language, they can opt out of Hindi. If such a demand arises, either a teacher will be appointed, or the language will be taught online.

School Education Minister Dada Bhuse has said that there will be no books for Classes 1 and 2. The medium of instruction will be oral, and students of these two grades will be taught songs and shown pictures.

Wintour resigns as editor of US Vogue

Washington: Magazine legend Anna Wintour stepped down as editor of US Vogue Thursday after 37 years during which she was often hailed as the single most influential figure in the fashion world. Wintour, 75, was famous for making Vogue's front covers an authoritative statement on contemporary fashion, and for her total control over the glamorous pages inside. She will no longer run day-to-day editing of the fashion bible, but magazine group owner Conde Nast was quick to scotch suggestions of retirement. She will continue to hold senior roles at the group and remain Vogue's global editorial director. Hamas battling to survive

The Islamist group faces defiant clans and doubts over Iran

REUTERS

Cairo, June 27: Short of commanders, deprived of much of its tunnel network and unsure of support from its ally Iran, Hamas is battling to survive in Gaza in the face of rebellious local clans and relentless Israeli military pressure.

Hamas fighters are operating autonomously under orders to hold out as long as possible but the Islamist group is struggling to maintain its grip as Israel openly backs tribes opposing it, three sources close to Hamas said. With a humanitarian crisis in Gaza intensifying international pressure for a ceasefire, Hamas badly needs a pause in the fighting, one of the people said.

Not only would a ceasefire offer respite to weary Gazans, who are growing increasingly critical of Hamas, but it would also allow the Islamist group to crush rogue elements, including some clans and looters who have been stealing aid, the person said.

To counter the immediate threat, Hamas has sent some of its top fighters to kill one rebellious leader, Yasser Abu Shabab, but so far he has remained beyond their reach in the Rafah area held by Israeli troops, according to two Hamas sources and two other sources familiar with the situation.

Reuters spoke to 16 sources including people close to Hamas, Israeli security sources and diplomats who painted a picture of a severely weakened group, retaining some sway and operational capacity in Gaza despite its setbacks, but facing stiff challenges.

Hamas is still capable of landing blows: it killed seven Israeli soldiers in an attack in southern Gaza Tuesday. But three diplomats in the Middle East said intelligence assessments showed it had lost its

An Israeli military official estimated Israel had killed 20,000 or more Hamas fighters and destroyed or rendered unusable hundreds of miles of tunnels under the coastal strip. Much of Gaza has been turned to rubble in 20 months of conflict.

One Israeli security source said the average age of Hamas fighters was "getting lower by the day". Israeli security sources say Hamas is recruiting from hundreds of thousands of impoverished, unemployed, displaced young men.

Hamas does not disclose how many of its fighters have died. "They're hiding because they are being instantly hit by planes but they appear here and there, organising queues in front of bakeries, protecting aid trucks, or punishing criminals," said Essam, 57 a construction worker in Gaza City. Hamas is a shadow of the group that attacked Israel in 2023, killing 1,200 people and taking another 251 hostage, according to Israeli tallies. Israel's offensive has killed more than 56,000 people, according to Gaza health authorities.

Beirut, June 27: Israel's air force carried out intense airstrikes on mountains overlooking a southern city in Lebanon Friday, in an attack that the Israeli military said targeted underground assets of the Hezbollah militant group.

Shortly afterward, an apartment building in the nearby city of Nabatieh was struck, killing one woman, wounding 11 and knocking out the building's top floor, according to Lebanon's state news agency.

The state-run National News Agency reported that the woman killed lived in Germany and had come back to Lebanon less than a month earlier to visit family. It wasn't immediately clear if she was a German citizen. The woman's apartment was hit by an Israeli drone strike, according to the report.

said that climate modelling had shown that "this type of event, marked by precipitation in the Atacama desert, will likely become more frequent."

The Atacama, home to the world's darkest skies, has for decades been the go-to location for the world's most advanced telescopes. The ALMA telescope, which was developed by the European Southern Observatory, the US National Radio Astronomy Observatory and the National Astronomical Observatory of Japan, is widely recognized as being the most powerful.

The Israeli army, in a statement posted on X, denied targeting a civilian building. The statement said the building was hit by a Hezbollah rocket that had been stored at another location that was targeted by an airstrike and "launched, and exploded as a result." It blamed Hezbollah for storing weapons near residential areas.

Since the 14-month Israel-Hezbollah war ended with a US-brokered ceasefire in November, Israel has carried out almost daily airstrikes on southern Lebanon. Friday's strikes were more intense than usual.

Israeli army said that it identified rehabilitation attempts by Hezbollah beforehand and struck infrastructure sites in the area.

Japan hangs 'Twitter killer' in first execution since '22

Tokyo: Japan executed a man Friday who killed nine people after contacting them on social media, the first use of capital punishment in the country in nearly three years. Takahiro Shiraishi had been sentenced to death for his 2017 strangling and dismembering of eight women and one man in his apartment in Zama city in Kanagawa near Tokyo. He was dubbed the "Twitter killer" as he contacted victims via the social media platform. Justice Minister Keisuke Suzuki, who authorised Shiraishi's hanging, said he made the decision after careful examination, taking into account the convict's "extremely selfish" motive for crimes that "caused great shock and unrest to society." It followed the execution in July 2022 of a man who went on a stabbing rampage in Tokyo's shopping district Akihabara in 2008.

Norwegian crown princess' son faces rape charges

Oslo: Oslo police Friday announced charges against Marius Borg Hoiby, the eldest son of Norway's crown princess, on multiple counts including rape, sexual assault and bodily harm after a months-long investigation of a case that involved a "double-digit" number of alleged victims. Hoiby, the son of Crown Princess Mette-Marit and stepson of the heir to the throne, Crown Prince Haakon, has been under scrutiny since he was repeatedly arrested in 2024 amid allegations of rape and on preliminary charges of bodily harm and criminal damage. Evidence in the case was drawn from sources including text-messages, witness testimonies and police searches, the police attorney said. The charges included one case of rape involving intercourse and two cases of rape without intercourse, four cases of sexual assault and two cases of bodily harm, he said.

The best that Bezos' money can buy: Wedding for ages in Venice

Dozens of private jets touched down at Venice's airport as yachts pulled into the city's famed waterways. Aboard were athletes, celebrities, influencers and business leaders, converging to revel in extravagance that is as much a testament to the couple's love as to their extraordinary wealth

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Venice, June 27: The Italian city of Venice was making waves Friday with the most anticipated wedding of 2025 — that of billionaire Jeff Bezos and his fiancée Lauren Sánchez. The sky itself is no limit for this couple who has travelled into space, and expectations are about as high.

One of the world's most enchanting cities as backdrop? Check. Star-studded guestlist and tabloid buzz? Of course. Local flavour? You bet.

Beyond that, the team of the world's fourth-richest man has kept details under wraps. Still, whispers point to events spread across the lagoon city, adding complexity to what would have been a massive logistical undertaking even on dry land.

The heady hoopla recalled the 2014 wedding in Venice of actor George Clooney to human rights lawyer Amal Alamuddin, when adoring crowds lined the canals and hundreds of well-wishers gathered outside City Hall.

Not so for these nuptials, which have become a lightning rod for protests.

Still, any desire to dampen the prevailing fever pitch has yet to materialise. Instead, the glitterati were set to party, and the paparazzi jostling for glimpses of the gilded gala.

Whatever happens, it will be a wedding for the ages.

Logistics and costs Venice is famed for its network of canals, where gondoliers croon for lovestruck couples and even ambulances are aquatic. But water transport of everything from bouquets to guests makes Venice among the world's most challenging cities for a party, according to Jack Ezon, CEO of luxury travel advisory and event planner

Embark Beyond.

"It's a very tight-knit community; everyone there knows everyone, and you need to work with the right people," said Ezon, whose company has put on a dozen high-end events in Venice. "There's very tight control, especially on movement there with boats."

It at least triples the cost versus staging the same soiree in Rome or Florence, he said.

Veneto Gov Luca Zaia was first to give an estimated tally for the Bezos/Sánchez bash: He told reporters this week the most recent total he saw was between 40 and 48 million euros (up to $56 million).

It's an eye-popping, jaw-dropping figure that's over 1,000 times the $36,000 average cost of American couples' weddings in 2025, according to wedding planning website Zola's annual report.

Bezos' team has been tight-lipped about where these millions are going. When the youngest son of Asia's richest man married last July, performances by pop stars Rihanna and Justin Bieber pushed up the price tag.

"How do you spend $40 million on a three- or four-day event?" Ezon said. "You

Widespread backlash from activist groups

Amazon founder Jeff Bezos and media personality Lauren Sánchez's opulent wedding festivities in Venice this weekend have ignited widespread backlash from activist groups accusing the billionaire couple of deepening economic divides and disrespecting the city's residents. A coalition of roughly a dozen Venetian organisations including social housing advocates, university groups, and campaigners against cruise ships have rallied together to oppose the multi-day wedding celebration. Under the slogan "No Space for Bezos," a play on Sánchez's recent journey to space, demonstrators staged symbolic protests throughout Venice. Earlier this week, Greenpeace and the UK group "Everyone Hates Elon", known for smashing Teslas in protest against Elon Musk-joined forces to hang a massive banner in St. Mark's Square that read: "IF YOU CAN RENT VENICE FOR YOUR WEDDING YOU CAN PAY MORE TAX." The banner, which depicted Bezos's face prominently, was swiftly removed by police.

could bring headliners, A-list performers, great DJs from anywhere in the world. You could spend $2 million on an incredible glass tent that's only there for 10 hours, but it takes a month to build," or expand the celebration to local landmarks.

On Thursday, a string of water taxis cut through the lagoon to bring Bezos, Sánchez and guests to the Madonna dell'Orto cloister as some onlookers cheered. Paparazzi followed in their own boats, trying to capture guests on camera — Oprah Winfrey, Kim Kardashian, Ivanka Trump, Tom Brady, Orlando Bloom — as police on jet skis patrolled.

As Amazon's CEO, Bezos usually avoided the limelight, frequently delegating announcements and business updates to his executives. Today he has a net worth of $231 billion, according to Forbes.

$13.5bn current surplus

India's current account has seen a significant turnaround from previous deficits, driven by robust services exports and reduced primary income outgo. Increased remittances and strong service sector performance contributed to the entire fiscal year's performance

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, June 27: India posted a current account surplus of $13.5 billion or 1.3 per cent of GDP in March quarter 2024-25 as compared with $4.6 billion in the year-ago period mainly on account of surge in services exports and higher remittances, according to Reserve Bank of India (RBI) data released Friday.

However, on annual basis, the current account was in deficit at $23.3 billion (0.6 per cent of GDP) during 2024-25, said the 'India's Balance of Payments during the Fourth Quarter (January-March) of 2024-25' released by RBI.

"India's current account balance recorded a surplus of $13.5 billion (1.3 per cent of GDP) in Q4:2024-25 as compared with $4.6 billion (0.5 per cent of GDP) in Q4:2023-24 and against a deficit of $11.3 billion (1.1 per cent of GDP) in Q3:2024-25," RBI said.

Balance of Payments is an indicator of the country's external payment scenario. Merchandise trade deficit at $59.5 billion in Q4:2024-25 was higher than $52 billion in Q4:2023-24. However, it moderated from $79.3 billion in Q3:2024-25.

"Net services receipts increased to $53.3 billion in Q4:2024-25 from $42.7 billion a year ago. Services exports have risen on a y-o-y basis in major categories such as business services and computer services," RBI said.

Personal transfer receipts, mainly representing remittances by Indians employed overseas, rose to $33.9 billion in Q4:2024-25 from $31.3 billion in Q4:2023-24. It further said the net outgo on the primary income account, primarily reflecting payments of investment income, moderated to $11.9 billion in Q4:2024-25 from $14.8 billion in Q4:2023-24.

In the financial account, foreign direct investment (FDI) recorded a net inflow of $400 million in Q4:2024-25 as compared to an inflow of $2.3 billion in the corresponding period of 2023-24.

Foreign portfolio investment (FPI) recorded a net outflow of $5.9 billion in Q4:2024-25 as

As a percentage of the GDP, the external debt increased to 19.1 per cent at the end of the recently concluded financial year from 18.5 per cent a year ago, it added.

In a year which saw some volatilities in the currency markets, the RBI said the "valuation effect" due to the appreciation of the US dollar against the rupee and other currencies amounted to $5.3 billion, while if one were to exclude the valuation effect, external debt would have increased by $72.9 billion instead of $67.5 billion in the year. SEBI probes pump and dump scam

New Delhi: Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) Friday said it has seized incriminating evidence in the pump and dump scam involving shares of various companies during search operations conducted this month. Without disclosing specific details, the board said as part of probing the scam, search and seizure operations was carried out at multiple locations. In a pump and dump scheme, fraudsters typically spread false or misleading information to create a buying frenzy that will pump up the price of a stock and then dump shares of the stock by selling their own shares at the inflated price.

Cos across US cutting workforces

AGENCIES

Washington, June 27: US public companies have reduced their white-collar workforces by a collective 3.5 per cent over the past three years, according to employment data-provider Live Data Technologies. Over the past decade, one in five companies in the S&P 500 has shrunk.

The cuts go beyond typical cost-trimming and speak to a broader shift in philosophy. Adding talent, once a sign of surging sales and confidence in the future, now means leaders must be doing something wrong.

New technologies like generative artificial intelligence are allowing companies to do more with less. But there's more to this movement. From Amazon in Seattle to Bank of America in Charlotte, NC, and at companies big and small everywhere in between, there's a growing belief that having too many employees is itself an impediment. The message from many bosses: Anyone still on the payroll could be working harder.

Managers on the chopping block

The downsizing has caused employees to rapidly lose the leverage they enjoyed during the pandemic, when jobs were plentiful and companies were bidding up for white-collar talent. Even with AI advances on the horizon, many corporate leaders and labour economists have projected long-term shortages in both salaried and hourly jobs.

Managers have been an especially ripe target for cutting, though Live Data Technologies' data show public companies have pared back their non-managerial ranks recently, too. The number of managers dropped 6.1 per cent between May 2022 to May 2025. Executive-level roles fell 4.6 per cent.

Agents of change

Many companies are moving toward using more agentic AI, autonomous bots that can make decisions and complete tasks on behalf of humans, such as paying an invoice or rerouting inventory if a natural disaster interferes with a trucking route.

In 2024, Walmart recorded $681 billion in sales, an increase of 40per cent compared with 2014. "Many of today's jobs didn't exist just a few years ago, and we expect the pace of change to continue," Donna Morris, Walmart's chief people officer, said in a statement.

Five employees, $50 million in revenue

The leaner, meaner approach is trickling down to even the smallest start-ups. Jolie, which sells high-end filtered shower heads, is on track to make about $50 million in revenue this year. It has five employees.

CEO Ryan Babenzien, who previously sold a sneaker brand to Steve Madden, said he never considered head count a sign of success.

'Blue screen of death' will soon turn black

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seattle, June 27: Nearly every Windows user has had a run in with the infamous "Blue Screen of Death" at some point in their computing life. Now, after more than 40 years of being set against a very recognisable blue, the updated error message will soon be displayed across a black background.

The changes to the notorious error screen come as part of broader efforts by Microsoft to improve the resiliency of the Windows operating system in the wake of last year's CrowdStrike incident, which crashed millions of Windows machines worldwide.

"Now it's easier than ever to navigate unexpected restarts and recover faster," Redmond, Washington-based Microsoft wrote in a Wednesday announcement. As part of that effort, Microsoft says it's "streamlining" what users experience when encountering "unexpected restarts" that cause disruptions.

And that means a make over to the infamous error screen. Windows' new "screen of death" has a slightly shorter message. It's also no longer accompanied by a frowning face, and instead shows a percentage completed for the restart process.

Microsoft says this "simplified" user interface for unexpected restarts will be available later this summer on all of its Windows 11 (version 24H2) devices.

FROM BOUNDARY CATCHES TO CONCUSSION PROTOCOLS

ICC tweaks multiple rules

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dubai, June 27: The ICC Friday announced new playing conditions across formats including a minimum seven-day stand-down period for players diagnosed with concussion, trialling a new wide-ball rule in limited-overs cricket, besides changes with regards to boundary catches.

Cricket's global governing body said on its website that the new playing conditions for Tests were implemented with the start of the new World Test Championship cycle for 2025-2027 with Sri Lanka taking on Bangladesh in first Test at Galle from June 17-21.

The upcoming limited-overs series between the two countries will mark the start dates for new playing conditions for ODIs and T20Is.

Sri Lanka and Bangladesh will play a three-match ODI series from July 2 and then move on to a three-match T20I rubber from July 10. In context of concussion protocols, the ICC said there are two changes.

Teams will now have to nominate designated concussion replacements for every match, which is being brought in to curb the home team's advantage of being able to select from a larger group of players.

The ICC also announced a "minimum seven-day stand-down" period for any player diagnosed with concussion.

"A player diagnosed with a concussion during a match must observe a minimum stand-down period of a minimum of seven days before returning to play. This change has been recommended by the ICC Medical Advisory Committee to support players' safety and well-being," the ICC said.

The ICC said two new rules will be trialled by full members for a period of six months starting from October 2025. It includes a new wide-ball rule for ODIs and T20Is, and is being brought in to afford a degree of leniency to a bowler who sees batter moving around "prior or during" a delivery.

"The position of the batter's legs at the point of delivery will now be used as the reference point for a wide, even if the batter subsequently moves across to the off side," the ICC said.

"The trial will see a ball that passes the popping crease between the leg stump and the protected area marker not being called a wide. To help with this, the protected area marker line will be extended to the popping crease and act as a guide for the umpires."

Former South Africa captain

Shaun Pollock, the media representative of ICC's cricket committee, had told PTI in January this year that the governing body is "working on something" to give bowlers "a bit more leeway on wides."

"Any leg side delivery that passes behind the batter's legs and outside of the line at the time the ball reaches the popping crease may still be called a wide. Previously, a wide had been called for a delivery that would not have been called wide if the batter had retained their normal batting position," the ICC said.

Another rule to be trialled is for domestic First-Class cricket, in which teams can now name replacements for a player who suffers a "serious injury" after being picked in the XI.

"A player who suffers a serious injury on the field of play at any time after the match has started (including any pre-match warm-up period) may be replaced for the remainder of the match by a fully participating like-for-like player," the ICC said. For the DRS dismissals, the ICC said wicket zone will now be the actual outline of the stumps and balls.

The governing body has also announced other major changes like bringing in stop-clock in Test cricket, a change in rule for boundary catches, and a move back to having only one ball after the 34th-over mark in ODIs.

Star runner Twinkle suspended for doping

The latest suspension continues to add to the woes for the country, which has a poor doping record internationally

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 27: Multiple National Games medal-winning middle distance runner Twinkle Chaudhary has been provisionally suspended by Athletics Integrity Unit (AIU) after testing positive for a prohibited steroid.

The 28-year-old Chaudhary had clinched a gold in 4x400m women's relay competition at the Uttarakhand edition of the National Games earlier this year. She had also won a silver in the 800m race and a bronze in the 4x400m mixed relay.

Chaudhary tested positive for Methyltestosterone, a banned anabolic steroid.

In its update, the AIU stated that the runner has been issued a "notice of allegation". The next step would be a hearing in which Chaudhary will get a chance to explain herself.

Chaudhary, who hails from Jalandhar, set a new meet record with a time of 2:00.71sec in the 800m event of the 28th National Federation Senior Athletics Championships in Kochi in April. Earlier this month, she won an 800m silver medal at the Taiwan Open with a timing of 2:06.96s. In May, she had finished fourth in the same event during the Asian Athletics Championships in Gumi, South Korea.

In May, quarter-miler Sneha

Kolleri was suspended after testing positive for Stanazolol, also an anabolic steroid.

Kolleri was a member of the Indian contingent for the Asian Championship but had to be withdrawn after the failed dope test.

In the recently-released 2023 testing figures among countries which analysed 5,000 or more samples, India had the worst adverse findings rate of 3.8 per cent. Globally, 204,809 tests were conducted by the World Anti-Doping Agency in 2023, of which 1,820 came positive for banned drugs.

India's share of 214 accounted for over 11 per cent of the total number of offenders is the highest for any country.

The sports ministry has vowed to aggressively tackle the menace with vigorous awareness campaigns. An amended National Anti-Doping Act is also due to be tabled in the parliament after addressing concerns related to government interference, raised by WADA. The AIU upholds the rules on doping matters in athletics.

RONALDO'S MIND-BLOWING NEW CONTRACT WITH AL-NASSR

The football star extends contract with Al-Nassr for two more years

AGENCIES

Riyadh, June 27: Just weeks after suggesting that his Saudi Pro League adventure with Al-Nassr was over, Cristiano Ronaldo signed a new 2-year deal with the club, putting an end to all speculations of his potential return to European football.

Ronaldo, despite being the top scorer in the Saudi Pro League over the last couple of seasons, hasn't been able to win the league title yet. The club's underwhelming show even prevented it from qualifying for the FIFA Club World Cup.

The repeated failures with Al-Nassr seemed to have prompted Ronaldo to pursue the remainder of his career elsewhere, but a lot seems to have changed over the last week or so.

As Al Nassr took to social media to announce, "Cristiano Ronaldo is staying at @AlNassrFC until 2027," reports of the bumper contract that the Portuguese has signed also emerged.

According to reports, Ronaldo is set to earn 178 million pounds per year (approx 400 million euros or INR 2000 crore over the next two years), after signing a contract extension at Al-Nassr.
